MURRAY BACKS ZONING IDEA ON WINE AND BEER

WOULD HOLD STATES TO TRADE WITH KIND

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

"No retreat."

In the face of this 1932 battle cry of the drys, Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma last night outlined to the Antisaloon League a plan, evidently new, whereby wet and dry areas might be created in the United States.

Various "zones" or "leagues" would be formed by treaty, and would be composed—first, of those States that want beer; second, those that want wine; third, those that want medicinal liquor, and, fourth, of those that want to remain bone dry. No one zone could ship beverages into another.

If Alfalfa Bill's scheme was a bombshell in such a dry gathering, however, it was one without a fuse, for the Oklahoma governor was quick to say that he was merely pointing out what "could be done," and was not "offering any plan" as a solution for the present problem.

Called Possible Changes.

He said at the outset that he wanted to discuss "possible changes in the light of possible eventualities, of possible defeats, and of possible retreats."

In the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel, after the biennial banquet of the Antisaloon League, there was lively talk about Gov. Murray's speech.

There were some who, while they would not be quoted, expressed the opinion that it was a political speech; that Gov. Murray, in his eagerness to win the Democratic nomination for President, was trying to line up wets as well as drys.

Former Representative William D. Upshaw, of Georgia, now president of the National Christian Citizenship Foundation, characterized Gov. Murray's "zone" idea a "most unfortunate mental excursion."

"Well," said another dry, walking up to Mr. Upshaw, "he said he wouldn't ride into the White House on a beer keg, didn't he?"

Gov. Murray had made that remark in the course of his speech.

Varied From Manuscript.

Undoubtedly there would have been a greater reaction had Gov. Murray followed his prepared speech. As it was, he cast aside his manuscript and departed widely from the text. In the text, he went into detail concerning wet and dry "zones." In his actual speech, he simply outlined the idea.

The idea was received in a dead silence. Later on, former Representative Upshaw gave newspapermen this statement:

"It was most unfortunate that Gov. Murray, after declaring himself against repeal, should make a mental excursion discussing an eventuality. I fear it will be widely misinterpreted.

"I like and admire Gov. Murray, but I heartily wish that he had stuck to his original proposition and had not even considered any sort of retreat from the eighteenth amendment."

President Hoover Cheered.

Earlier in the day the Antisaloon League cohorts cheered President Hoover as a champion of the dry law and heard Bishop James Cannon, much-investigated Methodist divine, warn that "any Raskobian attempt to muzzle Southern ecclesiastics will meet with the same results as in 1928."

Bishop Cannon was credited with swinging Democratic Virginia to Hoover in the 1928 election.

His statement yesterday was in reply to the plea, voiced at the recent Jackson Day dinner by James M. Cox, that political ecclesiastics be called "back to their pulpits that truth may go to the Southern pepole."

Last night's banquet was held in the large ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel, the same room in which the Democrats cheered every denunciation of prohibition at their recent Jackson Day dinner.

The Rev. U. P. Brock, of Indianapolis, led the drys in singing "The Brewers Big Horses Can't Run Over

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt to be Governor General of the Philippine Islands.

The nomination of Lincoln Dixon, of Indiana, as a Democratic member of the Tariff Commission also was approved by the Senate, as was that of Robert H. Talley to be United States attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia.

2 Die in Red-Hitlerite Clash in Berlin Suburb

Conferees Will Act On Fiscal Bill Today

Senate Chooses Men to Seek Accord With House Group Over Two Main Points; Land Bank Measure Nears Last Hurdle.

(Associated Press.)

One business revival measure was nearly ready to go to the White House last night and the leader of them all—the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Corporation bill—was not far behind.

Late in the day the Senate sent it to conference and only the fact that the House had already adjourned prevented an attempt to have the first meeting of conferees last night. House action will get it to conference today.

The men named by the Senate and the House to reconcile differences on the Federal Land Bank's bill completed their job yesterday.

The sponsors of the bills are confident the two proposals urged by President Hoover to restore credit and confidence for farm and finance, will be ready for his signature within a few days.

The $125,000,000 land bank legislation will be up for final Senate approval today. Quick agreement on it in both houses is expected.

The Senate spent several hours in another futile attempt by Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, to extend the helping hand of the Reconstruction Corporation to cities and States.

His motion was defeated, 53 to 24, after debate on the pleas of Mayor Walker, of New York, and Mayor Curley, of Boston, for loans from the Federal corporation.

The Senate did add a provision by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, providing that in loaning money from a separate $50,000,000 fund for farmers to make crops this year, preference be given those whose crops failed in 1931.

Another amendment by Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, limiting loans from the Reconstruction Corporation to $100,000,000 to any

ANTISALOON LEADER FAVORS STATE VOTE

(Associated Press.)

The new head of the Antisaloon League sees no objection to a prohibition referendum if the vote is confined to the separate States and is not made Nation-wide.

Confident of the result, Bishop Ernest G. Richardson looks upon the polls of the voters by the various States as the best means of settling the issue of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Richardson is hea of the Philadelphia area of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"When a majority of the people in three-fourths of the States," he said yesterday, "favor repeal of the amendment, then let it go. That's the only constitutional way to proceed."

A national referendum to Richardson's mind would be "meaningless," no matter what the popular result because of the constitutional proviso requiring 36 States to vote for repeal before at could be accomplished.

He said he did not believe a majority of the people of the Nation would vote for repeal. But if they did or not, he added, it would not be fair to permit the voters in a dozen States to write the law for the entire Nation.

"If it had not been for the combining of the colonies on equal status we would have no United States today," he said, adding, "It's just as important to have equal representation of the States on the prohibition question as it is for them to have equal representation in the Senate."

"That's the foundation of our Government," he said.

Richardson said he believes every State "should settle its own problem" on national repeal through a referendum of its own citizens.

Saying he never before attended a meeting of the league, the new president asserted he was not acquainted with its activities and could make no promises as to future policies other than to urge "harmony of effort" with other prohibition organizations.

A stanch defender of the dry cause, he said he did not believe "too much" was being spent on enforcement and more funds should be used "if necessary."

GUN SHOT MAY KILL TELEPHONE WORKER

Felled by Bullet When He Seeks to Enter Auto; Assailant Flees.

A series of arguments was climaxed last night by the shooting of Temple Newell, 27 years old, of 2808 Twentieth street northeast, of the repair department of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., according to police. The man is in a grave condition at Sibley Hospital with a bullet wound in his stomach.

Police are seeking a man said to be Ward Lewis, of 1607 Kearney street northeast, in connection with the assault. Miss Elizabeth Thorn, 22 years old, of 3310 Twentieth street northeast, told police Lewis fired point-blank at Newell as he was preparing to enter his car, parked in front of her house.

Dissension between the two men started about 45 minutes earlier in front of a drug store at Twentieth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, police were told. At that time Lewis is said to have broken a cane over Newell's head and to have escaped in an automobile.

Witnesses said the pair met in the drug store and an argument started. When Lewis called Newell a name, the man retaliated by striking him across his mouth, according to police. Then followed the cane episode.

When Newell recovered from the dazing blow, police said, he remem-

Home Set Aflame In Colonial Beach

Second Try Against House of Mrs. Bowie Succeeds; $10,000 Loss.

Special to The Washington Post.

Colonial Beach, Va., Jan. 18.—After one unsuccessful attempt, a pyromaniac tonight succeeded in setting aflame the colonial home of Mrs. Charles W. Bowie, seven miles west of here, and burned it to the ground with a loss of about $10,000.

It was evident, authorities said, that someone had broken a rear window in the house, poured gasoline in the building and set it afire. Mrs. Bowie's daughter, son-in-law and a grandchild, who fled from the building, were unhurt.

Last Thursday a fire in the house was discovered and extinguished. It had been started by oil-soaked rags. Several weeks ago, the Wakefield Inn, owned by Mrs. Bowie's son, Charles, at Colonial Beach, was destroyed by an incendiary fire. An individual who has a grudge against the family is suspected, police said.

WAR VETERANS AGREE TO HALT PENSION FIGHT

White House Is Notified Demands Will Not Be Pressed.

$200,000,000 BILL WOULD AID WIDOWS

Year Delay Held Dictated by Patriotism of Leading Organizations.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Yielding to the insistent pleas of both Congress and the administration for drastic curtailment of Federal expenditures until the national budget is balanced again, the principal war veterans' organizations yesterday sent word to the White House that they would not press in the present session of Congress their demands for a $200,000,000 pension bill for widows, orphans and dependent relatives of former soldiers and sailors.

The decision does not mean that the pension program approved by all the veterans' conventions last summer will be abandoned. An agreement has been reached, however, to withhold pressure for its enactment until the proposed payments might be handled without further increasing the $18,000,000,000 national debt.

Washington spokesmen for the veterans declare that in view of the present state of Federal finances the year's delay is dictated by the high patriotism of the rank and file of their several organizations.

What Bill Would Involve.

Veterans Administrator Frank T. Hines discussed both the pension measure and the $13,000,000 hospital construction program with President Hoover yesterday. He explained that the five-year pension program would have called for more than $20,000,000 the first year and approximately $60,000,000 in the fifth year. Inasmuch as the billion-dollar veterans budget for 1933 does not make any provision for the proposed pensions, enactment of the bill in the present session would have involved new Treasury financing, as was necessary to meet the $1,000,000,000 in service certificate loans during the last year.

Officials of the American Legion and other powerful veterans organizations recognized that in an election year it would have been a comparatively easy matter to work up a strong demand in Congress for the immediate enactment of the pension bill.

In the face of the overwhelming development of economy sentiment among both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill since Congress convened, however, the political strategists of the veterans lobby counseled shelving the pension campaign. Public extravagance has risen to such public extravagance has rises to such heights during the last six weeks that the wiser heads among the veterans swung gradually to the view that to press their new demands now might jeopardize the entire pension program.

Book Influences Decision.

A second factor contributing to the decision to retreat for a year was the recent publication by one of the most reputable New York book houses of a critical analysis of the ten-year history of the veterans' demands on Congress. Besides tracing the development of the ever-expanding veterans program the book outlines in detail the methods by which the various organizations focus the political influence of their 1,000,000 members on Congress when their bills are under consideration. The book has attracted wide attention on Capitol Hill as well as throughout the country generally.

The present temper of Congress on the question of public expenditures was displayed in both House and

6 Believed Killed In Coal Mine Blast

Parrott, Va., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Six men are believed to have perished late today in an explosion in the mine of the Pulaski Anthracite Co. here. Rescue crews are at work tonight in an attempt to reach the men.

The explosion occurred at 5:30. The six men were trapped 3,000 feet inside. Others of the night crew of 24 were brought out safely. Cause of the explosion was not determined.

Superintendent Joel Asberry said he believed there was little chance of finding the men alive.

The men are two brothers named Boyd, Frank Sifferd, Dewey Sifferd, Harvey Sifferd and Ernest Snead.

RAIL EMPLOYES ASK MORE MEN IN PAY CUT PLAN

ROADS' EXECUTIVES DISCUSS PROPOSAL

Idea Would Give Additional Employment of About 10 Per Cent.

Chicago, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Organized railway labor, asked by the managements to accept 10 per cent wage reductions for one year, inquired today if the carriers would be willing to increase employment by approximately the same percentage.

In the negotiations between rail president and heads of brotherhoods and unions, the labor delegation had originally asked that "an average force" be assured employment for one year.

Asked for Suggestion.

The presidents, stating in a general way that the wage reduction would stimulate employment but at the same time doubting that they could give definite assurance of employment, had asked for a more detailed suggestion.

This was the answer of the labor group, considered to be the crux of the entire negotiations:

"Would the railroads agree to guarantee, during the period for which they have proposed a pay roll reduction, to maintain as a minimum amount of work not less than the total man hours worked by each class of employes in the year 1930?"

Would Add Employment.

Since the number of man hours was approximately 10 per cent less last year than in 1930, this would mean additional employment of about that much.

The proposal was being discussed by the railroad executives, but no decision was announced.

David B. Robertson, head of the labor group, said the 1930 figures were decided on because they were about "average," midway between 1929, a high year and 1931, a low year.

The nine railway presidents were expected to reply when the negotiations reopen at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Purchasing Power Increase.

In the original argument in favor of the assured employment plan, the unions said "this will increase the purchasing power of a pay roll exceeding two billion dollars by releasing over 1,250,000 workers from fear of unemployment."

The "inquiry" of the labor delegation today included the following provisions:

"The distribution of this work to be made by mutual agreement between the representatives of the employes affected and the management of each railroad, contemplating the full observance of existing schedule rules unless otherwise agreed by the parties of the existing agreement.

Restoration of Conductors.

"As to the Pullman Co. this suggestion contemplates restoration to service of conductors in service as of January 1, 1930, so far as the lines remain in operation."

The entire session today was occupied with consideration of the labor problem. The 10 per cent wage cut, only proposal by the managements, has not yet been discussed.

Virtual agreement was reached today on the labor proposal of an emergency employment bureau. It was the first point on which either agreement or disagreement has been definitely indicated.

The presidents had said "we are willing to establish regional employment bureaus and suggest that they be placed under the direction of Messrs. E. J. McClees, at New York; J. W. Higgins, at Chicago, and C. P. Neill, at Washington." These men

Leaders in Harlan Strike Disappear

Miners Says They Have Been Kidnaped and May Be Lynched.

Harlan, Ky., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—The whereabouts of Joe Weber and Bill Duncan, National Miners Union strike leaders, variously reported as kidnaped and as arrested, remained a mystery tonight.

Adjt. Gen. W. Caswell Boyd, of Tennessee, made inquiries here and in Bell County after radical labor organizations had wired Gov. Horton of Tennessee the men had been kidnaped in Tennessee and were in danger of being lynched.

LAVAL SEEKS U. S. ATTITUDE ON EXTENDING MORATORIUM; EUROPE DIVIDED UPON PLAN

British and French Fail to Agree on Procedure.

LONDON DENIES DEBT OVERTURE

Papers There Forecast Delay in Lausanne Final Action.

Paris, Jan. 18 (U.P.).—A disagreement among interested European powers was believed tonight to have checked the movement to seek an extension of the Hoover war debts holiday, ending June 30.

The original procedure, credited to Great Britain, envisaged a united appeal by European nations to the United States for extension of the moratorium. This would have provided for postponement of the scheduled Lausanne reparations conference until late this year when the French, German and United States elections are concluded, it was understood.

Last Saturday it was believed that Premier Pierre Laval, in his capacity as foreign minister, presented the proposal to United States Ambassador Walter E. Edge in a conversation.

The disagreement was understood to have arisen from the fact that Britain wants to extend the moratorium on all German governmental debts, while the French insist that it should cover only the payments which were suspended by the Hoover holiday plan. This would not include all of the German government's obligations.

Provisions of Debt Agreements.

The present disruption of plans was held to indicate that the European creditor nations would not be able to unite on a plan which would be enacted at the Lausanne conference. It also revived the possibility that the European nations, which owe war debts to the United States, would invoke the moratorium clauses in their debt agreements. For instance, the Mellon-Berenger agreement on French war debts to the United States permits France to declare a partial moratorium for three years.

Such action, however, would be a last resort in event of failure of other efforts to reach an accord, it was understood. A moratorium decision would be certain to affect the credit of the countries concerned, it was said. Officials insisted that there is no basis for a rumor that the bank of France would use its dollar balance in New York as a weapon to force Congress to adopt a favorable attitude toward the debts question because of threats of withdrawal of gold from America.

London, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Authoritative quarters today denied reports that overtures would be made to the

Paraguay Liberals Choose Dr. Ayala

Powerful Political Party Is Sure of Electing Choice for President.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Jan. 18 (A.P.). Dr. Eusebio Ayala was nominated by a convention of the Liberal (government) party today to be its candidate for president of Paraguay in the next election.

Dr. Raul Casal Ribeiro was nominated for vice president.

The Liberal party has held power for several years in Paraguay and now is the most important political force in this country. Hence the election of Dr. Ayala as next president of Paraguay was considered almost certain.

The convention adopted a platform containing a defense of the integrity of the Chaco territory, but calling for arbitration of the boundary dispute with Bolivia. Dr. Ayala was a delegate to the second Pan-American conference at Washington in 1919.

London and Paris Steps On War Debts Problem

(Associated Press.)

France has made overtures for extension of the Hoover moratorium on intergovernmental debts in a semiofficial note and in a diplomatic "feeler" sent to Washington.

This extension would be worked out by financial experts and the American Government in turn would be asked to give European creditors of Germany, who are debtors of the United States, a moratorium on their war debts for the same period.

Authoritative quarters in London had denied earlier that overtures would be made to America for a possible extension of the moratorium, but they indicated that a world reparations conference at Lausanne would consider extending the moratorium for six months. The conference is tentatively scheduled for next Monday.

An authoritative British spokesman, on the other hand, said reports that the conference would take no definite action until after the elections in the United States, Germany and France was erroneous. That statement indicated that the British were confident the conference would be held as scheduled.

U. S. TO HARMONIZE ARMS DISCUSSIONS

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

An altruistic role, designed to bring harmony into the discussions, will be the objective of the American delegation to the General Disarmament Conference, which opens in Geneva on February 2.

With the formal passage of the bill authorizing the expenses of $450,000 for the entire group during their anticipated eight months' stay on the borders of the Lake of Geneva, the departure of the delegation tomorrow on the President Harding is assured.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes will be chairman, and is expected to make the opening address to the delegates, which will stress the desire of the United States to see tangible results come out of the conference.

The resolution authorizing the disarmament expenses was passed without incident in the Senate, but in the House some opposition was experienced. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, who expressed her gratification over the selection of Dr. Mary Emma Woolley as the first woman delegate ever to attend a disarmament meeting, came to the rescue of the resolution when she pointed out that this country had stood by during the war, and had seen $10,000,000 spent every minute.

"Now," she said, "the least we may do is to authorize the payment of $450,000 to prevent another such conflict."

The oratorical voice of Representative James M. Beck (Republican), of Pennsylvania, was lifted in criticism of the resolution. "This dream of perpetual peace and disarmament, so long as the world remains as it is, is only a beautiful rainbow."

South Dakota Democrat To Make Congress Race

PARIS EXPECTS SESSION DELAY

Elections Here, in Germany and France Held to Be Reason.

(Associated Press.)

Premier Laval of France has taken diplomatic steps to determine the American Government's attitude toward possible European extension of the moratorium on intergovernmental debts.

Ambassador Edge in Paris yesterday reported to Secretary Stimson by cablegram that the premier had personally sought information on the administration's attitude.

The premier's action followed a memorandum handed by the Secretary recently to Ambassador Claudel of France, in which the position of the American Government on the debt question was outlined.

In brief, the memorandum was similar to views expressed by President Hoover and Premier Laval in their joint statement during the French statesman's visit to Washington. The American position was and still is that any initiative on the debt problem must come from Europe.

Difficulties Told to Edge.

Premier Laval told Ambassador Edge it would be difficult for him to go before the French Parliament with any suggestion of a European moratorium extension without knowing the attitude of the United States, if such action was taken.

The question of extending the moratorium over a specific period was not taken up.

American officials said last night they did not consider the recent memorandum to Ambassador Claudel to be a reply to a previous note from France, several months ago, outlining that government's general position on war debts and reparations.

The French note was never made public, but it was said authoritatively last night to contain two principal points. They were that France would expect a corresponding reduction in debt payments for any slash in Germany's reparations, and believed governmental obligations should have priority of payment over private obligations, if at the expiration of President Hoover's one-year moratorium on June 30, all can not be paid.

Position Congress Assumes.

Administration officials interpreted Laval's action as seeking to determine whether there was any possibility of a change in the congressional attitude on the subject of war debts.

Congress, in approving the present moratorium, emphasized it would not countenance any reduction or cancellation of war debts. An extension of the moratorium was not specifically mentioned.

Paris (Tuesday), Jan. 19 (A.P.).—The French government let it be known today that it was envisaging at least a provisional postponement of the Lausanne reparations conference. A semiofficial note was issued

Jersey Assembly Votes Repeal Bill

New Democratic Measure on Prohibition Passed by 42 to 15.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 18 (U.P.).—The State Assembly tonight passed a bill repealing the New Jersey prohibition enforcement act. The vote was 42 to 15.

The bill passed by the Democratic Assembly was the one introduced by Assemblyman Anthony Siracusa, Republican, of Atlantic County, at the first session of the 1932 Legislature last week.

Two weeks ago, at the final session of the 1931 Legislature, Assemblyman Siracusa introduced a similar bill, but it was defeated by a margin of two votes. The Assembly at that time was controlled by Siracusa's own party.

Arlington Hall's President Lauds Post Essay Contest

Pupils From Private and Parochial Schools as Well as Those From Public Institutions Manifest Interest in Chance to Learn and Win Prizes.

Not only are public schools of Washington and nearby territory in Maryland and Virginia taking a keen interest in The Post Washington Essay Contest, but also are private and parochial schools devoting much time to the topic. Hundreds of entries are coming from students in these schools. There is every indication that practically the entire student personnel in these institutions will be represented in the final race for the $1,000 in cash prizes to be given winners in each class.

"We want to commend in unqualified terms the essay contest which you are offering for the best studies on the life and activities of George Washington," declared Dr. William E. Martin, president of Arlington Hall, in a letter received by The Post Essay Editor yesterday.

"So often students go into college," continued Dr. Martin, "knowing more of the life and character of Hammurabi, Tiglath-Pileser, Darius or Nero and more about the pyramid builders of Egypt than they do of George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, John Marshall or Thomas Jefferson.

Yellow Cab Cut in Rates Is Blocked by Commission

Public Utility Group Acts to Prevent Renewal of War by Refusing 20-40-60 Scale; Begins Probe of La Follette Antimerger Act.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday moved to prevent a renewal of the taxicab rate war on a larger scale than last year by refusing to approve the reduction in rates, at least for the time being, of the Black and White and Yellow Co.

While the cabs of this concern were accepting passengers yesterday at the new rate of 20-40-60 cents, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, said the persistence of the company in adhering to the reduced fare would put the responsibility "on their own heads." A letter informing William J. Brown, president of the taxi organization, of the commission's action was sent late yesterday.

In the face of authoritative reports that the Black and White and Yellow Co. will bring 100 new and lighter cabs to Washington tomorrow and is ready to bring as many as 500 or 1,000 more, if necessary, to overcome competition of the independents, the commission yesterday began an investigation chiefly to ascertain whether the La Follette antimerger act is being violated.

Despite the refusal of Mr. Brown to affirm the reports, indications are that the negotiations between the Frank Parmalee Co., of Chicago, and the Brown Brothers are near completion and that the commission will be asked soon to approve sale of the taxicab company.

Unless the commission waives its jurisdiction of the taxicab industry or its meter order is held invalid in the District Supreme Court, it is expected that the commission will not permit such a battle among the operators as occurred last summer.

Up to now, however, the power of the commission in regulating taxi-

AGRICULTURE'S FUND SLASHED BY HOUSE UNIT

Report of Appropriations Committee Cuts It 10 Millions.

$175,433,000 TOTAL AS NOW SUBMITTED

Democratic Plan to Place More Responsibility on Hoover Revealed.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

Apparent determination of the Democratic majority of the House to put on the shoulders of President Hoover responsibility for conduct of the Government was exemplified again yesterday by the Democratic-controlled appropriations committee in the annual agriculture appropriation bill it reported to the House.

The committee cut the agriculture bill by $10,799,000 below the estimates approved by the Budget Bureau and sent to Congress by the President. As reported the bill carried a total of $175,433,000. The estimates submitted to the committee called for $186,243,000, which was a reduction of more than $60,000,000 from the appropriations given the department for the current fiscal year.

Salary Slashes Avoided.

Not only in the cutting of the estimates below the figures submitted did the committee move to put responsibility on the President, but it set a precedent in its provisions for filling of vacancies which shall occur in the ranks of the department personnel next year.

Vacancies, the committee provided, shall not be filled except on written approval of the President.

As had been forecast the committee refused to slash Government salaries, but it did incorporate in the bill a provision prohibiting any promotions within grades in the course of the year. This was the old so-called Wood amendment, urged by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, who started the rumpus in favor of slashing Government salaries in the last Congress.

As was the case in the last Congress, the same procedure will be followed by the committee in dealing with the other appropriation bills which are to be reported to the House.

Bill on House Floor Today.

Consideration of the agriculture bill is to be begun on the floor of the House today under general debate, at the conclusion of which it will be considered for amendments, among which undoubtedly will be one or more providing for a general reduction in Government salaries.

The fate of whatever amendments may be offered along this line to the agriculture bill is expected to determine the outcome of salary fights in the House so far as annual appropriations bills are concerned.

The decision of the committee is expected to be supported by the House. Should the House reverse the committee on the question, however, the shoe would be on the other foot and the committee would accept the House action and those opposed to pay cuts would be in the position of attackers when the supply bills come to the floor and would have to fight to have stricken from them whatever pay-slash provisions they might contain.

Representative Wood is expected to offer a salary reduction amendment on the floor. The fate of such an amendment is not certain, but opponents of pay slashes are preparing to combat it with all the votes and parliamentary maneuvers at their command. If they contend, pay slashes are to be voted by Congress, they want that question brought to a clear-cut and direct issue on which each member of Congress shall be forced to go on record.

Garner Lays Down Policy.

Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, had no criticism of the committee's action on salaries. He is on public record as a representative of a farming section in opposition to cutting salaries. But he jeered at the action of the committee in its cutting of the estimates.

The savings, he said, would prove to be more apparent than real. He said that the subcommittee's work in studying the bill had been put to naught by a request from Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), of Tennessee, appropriations chairman, not to add a single item to the Budget Bureau estimates, nor to increase any item, but to cut the general total down.

That message from Chairman Byrns was sent to his subcommittee chairmen following a conference at which Speaker Garner last week laid down the party policy not to give any increases whatever in any of the appropriations bills but to have each cut below the figures President Hoover said had been reached after sharp paring by administrative officials.

Totals in Agriculture Bill.

Some of the apparent savings made by the committee, Representative Simmons said, will have to be made up through supplemental appropriations later. The committee's decision not to go behind the Budget Bureau recommendations, Mr. Simmons said, constituted a humiliating surrender to the bureau.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde said that his department would obey the mandate of the House like a good soldier, but that his estimates had been pared down when submitted to Congress and if they were slashed some one would have to suffer through reduction in the department services.

The bill carried $100,000,000 for highway aid, $4,136,000 for the Weather Bureau, $12,280,000 for the Bureau of Animal Industry, $12,313,000 for the Forest Service, $13,000,000 for the office of the Secretary, $2,627,000 for the Bureau of Entomology, $1,750,000 for the Biological Survey and $1,840,000 for the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils.

POLITICAL SCIENCE CENTER TO BE HERE

American Academy to Establish Word Economics Branch in Capital.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—Completion of negotiations for organization of a new "center" of the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Washington, D. C., was announced at the annual meeting of the academy here today by Dr. Ernest Minor Patterson, president. This is the second such "center" organized as a part of the activities of the academy. The Pacific Southwest Academy, with headquarters at Los Angeles, Calif., constitutes the Pacific Coast outpost.

The Academy of World Economics has been chosen as the name for the new center in Washington. Its first meeting will be held in the near future.

"Its location in Washington," said Dr. Patterson, "gives it a peculiar opportunity for the study of the great international and world questions to which it's attention will be devoted. The initiative in its establishments has been taken by a group of distinguished men connected with the leading educational institutions in Washington."

According to a report submitted at today's meeting the academy now has 7,515 members and 1,880 subscriptions to its publications.

"There never was a time," said Dr. Patterson, "when there was greater need for such work as that being done by the Academy. These troubled days in social, political and economic life call for the most intelligent guidance that can be given. In a country such as ours leadership must be strengthened by an informed public opinion. The Academy occupies a unique and important place, and its opportunities for service never were greater than at present."

Ship Loan Holiday Asked by O'Connor

Tells House Law Should Be Changed to Avert Series of Failures.

(Associated Press.)

A moratorium on construction loans to aid American shipping interests was urged before the House marine committee yesterday by Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the Shipping Board. He asked a change in the law which fixes a 20-year period for the loans, saying this move would avert wholesale failures.

"Lines have cut wages as much as 30 per cent and still are losing money," he said.

"If we ever start to take one line back it will just start a parade—we are going to have to take many lines back."

Chairman O'Connor told the committee that more than half of the tonnage operated by American shipping lines was under foreign flags. A detailed statement given the committee by him fixed the total gross tonnage of American companies at 2,133,867, of which 808,696 were American vessels and the remainder foreign. It related that they operated

Motorist Is Arrested After Escaping Death

Louis N. Diggs, of 1729 Massachusetts avenue northeast, had a narrow escape from death yesterday when the heavy sedan he was driving struck a parked automobile and then plunged 30 feet over an embankment, turning over several times. Mr. Diggs escaped with a small cut about the eye. Police booked him on a charge of reckless driving.

The man was thrown clear of his machine before it came to rest. Police said before going over the bank, Diggs' machine struck that of William Sanford, of 650 I street northwest, parked about 50 feet north of New York avenue on Bladensburg road northeast.

SENATE WILL SCAN BENCH APPOINTEES

Protests Cause Study of Records of Wilkerson and Mackintosh.

(Associated Press.)

The judicial records of two presidential appointees to high court benches are to receive a thorough searching by Senate committees before confirmation is given.

On the basis of protests from organized labor and others, the judiciary committee yesterday named subcommittees to investigate the nominations of James H. Wilkerson, of Illinois, and Kenneth Mackintosh, of Washington State, to be judges in the Seventh and Ninth circuits, respectively. It ordered a favorable report on the nomination of John B. Sanborn, of Minnesota, to be a judge in the Eighth circuit.

Meanwhile, Chairman Blaine, of the committee considering the nomination of Gunnar H. Nordbye to be an additional district judge in Minnesota, announced a hearing would be held Saturday to consider the protests which have been made against that appointment.

Nordbye's confirmation was prevented in the last session by opposition from Senator Schall (Republican), Minnesota. He has been serving under a recess appointment.

Vigorous opposition to the confirmation of Wilkerson was forecast by a number of protests. One from the Railroad Labor Executives Association charged him with a "prejudice and class conscious bias which unfits him for promotion." Wilkerson, now a district judge, won fame as presiding judge in the trial of "Al" Capone.

Other protests were received from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; the Clean Government League of Chicago; the Vigilance Forum of Chicago, Inc.; the Municipal Ownership League of Chicago; the Railway Employees Department of the American Federation of Labor, and several individuals.

They were all referred to a subcommittee headed by Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, who called a meeting for yesterday to plan the inquiry.

The protests against Mackintosh were referred to a subcommittee led by Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin.

EUROPE IS DIVIDED UPON DEBT PLANS

United States for an extension of the Hoover intergovernmental debt moratorium.

An attempt to obtain an extension, these sources asserted, is not necessary for the successful completion of the work facing the international reparations conference tentatively scheduled for January 25 at Lausanne.

London newspapers have predicted that the Lausanne conference will make no final decision until the presidential election in the United States is over, but a competent spokesman said such reports were erroneous.

Berlin, Jan. 18 (U.P.).—The German government was said, in reliable quarters today, to maintain its announced position of inability to continue reparations, but that it might be agreeable to an extension of the debts moratorium if cancellation cannot be achieved at the Lausanne conference.

Negotiations mentioned in United Press cables last week toward fixing extent of German payments were undertaken by European reparations experts ,and not by the German government.

LEE'S TRIAL BEGINS IN 4 DAVIS KILLINGS

Jury Finally Obtained After Weeks of Delay; Death Penalty Is Asked.

Towson, Md., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—After weeks of delay the State today started its attempt to send Yuel Lee, Negro, to the gallows for the slaying last October 11 of a Worcester County family of four persons. A jury to hear the first case against him, that charging the murder of Green K. Davis, father of the Berlin family, slain as it slept, was completed only after three extra panels of ten men each had been hurriedly summoned when the original 25 veniremen failed to produce the necessary 12 for the box.

The jury selection brought four exceptions from the defense counsel, all on the overruling of motions to declare the jury panels illegal on the ground they did not contain Negroes as requested by Bernard Ades, and David Levinson, defending the Negro on behalf of the International Labor Defense League.

State's Attorney Godfrey Child, of Worcester County, head of the prosecution, opened the case for the State with an outline of the crime, discovered when neighbors of the Davis family, suspicious at their continued failure to appear for two days, broke down doors and found Davis, his wife and their two daughters slain in their beds. He demanded the death penalty.

He recounted the arrest of the man at Ocean City a short time after the bodies were discovered and the finding of possessions of the family in his room at the seashore resort. He said the woman from whom Lee rented his quarters reported he had been absent at the time the crime was believed to have been committed.

"After his arrest Lee made several statements," Mr. Child said. "We will not say at this time what was in them, but later in the case we will produce them in evidence."

The defense reserved its opening statement, and the parade of more than half a hundred witnesses called by the State was started.

Special Committee Named for Survey Reports at Capital Meeting.

Creation of a national park from a portion of the Everglades area in Florida was urged before the National Park Association meeting yesterday at the Cosmos Club by a special committee appointed to survey the proposal.

The committee, consisting of Frederick Law Olmsted and William P. Wharton, both trustees of the National Park Association, recently returned from a ten-day survey of the Everglades, made on the ground and from a small dirigible and airplane. They reported that the area, consisting of 2,000 square miles and including more than 10,000 islands, is fully up to the standard of the National Parks System. Congress is expected to consider the matter in the near future. The findings of the committee will be communicated to 500 affiliated organizations. Other park additions and changes were discussed at the meeting, which was presided over by Dr. Wallace Atwood, President of Clark University, and of the association.

Among those attending were T. Gilbert Pearson, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, and Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service.

Abyssinian Police Strike Down U. S. Envoy in Street

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Addison E. Southard, of Louisville, Ky., American Minister to the court of Haile Selassie, Emperor of Abyssinia, was knocked down yesterday during an argument with some policemen.

Mr. Southard's automobile, with him at the wheel, ran over the foot of an Abyssinian woman, it was reported, and a native policeman arrested the minister's chauffeur.

The arrest caused Mr. Southard to protest and during the argument several other policemen arrived. A scuffle ensued and the minister was knocked down.

The woman was only slightly injured, and Mr. Southard stopped immediately to make sure that she was not badly hurt.

Mr. Southard was appointed resident minister and consul general at Addis Ababa in 1928 by President Coolidge. When he arrived at his post the emperor allowed him his choice between a mule and a motor car to convey him to his first audience. The custom of the country is that a foreign diplomat ride a gorgeously caparisoned mule on this occasion, but Mr. Southard chose a motor car.

The minister, who attended the colorful coronation ceremonies in 1930, has been honored with nuerous gifts and decorations by the emperor.

HAWAII LEGISLATORS ACT TO CURB CRIME

Move to Give Officials Wide Powers in Emergencies; 5-Point Plan Offered.

Honolulu, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Steps to revolutionize law enforcement in Honolulu and provide territorial authorities with wide powers during emergencies were taken today by the Island Legislature in its first move to deliver Hawaii's romantic capital from the stigma of recent crimes.

A few hours after convening in special session at the call of Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, the Legislature received the administration's five-point program to curb crime.

Representative Eben Low, a part Hawaiian, also introduced a resolution by which the United States Attorney General would be asked if Congress could give Hawaii a commission form of government.

In addition Low introduced a resolution seeking appointment of a committee to "determine whether or not Americans of Hawaiian or Oriental descent are rapists; whether or not they are criminals, and whether or not they are able to run their own government." This resolution was withdrawn, however.

Five-Point Program.

The administration program, drawn up while Gov. Judd, the Honolulu police and the city and county attorney's office were being widely criticized on the ground that their activities brought about the recent outburst of feeling, consisted of five points. The proposed laws introduced would:

1. Create a police commission and a chief of police for Honolulu, to be appointed instead of elected.

2. Make the office of public prosecutor an appointive instead of an elective one.

3. Provide the death penalty as maximum punishment for criminal attacks on women.

4. Confer emergency police powers on the governor in event of war, rebellion, riot, lawless violence, or any forcible execution of the law.

Punishment for Loitering.

5. Provide punishment for loitering on public highways. This was designed to break up the activities of gangs.

Quick enactment of the police bill was expected, as Judd said he had the support of a majority of both houses on this measure.

The bill relating to public prosecutor would change the office now held by James F Gilliland, city and county attorney. Gilliland has asked for outside counsel to prosecute Mrs. Granville Fortescue society matron; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two Navy enlisted men accused of the murder of Joseph Kahahawai, suspected attacker of Mrs. Massie, daughter of Mrs. Fortescue.

Charged Ouster Aim.

Gilliland recently charged that the investigation started by the United States Department of Justice in response to Senate action in Washington was aimed at getting him out of office. He is an elected official.

Gov. Judd nominated Maj. Gordon C. Ross, of the Hawaii National Guard, to be territorial high sheriff and warden of Oahu Prison, t succeed John C. Lane, who resigned Saturday after the spread of criticism over law enforcement conditions. The territorial Senate must act on the nomination.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Julian A. Ripley, of New York, a sister of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, said yesterday she and her husband would leave soon for Honolulu to help her in whatever way they could.

Mrs. Ripley expressed satisfaction with the course of the Government in the case. She and her husband visited Secretary Adams and other Washington officials including Chairman Bingham, of the Senate Territories Committee, and Representative Ruth Pratt, of New York.

They said they had sought no new government action and had simply wished to express their thanks.

Hopes to Aid Sister.

Mrs. Ripley, the former Helen Bell, of Washington, said she was making the long trip in the hope that her presence would help her younger sister through her ordeal.

"My sister is 47," she said, "although the papers said 57. I am 49."

Exertion of "the full power of the Congress of the United States over the police authorities in the Territory of Hawaii" was urged yesterday by Representative Curry (Republican), California.

bered he had an engagement with Miss Thorn and went immediately to her home.

As the young man and woman prepared to enter Newell's car, police were told, Lewis reappeared and attempted to renew the argument. Miss Thorn declared Lewis stepped up to Newell and slapped him.

Then, she said, the pair tusseled and Lewis drew a pistol from his pocket. He fired at close range, the bullet taking effect in Newell's stomach.

As her friend grasped her to keep from falling, Miss Thorn told police, Lewis said: "You had better get away from him, or I'll shoot you too."

Miss Thorn said Lewis escaped toward Hyattsville in his green coupe.

Fifth Precinct police said Lewis had called the station about two hours after the shooting and announced his intention of giving himself up. He said he would come into the station as soon as he had talked to his lawyer, according to police, but would not say where he was hiding.

CRAWFORD SUSPECT HELD IN NEW YORK

State Police Think Captive May Be Murderer of Mrs. Ilsley.

Bayshore, N. Y., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—State police tonight were classifying fingerprints of a Negro held in the county jail because his description resembles that of the former convict suspected as the slayer of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, wealthy Middleburg, Va., sportswoman, and her maid.

The prisoner here gave his name as Wilson Pat Green. He was on his way to a charitable institution to apply for a meal when he was arrested by a State police sergeant, who had been studying a description of Melvin Crawford, the 40-year-old Negro sought for the slayings.

Was Traveling, He Says.

The suspect was given a 30-day term in the county jail on a charge of vagrancy and his fingerprints were forwarded to State police headquarters at Hawthorne, N. Y., where they will be studied and the classification telegraphed to Virginia.

Green gave his age as 43. He is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He said he had been traveling through the Middle West for the last two months.

Authorities are confident Crawford fled North, for Mrs. Ilsley's missing automobile was found abandoned on the outskirts of Washington, D. C., late Wednesday.

Accused Policeman Quizzed.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—T. F. Stafford, traffic officer, accused of assaulting a news photographer arrested at the funeral of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley at Middleburg last week, was questioned today by T. McCall Frazier, State director of the division of motor vehicles.

Stafford will be tried in a magistrate's court at Leesburg Wednesday on charges of brutally assaulting a newspaper photographer. The charges were brought by Joe Roberts, a Washington Herald photographer.

HUGE FISCAL PLAN NEARS CONFEREES

single corporation was approved by the Senate.

Two main points of difference remained to be reconciled between the two houses. The House provided that the paper of the Reconstruction Corporation be rediscountable in the Federal Reserve System. The Senate expressly prohibited this.

The Senate struck out a provision permitting loans to financial institutions other than those specifically named. The House retained this clause.

The conferees named by the Senate on the reconstruction measure were: Walcott, Connecticut; Norbeck, South Dakota; Townsend, Delaware, and Brookhart, Iowa (Republicans); Fletcher, Florida; Glass, Virginia, and Buckley, Ohio (Democrats).

On the major point of difference the House Land Bank bill conferees acceded to the wishes of the Senate This concerned a Senate provision that the Land Bank System's capitalization be increased by $125,000,000, with $25,000,000 earmarked to permit postponement of farm mortgage installments over a five-year period at the discretion of the banks. The House originally approved a $100,000,000 capitalization increase.

Debate on New York.

New York City's administration was debated in the Senate when Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, sought to include States and municipalities within the scope of the reconstruction corporation relief.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, insisted Mayor Walker put his own house in order "by cutting out some of the city's extravagances and reestablishing its credit."

Senator Copeland replied that "it is no worse for Mayor Walker to ask help than for us to be giving aid to the Pennsylvania Railroad, which runs through Pennsylvania."

Senator Reed said he wasn't seeking aid for the railroad, but rather for the security holders of the line who are scattered all over the Nation.

"It is wrong in principle," argued Senator Reed, "for the Federal Government to be going to the aid of cities and States. We have never done it. Why should we lift the burden off the shoulders of Mayor Walker, who spent the money, and put it on the shoulders of our Government, when our own bonds and securities are selling below par?

"We will have more excuses from New York City why this loan should not be repaid than we are hearing now from the allies on why our war debts shouldn't be paid."

Senator Copeland proposed to limit the amount to be loaned to States or municipalities at any one time to $200,000,000. Both the Senate and House previously defeated this move.

Aid for Unemployed.

Direct Federal assistance for the unemployed—$375,000,000 worth of it—was approved yesterday by a Senate manufactures subcommittee in spite of President Hoover's determined opposition to such legislation.

The group approved a bill drawn by two of its members, La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, and Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, to give the States that much financial help in meeting their relief problems. The full committee will consider it Thursday.

The measure would authorize an immediate appropriation of $125,000,000 for the present winter and $250,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning next July.

The subcommittee held extensive hearings on the proposal, and received testimony from welfare workers of many sections.

Those voting for the bill including its two sponsors and Senators Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, and Wheeler (Democrat), Montana. Senator Hatfield (Republican), West Virginia, the fifth member of the subcommittee was absent.

Two members of the full committee voting with the four who favored the bill yesterday would place the issue of Federal relief appropriations, denounced by some as a "dole," before the Senate.

The bill provides for allocation of the funds t the various States, according to population and need. Allocations would be made by a Federal board, and administration would be supervised by the director of the Children's Bureau under the direction of the board.

Federal appropriations were recommended by the American Federation of Labor and some State and city officials, including Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

220 CHINESE KILLED IN JAPANESE DRIVES

Signers of Nine-Power Pact May Be Called Into Conference Soon.

(Assoiated Press.)

Hundreds of Chinese have been killed during the last few days in a series of offensives launched by the Japanese in Manchuria to avenge their recent heavy losses.

Japanese army communiques published in Mukden yesterday told of fierce engagements at Yentai and Tungliao, in which at least 220 Chinese fell.

This new series of drives, which the Japanese said was undertaken to rid South Manchuria of the "curse of banditry," brought into action stronger units than previously have been used in similar engagements against the Chinese. The Japanese columns were supported by heavy artillery and airplanes.

Chinese war lords who will participate in negotiations for establishment of a Manchurian government independent of China began arriving in Mukden. Their discussions, in which Japanese advisers will be ready to assist, are expected to be lengthy.

Nanking heard much talk of the possibility of the Chinese government's calling a conference of the signers of the nine-power treaty—the pact recently invoked by Secretary of State Stimson—but no decision was reached by the ministry.

In Tokyo the cabinet prepared for a general election, which is expected to prove necessary soon. Japan announced a reply would be sent next week to the overtures by Russia for a nonaggression pact. Indications were the proposal would be turned down.

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 18 (A.P.). The Japanese army has avenged its dead. Official communiques said today that hundreds of Chinese have been killed in a series of offensives undertaken in retaliation for the Chinese victories of last week, in which the Japanese casualties were heavy.

Supported by heavy artillery and airplanes, the avenging columns of Japan killed at least 220 Chinese in engagements at Yentai and Tungliao, the communiques said, and near Yingkow, where a force of 500 Chinese was encountered, "a considerable number" of casualties was inflicted.

These were the three major engagements, but there were many others. Larger units were employed than in previous activities of this sort, and more imposing auxiliary arms.

Nanking, China, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—There was much talk here today about a Chinese proposal to call a conference of the signers of the nine-power treaty, invoked by the United States recently in the Manchurian conflict, but no decision has been reached by the government.

Tokyo, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Preparations for a general election, expected to prove necessary soon, were discussed by the cabinet today.

The Seiyukai party, headed by Premier Inukai, has only 171 seats in Parliament against 229 for the Minseito party, and political commentators take it for granted that an appeal to the country will be made. The diet is to convene January 21 and dissolution is expected to follow immediately thereafter.

at midnight after Premier Pierre Laval had talked with Leopold von Hoesch, German Ambassador to Paris.

The elections due this year in France, Germany and the United States were given in the note as the reasons for the contemplated postponement of the conference, which is tentatively scheduled to meet next Monday.

"The opinion is becoming more and more general in the interested international sphere," the note said, "that it is impossible to arrive now at a detailed and definitive solution of the problems of reparations and war debts."

"It seems to be agreed now in Paris and London," the note continued, "to renew purely and simply for the (German) Reich the Hoover moratorium expiring July 1, 1932, and which would be prolonged under the same conditions for six months or a year.

"At the same time, the European debtors of the United States, who also are creditors of Germany, would make a common declaration asking the American Government to give them the same treatment as a condition of and during the new moratorium accorded Germany."

"If an accord can be established on these bases between the Young plan signatories by the intermediary of the chancelleries, the Lausanne Conference will become provisionally without object, since the fundamentals of the problem will not be discussed before the end of the year by the interested government.

"Under these conditions, a meeting of financial experts might well suffice to proceed with elaboration of the convention necessary for a prolongation of the moratorium now in force."

Police Fire on Crowd of 500; Several Gandhists Are Seized in Bombay.

Bombay, India, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Police fired into a crowd of 500 natives today in the village of Gujerat, near Peshawar, killing one person and wounding another.

The natives had attacked them with stones after six of the local leaders of the All-India National Congress party were arrested.

In Bombay about 40 of Mahatma Gandhi's followers, including a group of fourteen saffron-clad Beshsevika girl picketers were arrested for trying to prevent gold shipments to the United States and England.

Great excitement was caused in the bazaars by these arrests and other girls immediately stepped forward to take their places in the picket lines.

14 Gandhists Arrested.

Fourteen Gandhists, including the dictator of the Bombay branch of the congress, were arrested as they scooped water from the sea for making salt in obedience to the mahatma's injunction.

In Calcutta Miss Santi Ghose and Miss Sunity Chowdury, government high school students, went on trial for murder before a special tribunal established under the recent emergency ordinances. The girls were accused of killing C. G. B. Stevens, the district magistrate at Comilla, at the outbreak of the Nationalist trouble several weeks ago.

In protest against the government request that G. B. Halstead, an American missionary, leave the country because of an article he wrote calling upon Christians to support Mr. Gandhi, students at the Christian College of Lucknow paraded the campus with black mourning flags. The American was social director at the college.

Will Go on Hunger Strike.

The students adopted a resolution declaring the government's action to be "unwarranted and un-Christian," and asserting that they would resort to a hunger strike.

Thirty-three congress volunteers were sentenced in Bombay to six months imprisonment at hard labor for peaceful picketing, making contraband salt and being members of the Nationalist organization.

The Bombay Stock Brokers Association sent a petition to the viceroy, Lord Willingdon, asking him to remedy the "terrible effects of the present unrest on the trade, commerce and prosperity of the city."

The viceroy's refusal at the beginning of the trouble to see Mr. Gandhi was most unfortunate and ill-advised, the association said, and the petition reminded Lord Willingdon that even now it was not too late to reopen peace negotiations and to remove the emergency ordinances that have been keenly resented by the public.

HENRY L. STIMSON.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S Secretary of State is one of the few Americans of modern times who have achieved eminence and distinction in the three widely different fields of law, statesmanship and soldiery.

Just for good measure he is not a bad politician either, but his friends decided he was not cut out for politics when he used to refer to his Tammany Hall opponents during his campaign for the governorship of New York as "Mr. Sullivan" and Mr. Murphy.".

"Loosen up, Harry," they told him, "call them 'Tim and Charley.'"

But "Harry," cut to the ideal pattern of the American conservative, was as dignified and as courteous on the stump as he was in the courtroom. Could it be otherwise for a man with his training? Born in New York City in an old Knickerbocker family of the exclusive Murray Hill section, where his neighbors were J. P. Morgan and "Teddy" Roosevelt, he went to Yale, '88, to Harvard Law School, '90, and entered Elihu Root's law firm in 1893.

President Taft made him Secretary of War in his Cabinet and Stimson decided he liked soldiering better than politics. He would drop in on an isolated Army post in Wyoming and then proceed to beat the officers in pistol practice. He initiated important reforms in the entire legal procedure of the Army and made the far-sighted changes in the military system of the United States which enabled such comparatively efficient transformation of the country to a war time basis in 1917 possible.

His war record is impressive. He was on the firing line with the Thirty-first Field Artillery Regiment and was commissioned a colonel before he was mustered out.

Then he became a peacemaker. He wrought order out of chaos in Nicaragua and effected a compromise between the warring political elements. He was Governor General of the Philippines after this and was summoned to be Secretary of State after practically every one else had been mentioned.

If he lived in ancient Athens, his name would probably have after it, "the Just." He can still play rings around his athletic military aide, Gene Regnier, in deck tennis or squash and could probably outlast him on a horse, too. When a new Secretary of State comes into the roccoco pile that is still called the State, War and Navy Building, Stimson will go happily back to the joy of being a country gentleman again.

5-Day Week Has Merit But Only Begins Reform

By JOHN J. DALY

INSTEAD of cutting the pay of Government workers, some of the congressional leaders now propose a five-day week.

"Any officeholder who feels he is receiving too much money should return the surplus, not deprive other employes of a living wage," one defender states. While waiting for the return of such surplus, if any, other apostles of the people, predicting that machinery will displace 5,000,000 workers by 1940, say the only logical step toward meeting such an economic evil is the five-da week.

As a matter of fact, these students of economics are not going far enough.

If the five-day week will accomplish any and all the good they claim, why stop there? What about a four-day week? Or, better still, a three-day week?

* * * *

AS it is, a man hardly starts on his week-end holiday before it's time to get back to work again. Little or no sense in that, especially as Sunday morning is usually lost in the Land of Nod. The way to enjoy a vacation is to take a good, long rest.

The three-day week would be more like it.

With the three-day week in vogue, the working man would naturally have to have assistance. It would mean two jobs for one—the employment of millions who now stand around and watch others work.

Wherever there is a bridge built, or a house painted, or a skyscraper under construction, or excavation being made for a building—blessed excavation with its steam shovel in the hole!—there you find the idle onlookers, watching and waiting. Why? For what? It is the great cheering section of America spurring other men on to work.

Now the three-day week would put an end to all this. If the men at the steam shovels knocked off work three days in each week the onlookers would become discouraged. Finally, they'd go and get steam shovels of their own.

* * * *

THE two-day week may be even better. It would mean high concentration, of course, but it would bring about that surcease from sorrow which all the world is looking for, a return to the leisure killed by the machine age.

After the week has been attended to, the case of the workday itself might be considered. This is another problem that calls for concentration of the country's best minds. The eight-hour day, as every worker knows, is all wrong. The ancient Umbrians had the right idea. They began the workaday activities at high noon and the whistle blew at 1 o'clock. Everybody then laid down tools and went to the baths to be refreshed after their labors. Modernity has a lot to learn.

Mounted Police Charge Crowd at Glasgow Trial

Glasgow, Scotland, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—A dozen mounted police and 40 constables used their batons today on a crowd which created an uproar outside the sheriff's court during the trial of John McGovern, M. P., and eleven others charged with employing riotous tactics on Glasgow Green last autumn.

Two men and one woman were arrested and several of the constables received minor injuries in the melee. The charge against Mr. McGovern was declared "not proven," and order was restored when he was released and boarded a tramcar for his home.

FLOOD IS SPREADING IN DELTA TERRITORY

Mississippi Prison Farm Is Under Water; Several Thousand Isolated.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—An inland sea extending over thousands of acres of fertile farm land stretched along a 125-mile front today and threatened to invade other northwestern Mississippi territory before it subsides.

Relief workers surveyed the situation and said approximately 45,000 people have been affected thus far by the flood, but not all to a serious degree.

The water has invaded eight counties and threatens to enter two others. In the Tippo Basin area 2,000 to 3,000 persons were reported as "making the best of it," although marooned in their homes.

Hundreds of residents on the eastern side of the Tallahatchie River were reported in danger as breaks in abandoned levees spread the water over wider areas. The residents of the basin were delayed in leaving because of a scarcity of boats.

Convicts Summoned.

Panola, Quitman, Tallahatchie, Leflore, Humphreys and Yazoo counties form the major flood area, but backwaters are spreading into northeastern Sunflower County, a small area of northwestern Holmes County and apparently is heading for Sharkey and Issaquena counties.

Twelve miles from Lambert, in Quitman County, a main levee broke last night, sending 4 feet of water toward the towns of Lambert and Marks. Many convicts at the Parchman State Prison had to be moved as water covered the 24,000 acres of the prison farm. More than 100 persons left Belzoni as a crevase in the Yazoo River levee loosed water in that vicinity. In Quitman County 300 convicts labored on the levees.

The flood has hung on for more than a month, and in Quitman County, flood fighters said the crisis there is yet 48 hours away.

At Greenwood, 250 convicts went to work to save sections of the city from additional inundaion. About 200 feet of a railroad embankment washed out near Greenwood and the backwaters are coming in on the southern side of the city. The city's finest homes in North Greenwood were evacuated.

(Associated Press.)

Mississippi members of Congress said in a statement yesterday that they had been assured the Red Cross would provide prompt aid to sufferers from the floods in the Mississippi delta.

After a conference with Chairman John Barton Payne, of the Red Cross, they said the organization had undertaken to "grant all needed relief without respect to location" in addition to the efforts being made by local chapters in the area.

The statement, issued by Senator Harrison and Representatives Whittington, Doxey and Collier, said:

"The American Red Cross is now convinced that the flood area along the Yazoo, Tallahatchie, Yallabusha and Cold Water River systems is far more serious than heretofore anticipated."

The Coast Guard ordered eight crews, and eight motor lifeboats hurried to the flood zone. Chairman Payne of the Red Cross directed twelve staff workers to proceed there immediately. They will be headed by Robert E. Bondy, national relief director of disaster relief, who will arrive in the area today.

U. S. TO HARMONIZE ARMS DISCUSSIONS

den and Britten, of Illinois, decried the conference as a failure and a junket for diplomats.

Secretary of State Stimson, however, spent part of his day in going over the final phases of the American program which will be submitted as the draft convention comes up for discussion in Geneva.

The hope for disarmament with the fears of the world, and especially Europe, as they are, is believed to be already regarded as a lost cause. The best that can be anticipated is a limitation of armaments, even on the basis of existing ratios. This would be regarded as an optimistic step in the direction of eventual disarming, since it has been conclusively demonstrated that disarmament is not an act, but a process, requiring patience, prudence and foresight.

If the American delegation can bring about a freezing of general armament expenditure on the basis which exists today, the first and perhaps most important beginning has been made. Limitation on the present levels as a precursor to more considerable reductions would be regarded as a highly desirable achievement of the American delegates this summer.

Definite reasons for success in the discussions along these lines is derived from the present state of economic and political instability which exists in Europe today. Out of the political instability which is responsible for the psychoses of fear, rampant in every European chancellory, has come the evils of overarmament and the economic depression.

When the American delegates go into the discussions, either in plenary session or in the more intimate conferences from which the real results of the conference will emerge, they will not have any special plan for presentation as was offered the world at Washington, in 1922, or at London, eight years later. The role of the United States will be a less major one, as this country does not recognize either in its military or its naval effectives, any source of possible distrust from any nation. The American Army has been reduced to a point where it is barly 60 per cent capita ratio of Germany's military strength, which is supposed to be the absolute in military disarmament.

The relative strength of the American Navy was first adjusted in Washington during the arms conference, and has again been cut to comparative levels with the British and Japanese navies at London. Therefore, the interest of the American delegation will be chiefly in submitting their good offices to break a deadlock, wherever one develops. For this the personnel of the delegation is admirably fitted, as Hugh Gibson, who will be acting chairman after Ambassador Dawes returns to the United States, has represented the State Department in the six previous meetings of the preparatory commissions.

COMMISSION BLOCKS YELLOW RATE SLASH

cab rates has not been tested. Before adoption of the meter order, taxicab operators cut their rates almost at will and merely informed the commission of their action. Whether or not approval was given did not matter.

With the status of the order in doubt, due to appeals of the City and the Bell Cab Companies, there is a possibility that the rate war may get under way before the commission can prevent it. The meter requirement, which has been challenged in court, has already been postponed for more than two months, but Gen. Patrick holds that the other provisions of the order became effective as scheduled on January 10. One of these provisions is that no change in rates can be made by any taxicab operator without permission of the commission.

VETERANS' PENSION DEMANDS HALTED

Senate yesterday with peculiar force. The House appropriations committee reported out the Department of Agriculture's annual supply bill with a cut of $10,799,000 under the budget estimates sent up by President Hoover last month, and some $60,000,000 below last year's expenditures.

Watson Breaks Tradition.

Two hours later, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, broke a precedent of long standing by demanding the reading of a petition urging rigid economy in Federal appropriations. Senator Watson explained it was the first time in his long legislative career that he had asked a petition be read to either house.

Presented by the Federation of American Business, the petition echoed President Hoover's recent declaration that a balanced Federal budget was the first requirement of sound economic recovery.

"Today, combined American governments are spending one-quarter or more of our national income," it said. "No nation can stand that drain and continue to function."

3,000 SPANISH REDS FAIL TO LYNCH FOES

Police and Soldiers Hold Off Rioters as General Strike Is Opened.

Bilbao, Spain, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Three thousand Communists began a general strike today by storming the jail in an attempt to lynch 41 Catholic prisoners.

Artillerymen and police held them at bay, and the prison authorities mollified them by releasing two Communist prisoners. Meanwhile other demonstrators attempted to destroy the Sacred Heart of Jesus Monument, but were prevented by police.

The strike was called in protest against the killing of four persons yesterday in a clash between Catholics and non-Catholics, which was broken up by a charge of the civil guards.

Artillerymen and police patrolled the streets tonight, and fears of new disorders were expressed by the authorities.

Burial services were held for the victims of yesterday's fight. After the funerals, demonstrators paraded the streets, carrying placards reading: "Disband the civil guards. Lefts must unite in solid front against Rights attempting counterrevolution against the Republic."

The strike forced complete shutdown of slaughter houses, bakeries and milk distribution centers. Transportation service was paralyzed and all commercial establishments were closed.

In Santurce 4,000 extremist workers, enraged because a retired army officer shot his pistol in the air during a labor meeting, set fire to San Jorge Parochial Church, which was badly damaged before Bilbao firemen put out the flames. Mobs entered the church and poured gasoline on the furniture and altars.

Today's manifestations were described in private quarters as "trial balloons" sent up to test feeling throughout the country and to encourage the working classes.

The government strengthened its forces in Madrid as a precaution against reaction here to the widespread disorders. The cabinet was considering enforcement of regulations for the defense of the republic.

Mexican Officers Find No Alcohol on Fliers

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Mexican officers who arrested Paul Davis and Joe Roubert, American fliers, as suspected liquor smugglers and violators of Mexican aviation laws, said today no cans of alcohol were found in the fliers' airplane as previously reported. Davis denied he was carrying liquor.

Manuel Acuna, collector of customs at Nuevo Laredo, was told, however, that alcohol cans were found on the edge of the field where the fliers landed. Acuna was investigating charges that the fliers crossed the international boundary without a permit, landed on territory not recognized as a landing field and carried arms without authority. A pistol was found in the plane.

DR. MARTIN LAUDS POST'S ESSAY TEST

Pupils From Private and Parochial Schools Join in Showing Interest.

thusiasm among young people for a study of our country's history and the great men who have made it.

"We are encouraging our students to participate in this contest," concluded the educator. "They may not win the prizes, but they will reap the benefits, just the same."

Dr. Martin expressed the general attitude of educators toward the contest. These men and women who are charged with the responsible task of educating the young of the community know that the mental exercise as well as the lessons of George Washington's life are valuable training for their students.

The Post Essay Editor stressed again yesterday the necessity of originality in preparing essays. Originality in treatment will win strong commendation from the judges, without a doubt, where the straight recital of historical facts will not attract their interest very much.

Among the essays received yesterday were those from Mary Callahan, 11, St. Anthony's School; Virginia Lee Day, 13, 361 Strickler avenue, Clarendon, Va., and Frances Catherine Messink, 1515 A street southeast. The specimen essay printed today deals with

THE YOUNG MANHOOD OF GEORGE WASHINGTON.
By

"After a happy, healthy childhood at Wakefield, on Bridges Creek, George Washington was ready for his career as a surveyor.

"His sixteen previous years had been spent in gaining some knowledge of reading, writing and 'ciphering,' as other Virginia lads with families of limited means. But George's usual day was spent in hunting, fishing and a little reading.

"When he was but 14 it was decided he should go to sea in the British navy. His mother didn't want to see her son go away into strange lands, and she begged him not to go. Washington, deeply touched with his mother's pleadings, remained at home, receiving two additional years of schooling.

"Through his older brother, Lawrence, Washington had met and become friendly with Lord Thomas Fairfax. Lord Fairfax employed Washington, who was then only 16 years of age, to survey his huge estates west of the Blue Ridge. It was then that Washington's strong traits of character and able leadership stood out.

Was Striking Figure.

"He returned three years later from a life in the wilderness of hardships and danger, but this had only helped to make him a 'handsome' youth of 19. He was tall, slender, had an abundance of brown hair and two merry blue eyes. This tall young man of the wilderness was really a striking figure.

"Recognized as a man of extraordinary capability and experience at 21, he was made major of the Virginia Militia.

"This was at a time when our States and England were preparing to drive the French out of the Ohio Valley. Washington was selected for a dangerous trip, 600 miles into the Ohio Valley, with a last request for the French to retreat. The French refusing to move, Washington and his companions came back on foot.

"Then began Washington's career as an aide-de-camp to Gen. Braddock, an English officer. At the battle of Fort Dequesne, Braddock, refusing to heed Washington's advice and knowing nothing of wilderness and warfare, proceeded in parade form and was immediately surrounded by French and Indians in ambush. He was said to remark that he could not fight an army he could not see.

Only Mounted Survivor.

"Washington was the only mounted survivor (with two horses shot from beneath him and four bullet holes in his coat). After this war and defeat he wrote to his mother saying that he believed himself saved for some great duty in the future. Many of the Indians believed he lived a charmed life.

"Later in the war Washington was made commander in chief of all the Virginia forces. Taking a part of his force he proceeded to the ruins of Fort Duquesne and rebuilt it, calling it Fort Pitt.

"At the end of the war Washington was formally thanked by the Speaker of the House of Burgesses for his military services. Washington, upon replying, became greatly confused. The Speaker, seeing his confusion, eased his position by saying, 'Sit down, Col. Washington, your modesty equals your valor, and that surpasses any language I possess.'

"Then, with the acquisition of Mount Vernon, his beautiful estate now preserved by the Mount Vernon Ladies Association, the period of George Washington's young manhood came to a close."

First in the Hearts of His Countrymen

BONAPARTE'S OPINION OF WASHINGTON.

"Ah, gentlemen," exclaimed Bonaparte ('twas just as he was about to embark for Egypt) some young Americans happening at Toulon, and anxious to see the mighty Corsican, had obtained the honor of an introduction to him. Scarcely were past the customary salutations when he eagerly asked, "How fares your countryman the great Washington?" "He was very well," replied the youths, brightening at the thought that they were countrymen of Washington; "he was very well, general, when we left America." "Ah, gentlemen," replied he, "Washington can never be otherwise than well. The measure of his fame is full. Posterity will talk of him with reverence as the founder of a great empire when my name shall be lost in the vortex of revolutions."

Will Unfurl Replica of Valley Forge Flag.

Albert Cook Myers, chairman of the historical committee of the Valley Forge Park Commission, has announced that a replica of the flag which flew from George Washington's headquarters at Valley Forge is soon to be unfurled.

After years of research, this flag has been accurately recreated. Henceforth, George Washington's headquarters flag will fly from a staff on the historic battleground on every clear day as it did during the winter of 1777-1778.

The flag is 6x6½ feet in size, of navy blue bunting with 15 stars arranged in a circle.

Paraguay Wants American Court to Decide on Chaco

(Associated Press.)

Paraguayan Chaco nonaggression pact delegates yesterday proposed that Bolivia abandon forts within the Hayes Paraguyan award, withdraw troops from positions established since 1907 and submit questions arising out of the interpretation of the agreement to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The proposal was in the form of a counterproject answering the Bolivian draft treaty calling for a one-year truce in the Chaco. Bolivian delegates immediately placed before the Paraguayan delegation fundamental Bolivian objections to the proposal.

The meeting adjourned with the agreement that Bolivia would cable the Paraguayan proposal to the La Paz government and study it.

The Paraguayan proposal, consisting of eight articles, like the Bolivian draft treaty proposes that neither country resort to war to settle Chaco disputes.

In a memorandum accompanying the draft convention, Paraguay outlines her contention that she should possess the Chaco pending the final settlement.

Observers pointed out certain important differences between Bolivian and Paraguayan points of view as reflected in the two proposals. Bolivia has objected to withdrawal of troops pending the boundary settlement. In her memorandum Bolivia pointed out that a nonaggression pact should be of limited duration to speed a juridical settlement of the basic question.

The Bolivian proposal of December 9 would keep each country in its "effective positions." It proposed to call upon neutral commissions to fix responsibility and damages in case of clashes and would have the offending country restore the previously existing situation after such a clash. It mentioned no particular country in treating of the neutral commission phase.

It was understood the Bolivian delegation made a strong protest to the Paraguayan counterproposal. It was said last night in Bolivian circles that chances of continuation of discussions of the Paraguayan proposal were small.

BURNET AVERS BEER WOULD ADD REVENUE

(Associated Press.)

David Burnet, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, told a Senate committee yesterday the Bingham 4 per cent beer bill would bring a "substantial increase" in Federal revenue from taxes.

He declined to go into the merits of the legislation and would not testify as to the possibility of increased beer consumption under the measure, saying he had no "crystal ball in which to gaze." In answer to questions, he said no tax was levied on grape concentrates and while levies were collected on "illegal beer," these were very small, only $100 in 1929.

Senator Bigham (Republican), Connecticut, author of the bill, compared this with collections of $117,000,000 on 27,000,000 barrels produced in the year before prohibition and quoted government figures showing 22,000,000 barrels of illegal beer were produced in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930.

Figures Are Cited.

Based on the present tax of $6 a barrel, the senator figured the 1930 output would have brought $132,000,000 before prohibition.

With the present tax in effect, Burnet estimated the tax on a pint of beer under the Bingham bill at about 2 cents.

The Senate committee heard Representative Dyer (Republican), Missouri, testify that States refused to enforce the dry law because the people regarded the definition of intoxicants as unscientific and dishonest. Referring to the present limitation of one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content, the Missourian said "every man and woman knows it is neither scientific nor honest."

Enactment of the Bingham bill, he said, would aid in law enforcement and help economically.

Has Much Merit.

Charles A. Boston, of New York, a former president of the American Bar Association, said he regarded the beer measure as only a "palliative, but a palliative which has much merit."

The stand of the bar association on prohibition, he said, had been "grossly misrepresented" in dry publications.

The association referendum last year, he added, showed 13,000 members for repeal and 6,000 against. He explained he was testifying for himself and not for the association.

While the list of voters was not made public because it was a "secret ballot," Boston said, "those who did vote were in good standing and entitled to vote."

Letter From Hopkins Doctor.

Chairman Bingham read into the record a letter from Dr. William H. Wilmer, of Johns Hopkins University, in which the eye specialist expressed sympathy with the measure.

Dr. Wilmer said it would be of "great economical, physical and psychical advantage to the Nation."

F. D. Buck, executive secretary of the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction League, said "normal conditions" would be restored by passage of the bill.

A proposed constitutional amendment to permit States to take prohibition or leave it alone was introduced yesterday by Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland.

He said it was "prepared by an organization of unusual standing and passed upon by some of the best lawyers of our State."

A memorandum he submitted with it bore the letterhead of the "Local Self-Government League," Baltimore.

If adopted, it would provide State option by popular vote.

SCOTCH BANK PLAN URGED BY MURRAY

Blames Part of Economic Ills Upon Federal Reserve System.

(Associated Press.)

The spare and outspoken Gov. William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, appeared yesterday before a House committee and pleaded in humbling tones for a revival of the Scotch banking system to restore easy and safe currency and help the folks who live in the country.

Sitting at ease and sipping black coffee from a heavy white mug, he blamed the international and big city bankers, the Federal Reserve System and Wall street for the present economic situation and asserted the Scotch system of State banks in operation here until 1875 was needed to bolster the central banking system, or the Federal Reserve System.

In addition, he said the Nation was just at the beginning of the business slump and predicted "next winter will be worse and the winter following worse than ever."

Gov. Murray was surrounded by Democratic members of the Oklahoma delegation as he entered the ways and means committee room. Representative McKeown explained that the governor would speak on his bill to repeal the act of 1875, imposing a 10 per cent tax annually on all notes issued for circulation by State banks and similar local financial institutions.

Once Sponsored Bill.

During his service in the House about 16 years ago, Gov. Murray sponsored a bill for the return of the Scotch system.

The measure would permit State banks to issue notes on commodities held in warehouses and would require that a gold reserve of $1 for every $3 in notes be maintained.

Asserting that there were only two systems of banking in the world—central and Scotch—Gov. Murray said that the latter did not require "somebody to get into debt to issue money." Both were in use in the British Empire, he drawled, adding that the Scotch system bolstered the central banking system.

The Scotch system permitted regional bankers to be independent of international and big city bankers, he said, adding that it prevented the central bank system from draining dry the agricultural regions. He said this would happen if a change is not made.

Gov. Murray sat puffing at a fat cigar with his legs crossed, exposing white cotton socks and high-laced shoes. He leaned forward frequently to his coffee.

Attack on Board.

He said England did not permit any bankers to direct her central bank.

"We, for the most part, have speculators," he said, referring, he explained, to the members of the Federal Reserve Board. "It should not be left for them, for they deal with stocks and never produce anything. The direction of our central bank should be left in the hands of the users of the money."

One-fourth of the Reserve Board members, he contended, should be of producers, manufacturers, transportation men and marketers, including both exporters and importers. He added the opinion that credit should be extended to producers and manufacturers on the judgment of bankers, and not under the direction of the Federal Reserve banking system.

The Scotch system, he said, would decentralize the banking system, and would not make it possible for Wall street and big bankers to influence the people on every crossroads in the country, as he said was done at present.

MURRAY PROPOSES ZONE PLAN FOR U. S. ON WINE AND BEER

Me," "Stand Up for Jesus" and others.

Ernest H. Cherrington, of the league's education department, made an old-fashioned prohibition speech that provoked loud cheers, and then O. G. Christgau called on those present to contribute money for the wet and dry fight that is to come.

When Gov. Murray arose to speak, former Representative Upshur, who ...er was to criticize him, shouted: "God bless you, Bill."

Gov. Murray, though he departed from his set speech, said later that he stood for every word that he had written in advance.

He said that "there is a possibility that the final solution of legal liquor control will not be prohibition."

Would Create Commissions.

Under Murray's "zone plan," as explained in his prepared speech, Congress would create a commission authorized to draw up a treaty between the several States. The States also would create commissions.

Then a group of States—New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey for example—might decide that they wanted beer; another group—California and other West Coast States, for example—might decide that they wanted wine, while other groups would decide either to have medicinal whisky or be bone dry.

The State commissions would report to the Federal commission, and this latter commission would draw up a statute grouping the States according to their "wishes and desires," and then ask Congress and three-fourths of the States to ratify the statute.

Under Alfalfa Bill's plan no State would be permitted to have real whisky for anything but medicinal purposes.

Would Scrap Volstead Act.

The Volstead act would be scrapped, of course.

There were some in the audience who regarded Gov. Murray's speech as a bid for the Presidency.

"As far as I am concerned," he said, amid noisy applause, "whether it be in the governor's office or the White House I would be ashamed to say that I rode into either on a beer keg.

"The man who would make it (prohibition) a party issue is an enemy to the party and a traitor to the State."

Murray Discusses Plan.

In discussing his plan in his prepared speech Gov. Murray said:

"It could be done within the Constitution and under its limitations, by the use of leagues of States and zone control; in effect, a treaty between the States and the Federal Government—a power used but once or twice in the history of the Government—yet entirely within constitutional powers and limitations.

"I give this merely as an illustration of what can be done. It would be entirely constitutional, as in the settlement of the source of the waters of the Boulder Dam, for the United States Government through Congress to create a commission to make a treaty between the several States by groups or zones of States in league for a common method, each State, in turn, appointing a commission to draft jointly a plan with the Federal commission.

"Suppose then they should agree that a uniform law covering the entire Republic could not be made satisfactory; that they found New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin wanted beer and wine; California and the other Pacific and grape-growing States wanted wines; certain other States wanted to handle liquor in a given way, for medicinal purposes only; and certain other States wanted to remain bone dry: It would be within the power of such a commission to draw a statute, grouping these States according to their desires and wishes, and have that statute ratified by Congress and by three-fourths of all the States; at the same time, providing that interstate commerce should exist only between the States or groups of States permitting the sale of the same liquors; in other words, that interstate commerce between the beer States should be had, but not between them and any other States; and, likewise, that those having wine alone prohibiting interstate commerce with the bone-dry States.

Would Be Constitutional.

"Such a law drawn on the zone system, when ratified by Congress and Legislatures of three-fourths of the States, would undoubtedly be within the Constitution and the law of the land, until amended or changed by a like method.

"I wish it especially noted that in this discussion I am pointing out what could be done, and how, and not offering any plan for solution, for the reason expressed in the beginning."

Bishop Cannon, whose name has evoked many cheers in the course of the convention, made his speech toward the end of yesterday's afternoon session. He said:

"The reply to Gov. Cox's demand that political ecclesiastics be called 'back to their pulpits that truth may go to the Southern people' should be:

"That Southern political leaders demand that wet politicians like Cox, Smith and Raskob, who have been overwhelmingly repudiated by the vote of the people retire to the rear.

"That the approaching Democratic convention reaffirm its nonpartisan stand on prohibition, pledging the party and its nominees to an honest effort to enforce efficiently the Constitution, including the eighteenth amendment.

Hits Religious Prejudice Claim.

"That the party then nominate a candidate for President who will stand on the party platform, who will not again enunciate a wet plank of his own, and who, if and when he should enunciate such wet plank and should find himself properly overwhelmingly repudiated by dry Democrats who put moral principles before party regularity would not play the baby act and attribute his defeat to religious prejudice instead of openly, frankly, candidly admitting the silly folly of trying to force Southern Democrats to wear a wet Tammany collar.

Bishop Cannon was vociferously cheered before, during and after his speech.

The Rev. E. A. Manness, of Texas, introduced him as the "worst persecuted bishop the Methodist Church has ever had—and that's to his credit."

"What is this truth which Gov. Cox demands shall go now to the Southern people?" Mr. Manness asked. "He was discussing prohibition. Presumably he was eager that the Southern people know the truth about prohibition.

"Are they to sit at the feet of Smith, Raskob, Hague and Cox to learn the truth. They might learn something about how many cocktails one can dare drink daily without collapse."

Hoover Lauded As Dry.

The cheers for President Hoover were provoked by the Rev. John M. Phillips, of Hartford, Conn., who told the delegates that they have a "convinced and sincere dry in the White House."

Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, told the assemblage that the farmers were squarely behind prohibition, and three Canadians—Ben Spence, of Toronto; I. W. Pierce, of Montreal, and A. H. Jarvis, of Ottawa—declared that the Canadian liquor control system was a failure and had led to more drinking, more bootlegging and more crime.

Bacon, Cabbage, Onions Murray's at Luncheon

Gov. Murray was the Oklahoma House delegation's guest of honor at luncheon yesterday in the House Restaurant. The menu follows: Fat bacon, boiled pigs' feet, half-done cabbage, fried onions, fruit cocktail and coffee.

The Oklahoma executive ate second helpings and enjoyed it, from the way he smacked his lips.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader in the House, and Senator Gore (Democrat), Oklahoma, were among the other guests.

Former Navy Man Dies in New York

Armistead C. Rogers Was Washington Resident; Son of Admiral.

Mr. Rogers was 36 years old. He was educated in Winchester, Va., and attended Friends School here. Following his graduation from the Naval Academy in 1916, he was assigned to the U. S. S. Utah. During the World War he saw active duty with destroyer squadrons patroling the Atlantic.

Mr. Rogers was the son of Admiral Charles Curtis Rogers and Alice Walker Rogers and the grandson of the late Mrs. John G. Walker, of this city. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elsie Rogers, two children and a sister, Mrs. Stephen Decatur, of Garden City, Long Island.

Burial will be in the family plot in Winchester, Va.

RAIL LABOR OFFERS NEW PAY CUT PLAN

head the regional organizations of the employers.

Suggestion Satisfactory.

The labor delegation replied, "your suggestion is approved, with the understanding that these bureaus will call upon the chief executives of the organization of the class of labor required, who will furnish the necessary men." This was understood to be satisfactory to the managements.

All of the labor proposals, including the establishment of a commission to study the six-hour day, were reiterated by the union chiefs today and, as Robertson put it, "they are back in the laps of the presidents now." The only thing labor has done so far is to make its suggestions more specific. Nothing has been altered or detracted from the original platform.

INQUIRY MAY CALL MELLON TO STAND

Personal Appearance Possible as Result of Patman's Charges.

(Associated Press).

Secretary Mellon may be asked to tell the House judiciary committee in person about some of his business affairs which Representative Patman, of Texas, claims make it illegal for him to continue in office.

While hearings continued yesterday on Patman's resolution of impeachment, it was learned that several members of the committee are considering making such a request. Thus far in the hearings, Mellon's side of the controversy has been upheld by two specially chosen representatives of the Treasury head.

Patman yesterday reiterated his charges that Mellon was influential in securing valuable concessions for the Gulf Oil Co. from the Republic of Colombia. Although he said he was without definite proof, the Texan contended Mellon had exerted pressure upon the South American country by opposing credit extensions to it in the United States.

Gregg Denies All Charges.

Just previously, Alexander W. Gregg, one of Mellon's representatives, concluded a comprehensive denial of all Patman's charges. He read a memorandum dictated by Mellon specifically denying ever having discussed Colombian credit with State Department officials or bankers.

Gregg yesterday agreed to produce the names of the purchasers of Mellon's bank stocks, sold just before the Secretary took office in 1921.

His argument was brief and devoted chiefly to answering questions it brought out:

That Mellon had loaned personal securities to the Union Gulf Corporation to use as collateral for a bond issue, but that "It was a straight loan for a consideration and did not constitute engaging in business."

Mellon Votes by Proxy.

That Mellon has never attended stockholder meetings since taking office, though he has voted by proxy.

That Vice President Wallace of the Gulf Oil Co. conducted negotiations on the Colombian oil concession.

That Mellon did not discuss negotiations of a merger between the Canadian Development & Manufacturing Co. and the Aluminum Co. of America when he entertained James B. Duke at dinner in 1925.

Gregg said this meeting was "simply a contact between large stockholders" and that he could "not imagine" it influenced the negotiations conducted by Arthur Davis, Aluminum Co. president, and later successfully terminated.

Crypt Is Revealed Under Vatican City

Edifice Antedating Church Is Believed to Be of Pagan Origin.

Vatican City, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—An ancient and probably pagan crypt was discovered today under an old floor in the church of St. Stephen of the Abyssinians.

Three marble steps leading to the crypt were uncovered in excavation work. Their presence under the old floor was taken as evidence that the crypt antedates the church, which was built in the eighth century.

The capital of a Roman column also was found nearby, leading to the belief that the crypt was pagan. If it was, it would be the first pagan monument found in this part of Vatican City.

The entrance to the crypt was covered with earth, and Vatican authorities ordered the excavation temporarily suspended to permit a more careful investigation. The excavation was undertaken to restore and reinforce the old floor of the church, which was covered over centuries ago.

CURRENCY INFLATION FALSE CRY ASSAILED

America Will Not Stand for Debasing of U. S. Gold Dollar, Says Banker.

New York, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—America will stand for no debasing of the United States gold dollar, and the world should know it, asserted a high banking authority today.

He said the European newspapers were raising a false cry over the erroneous possibility of currency inflation in the United States and had given the gravest misinterpretation to the program of American financial leaders to arrest wholesale deflation of credit.

"We could not have deflation if we wanted it," he said.

The United States Government and its banking system, he stated is in splendid position to meet any sudden call from foreigners for gold that might arise, but nevertheless it wants to correct false impressions which have been widely scattered throughout all of Europe.

Prepared to Meet Run.

While the country's banking leadership does not want again to face an international run for gold, he said that the country is just as well prepared to meet it today as it was in the feverish financial days following England's abandonment of the gold standard last October.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, by creating a Government-formed bank which will be empowered to take over certain assets which are now frozen, although sound, will not prompt currency inflation, he said. Nor will other measures now enjoying the support of both political parties in Congress.

In the gold run on America, following England's departure from the gold standard, he said, $700,000,000 of gold was called to Europe. Only $10,000,000 of gold was taken out the banks for corporations in this country, and nearly all of them were American corporations representing European concerns.

New Bridge Bears Its First Cortege

Alexander Harvey Rites Held in Arlington; Was Canadian Veteran.

The new Arlington Memorial Bridge bore the weight of its first funeral procession yesterday when the body of Alexander M. Harvey, Canadian war veteran, who was killed in a fall last Thursday, was escorted to Arlington National Cemetery.

Mr. Harvey, who was a rigger for structural steel and stone on the bridge while it was being constructed, had expressed a wish to have his funeral cross the span. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission, granted special permission in harmony with this wish.

The veteran was given a military funeral at Arlington in the section set apart for Canadian war veterans. His injuries were received when he fell from the new Standard Oil Co. Building at Second and B streets northwest.

THREE BOATS SEIZED IN RUMRUNNER RAID

One Craft Suspected as Supply Ship; Cargo Valued at $150,000.

Boston, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Four important liquor seizures today marked concerted efforts by rumrunners to land contraband on the New England Coast under cover of fog. Liquor which fell into Federal hands was valued at more than $150,000 at "trade" prices.

Three vessels, including one suspected foreign supply ship, and two speed boats, were captured. On the beach at Cohasset, a pistol battle between rumrunners and hijackers was broken up. The combatants fled as police approached, leaving 400 cases of liquor on the strand.

The alleged supply ship, the Cadet, was captured by the patrol boat Thetis, off Nantucket, and brought to the New London, Conn., Coast Guard base. Only a thousand sacks of liquor remained aboard her, indicating that a much greater quantity had been transferred to shore contact boats. Her crew of nine were held for Federal arraignment. The Cadet was believed at Coast Guard headquarters, Boston, to hail from St. Johns, Newfoundland.

The two captured speed boats, the Mary and the Buddy, were taken well within Boston Harbor. Each had between 700 and 800 cases of liquor aboard. The Mary's crew ran her ashore on Commercial Point while fleeing Coast Guard boats and escaped. Later the captors were approached with offers of money to release the craft, but shots dispersed those who offered the bribes. Two members of the Buddy's crew were arrested.

Six "mother" or supply ships are known to the Coast Guard to be off the coast from Montauk Point to Cape Ann. Four of these are under surveillance by Coast Guard craft, but two were "loose," according to Coast Guard officers.

"THE DOLE QUARTET."

While the House appropriations committee was trimming a few million dollars from the supply bill of the Department of Agriculture a Senate subcommittee voted favorably on an outright dole to the States to be used for unemployment relief. The latter bill, authorizing the expenditure of $375,000,000, would add to the budget several times the amount that can be eliminated through a rigid economy program.

In the circumstances the favorable report upon the dole bill does not mean much. The subcommittee which considered this measure is composed of the foremost advocates of Federal charity in the Senate. It is fathered by Senator La Follette, Republican-insurgent, of Wisconsin, and Senator Costigan, Democratic-insurgent, of Colorado. Two other insurgents—Cutting, of New Mexico, and Wheeler, of Montana—cast the other favorable votes. Past performance has earned for these solons the title of the "Dole Quartet."

No doubt there are many senators and representatives who would like to make a favorable gesture to the unemployed. But when they walk under the shadow of the $2,125,000,000 deficit it has a sobering influence. It is easy for the committee on manufactures to propose a gigantic Federal handout, and the measure may find some sympathy on the floor of the Senate, but the apprehension of the finance committee, which must raise taxes, and of the appropriations committee, which must reduce expenditures to the minimum, should be sufficient to insure this La Follette-Costigan dole bill a pigeon-hole grave.

At least 43 States are taking care of their unemployed without complaint and without appealing for help from Uncle Sam. Only one or two States have succumbed to Pinchotism, and those few are finding it a bitter and humiliating experience. It is extremely doubtful whether any State budget is so badly unbalanced as is that of the Federal Government. In view of the status of the Treasury it would be madness for Congress to vote a dole to the States. Unless all signs of the times fail, this proposed Treasury raid will be frustrated by an avalanche of disapproval from within and without Congress, and the more responsible committees will continue to trim the appropriation bills with nonpartisan zeal.

WONDERS OF RAMIE.

Over 3,000 years ago ramie was used for making textiles. Egyptian mummies wrapped in the cloth are unearthed today with the ramie still intact. In the chronicles of Nestor, written nearly 1,000 years before Christ, it is mentioned that the sails of the ships on the Volga were made of the same fabric. It is spoken of again in Roman times by Virgil and other writers. Ramie is a fiber found in a species of the nettle, belonging to the same family as flax. Its durability and strength are greater than any other modern textile, and the fibers runs to 26 inches in length, whereas the cotton fiber is but 1½ inches long.

During the last 50 years the textile industry has spent millions of dollars in an effort to discover a method of purifying the nettle without the immense amount of labor required by both the Belgian and Russian methods. These processes take weeks to remove impurities from the fiber, and cause so much wastage that from fourteen to sixteen grades are produced. The difficulty of producing a good quality made ramie one of the most expensive materials until the recent discovery by an American, S. E. Eveland, of a new method which converts the nettle into a finished fiber of uniform grade in 40 minutes. The invention, according to experts, will doubtless revolutionize the textile industry. Ramie can now excel and undersell the finest linen made in Belgium or Russia.

The fabric is so strong that when 10 per cent of ramie is added to the manufacture of paper the strength of the product is increased 225 per cent. It is far more durable than silk, and is mixed with wool to increase its wearing qualities. It is expected that the Southern agreement to forego planting cotton this year will give a great impetus to the ramie industry, which in time may replace the former product to a great extent. The nettle will grow on cotton land as well as on land which is not suitable for cotton. It is, furthermore, not affected by the weevil, army worm marches or other plagues which destroy cotton and flax.

It was found in experiments in the South that where the cotton crop averaged 155 to 166 pounds an acre ramie averaged from 1,500 to 2,000 pounds of fiber to the acre. After the third year the crop continues apparently indefinitely to produce fiber, cuttings and new roots.

AMERICA'S ADVANTAGES.

The last month has seen a remarkable change in the attitude of a great many Americans toward questions connected with the depression. A more philosophical indifference toward all extraneous influences has been matched by a corresponding increase of confidence in American stability and the inherent value, not only of American securities, but in the ability and determination of the United States to improve conditions in this country without regard to any action that may be taken by other nations.

Within a month the average value of stocks has increased 25 per cent, and American investment bonds show a gain of nearly 16 per cent. Such improved values have not been recorded in any such brief period since the war. If the ruinous sacrifice of standard securities was the result largely of a mental state, the present bouyancy must be accounted for in the same manner. The recent rise in the stock market is an awakening to the absurd perversion of values resulting from fright and lost confidence.

Along with the realization that security values had fallen too low is seen the confidence engendered by the prospect that measures would soon be in active operation to stem the tide of deflation. The National Reconstruction Finance Corporation will not bring about the inflation of credit, as some European speculators try to make it appear, but rather for the release of credit that has been restricted by declining markets and the uncertainty surrounding general conditions. This country has retained and will retain its sound gold dollar, today the only standard of value in a disordered financial world. False reports that the gold standard might be abandoned are of a piece with other rumors circulated maliciously for a fixed purpose, or uttered thoughtlessly by those who would like to see the dollar join the chaos of fluctuating money that is now seen in every part of the world. It is only necessary to read of the difficulties of European countries to realize the security that Americans enjoy in a stable currency. Abroad, restrictions upon gold, scarcity of foreign exchange and constantly changing values are becoming greater handicaps every day to business, trade and travel. Americans, on the other hand, can extend their activities, secure in the knowledge that the money in which they deal will not fluctuate in value. This certainty of money value is the rock bottom factor of business.

EXCHANGING CITIZENS.

Some years ago it was a subject of concern to Canada that so great a number of Canadians yearly migrated from that country to the United States. Economic conditions in the last year, however, have been responsible for a turning of the tide. W. A. Gordon, Canadian minister of immigration, has just reported that during the first seven months of the present fiscal year 13,641 Canadians returned to Canada, and 10,186 Americans went with them. In 1925 122,181 Canadian-born citizens came to this country, while in 1931 the total migration from Canada to the United States was but 21,687 persons, of whom 3,000 were not Canadian born.

It is surprising that under the present rigid Canadian immigration laws so many Americans should have crossed the border. Canada has always encouraged British immigration and opened the doors wide to these peoples, yet last year only 6,138 Britishers arrived. Americans, moreover, have been making good in Canada. Of the 5,000 persons deported last year for having become public charges 3,231 were British, while the American deportations were so negligible as not to be listed.

For the most part the American immigrants are farmers, mechanics and traders. The Canadian law requires the newcomer to have sufficient capital to insure a good start in some occupation, so that they will not become charges on the Dominion. Of recent years another regulation has been added—they must be American citizens. Formerly many non-Americans sought to enter Canada via the United States. It is estimated that for every immigrant admitted from this country two or three are turned down. Nearly half of the American immigrants last year gave Ontario as their preferred new domicile. Quebec was second choice, while the prairie provinces, usually the promised land of the farmer, received relatively few. Alberta was the only province in that section which did not show a marked decrease. The falling off in that region was due to crop failures.

A FLAWLESS CANDIDATE.

It must be a great comfort to the Democratic party in this time of gloom and distress to realize that it has a leader who does not "blow with the wind." Gov. Roosevelt may be "without courage," Newton D. Baker may be committed to foreign entangling alliances, Al Smith may carry too strong a taint of defeat, Gov. Ritchie may be too wet and Senator Robinson too dry, but who can find anything lacking in the qualifications of "Alfalfa Bill" Murray?

When Gov. Murray came to Washington he refused to talk "politics." His efforts were confined to the elimination from the race for the Democratic nomination of all prospective candidates, except himself, and to writing a few planks for the Democratic platform. Let not the public suppose that he came to Washington to inject himself into the national political picture. Gov. Murray realizes that he is needed back home in Oklahoma. Who else could order out the State militia to curb the flow of oil? What other Horatius could man the interstate bridge?

Nevertheless, Gov. Murray is apprehensive of the need for national leadership. It may be assumed that if the public clamors for his guiding genius he will not refuse. If the public does not clamor? Well, "Alfalfa Bill" admits that the man of the hour must not hesitate to do what he knows to be right in spite of "uninformed public opinion." He would save the country on a platform of "bread and butter, bacon and eggs," whether or not the people are in a mood for that kind of salvation.

This reference to "uninformed public opinion" is doubtless a jab at the good folks of Oklahoma who sent Gov. Murray to the executive mansion. He insisted on saving Oklahoma without paying any attention to what the people thought about it. But the Legislature, not being favored with the governor's acumen, bluntly rejected his program. Will the national Democratic organization be so blind? How can Democracy lend ear to the fiddle-faddle of public opinion in these parlous times when there is available a candidate who blows against the wind?

Other statesmen in former ages have learned that the ways of politics are devious. Wisdom and greatness frequently remain unrecognized. It's a shame that Gov. Murray doesn't have a college newspaper, like Nicholas Murray Butler, to sponsor his candidacy.

"RAT HOLES."

One source of economy that has not yet been tapped is called to the attention of the public by Senator Smoot, chairman of the finance committee. It is what the senator calls "the rat hole in the Congressional Record," or in other words, the appendix. If taxpayers realized that they are called upon to pay from $3,000 to $5,000 per week for the congressional privilege of "extending remarks" in the Record, they would not be so indifferent to senatorial verbosity.

With 531 members of Congress dumping propaganda, political and otherwise, into the official record of that body's proceedings at a cost of $40 per page, the "extension of remarks" becomes a costly priyilege. Last week Senator Costigan, for example, inserted eleven pages of data on the regulation of coal mining at a cost of $440. He did not specify whether this article was intended for the enlightenment of the public, for the use of Congress, or for his own convenience, but it is certain that the service was not worth what it cost. The appendix of the Congressional Record has become a waste basket, a catch-all, which serves no useful purpose, but which frequently costs in a single day as much as 30 senators earn.

Of course, senators whose heads swim in figures mounting up to the billions consider this a very small item. But what happens to the Congressional Record is typical of publications of every Government agency. Many thousands of dollars are wasted in useless pamphlets of every description. The departments grow more prolific every year, extending their reports, findings and advice into new fields. Curtailment of Government publications to the actual needs of the public would save many fortunes. Virtually every department is honeycombed with the "rat holes" of which Senator Smoot complains.

But the prospects for economy in this direction are not bright. Congressmen would rather cut their own salaries than be denied the privilege of orating to their constituents and flattering local poets and essayists. Federal bureaus will not forsake the inalienable right of pleading their own cause at the public expense. Nothing short of an aroused public indignation can put a stop to this extravagance.

One of the subjects of the hour is "How to make agriculture pay." Several congressional farmers of the farmer have already made agriculture pay.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt has been named Governor General of the Philippines. Some Republicans would like to have seen Franklin D. Roosevelt sent there.

Our delegation to the Geneva conference will take along a naval physician in case we are not successful in curing Europe's ills through disarmament.

Transit units carried 14,000,000,000 passengers during 1931. This confirms our belief that we have been going around in circles.

It is said that the District should have a "discipline board" for the police composed of citizens. What we really need is one for Congress.

All those psychology appeals to people to do work in which they are happiest are certainly tough on former bartenders.

We trust that the "bargaining power" in naval construction does not mean another bargain to destroy American vessels.

With a vast army of unemployed men, the married women ousted in North Dakota will be assured of equal rights.

One of California's problems is enforcing the blue sky law. Another is convincing the country that the skies are blue.

If Japan is not inclined to use the "open door" policy, then why not try and sell the idea to some of our banks?

Reno, Nev., is building a new cathedral. Another move to build a plant nearer the outlet of the output.

Gov. Murray wants the Nation to return to the "Scotch banks." We thought credit was already tight.

Unemployment insurance would be a good thing if we could give the unemployed jobs as adjusters.

Preparedness these days means to be prepared to protect the Treasury from a foreign invasion.

Hospitals treat 10,000,000 persons every year, says a report. What do they mean, "treat?"

No matter how you use the word moratorium, there is always a "rat" in it.

"The patience of Job" was nothing compared with the patience of the jobless.

The Fellow Who Will Feel It.

POST HASTE.

It is difficult to believe that any American would have this country avoid even defense of national integrity, as China was forced to do, because she was too impotent to fight

---

Gov. Murray is somewhat chastened since the people of Oklahoma voted down his pet measures that would have made him a State Mussolini. From government by militia last summer to winter lectures in Washington on "Who Made the Mind?" is some comedown for Alfalfa Bill.

Equal rights champions must turn their guns on Mexico. Chihuahua's new $50 mail-order divorce law allows a man to remarry at once, but a woman is required to wait nine months.

Speaking of the triumvirate, if Smith wants Smith and Raskob wants Smith and Shouse, of course, wants what Raskob wants, that about makes it unanimous.

Those who can't see the difference between affording needed credit to industry, commerce and agriculture and the direct doling out of Federal funds to unemployed and for unproductive improvements, should consult an oculist.

The latest reply says the Japanese will maintain the open door in Manchuria "in so far as they can secure it." It will be just too bad if the Koreans or the Mongolians interfere with Japan's desire in this matter.

Having the District Jail radio chorus sing "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" is rather rubbing it in.

One of the reasons for nonavailability of marks is that the German merchant fleet, which was reduced to 700,000 tons after the war, has again reached 4,254,000 tons, or only 246,000 tons less than the prewar total.

While looking for encouragement we must not overlook the fact that the 24 per cent increase in stock market averages this month is twice as good as the record of any January since the war.

France's discovery that Russia has an army of 1,000,000 organized and equipped, with 3,000,000 subjects to call, has not helped disarmament sentiment.

"See Chinese victory in Manchuria." China always has conquered invaders by eventually making Chinese of them, but it takes a few generations.

Dropping food in Arizona to save snow-bound Indians by planes from California must make these first Americans feel the last ones are not so bad.

Europe did start a little dollar flurry when Englahd went off the gold standard, but she can't do it again by calling the Reconstruction Finance Corporation "inflation."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

HAPPINESS AND THE RICH.

If happiness were stocked for sale
The rich could sit content
And order it by phone or mail,
In bottle, bucket, pan or pail
Packed properly and sent.

If happiness were bought and sold
The rich would never sigh.
They'd have no dread of growing old.
For every hurt and ache their gold
A cure would promptly buy.

If happiness could be supplied
So much per ounce, per pound,
The rich, when they were troubletried,
Would merely search the country wide
Until a stock was found.

But rich men suffer grief and pain
And days of trial, when
The purchase power of gold is vain,
And then they whimper and complain
Like ordinary men.

Alligator Outlives Men, But a Log In the Swamp Has Lived as Well

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF YOU were asked to name the most dreadful of all human experiences, you would say, without hesitation, "Death."

And if you were asked to name the privilege and possession most valued and most to be desired, you would answer again without a moment of indecision, "Life."

All that a man has he will give for his life.

Yet many men choose an existence that is more like death than life, and few avail themselves of the opportunity to live while they may.

Sleep is a temporary death. However necessary and beneficent it may be, it is a period of unconsciousness deducted from one's allotted hours of life. Yet those too young to realize how few and how precious the days are, and how swiftly the night of eternal darkness approaches, lie abed in semblance of death when the sun is high—deliberately surrendering to oblivion while hurrying time checks off the hours of life so prodigally thrown away.

Other and older people, no whit wiser, court temporary death in the oblivion of drunkenness; and yet others invite stupor by eating too much or breathing foul air, until their minds are so dull that little consciousness of life remains.

These, you say, are exceptions. But how much wiser are you?

As a child you were filled with an eager curiosity and a keen awareness of all things within the range of your senses or your imagination.

Are you still so alive? Or did you surrender to inhibitions and prohibitions, ethics, prejudices and fears, so that you lost all capacity for life beyond the narrow routine fixed by expediency and custom?

Do you follow a rut, eating, working, sleeping, scarcely aware of life outside your routine, or do you live every moment eagerly, conscious of everything about you, perceiving and knowing all that comes within your ken?

By living to your utmost—observing and feeling as the alert wild creatures do—you can cheat death by living as much in ten years as the dull victims of custom live in fifty.

Life is not measured in years, but only by the degree in which you separate it from the semblance of death.

PRO AND CON

Victory For Nonpartisanship.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

President Hoover may have made some mistakes, may have been in some respects unlucky, but certainly not in respect of the great reconstruction bills, the first of which now gives a measure of promise for the relief of depression. For once party lines seem to have disappeared.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill had plain and businesslike sailing and the one important amendment proposed did not come from the most often self-proclaimed friends of the farmer. It was offered by a somewhat obscure—perhaps more sincere and modest—senator from South Carolina, and not by one from Iowa or the Dakotas!

This amendment provides in a new section that $50,000,000 may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture for extending loans to small farmers.

Too Many Yes Men.
Belle Plaine (Minn.) Herald.

What the country needs is hard-boiled officeholders — congressmen who can say "no" to minority groups who want to raid the Treasury for their individual benefit; legislators who can say "no" to the go-getter towns that think they can be improved by getting a State normal school or a State farm school, or an armory or something; county and local boards who can say "no" to the neighborhood group that wants a neighborhood improvement at public expense. We have had ten years of yes men in office, and we have just begun to realize that it will take 20 years of digging up to pay for their generosity.

Repercussions of Jackson Day.
Kansas City Star.

Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away from the Jackson day dinner we learn (1) that Gov. Roosevelt will win on the first ballot, (2) that he is stopped, (3) that Al Smith was a flop, (4) that he is stronger than ever, and (5) that Newton D. Baker is the mystery man and premier dark horse of the party.

So everybody ought to be perfectly satisfied.

"New Leadership."
Boston Transcript.

One of the most strident of the Democratic campaign cries of the last year or so has been for a "new leadership," without, however, any intimation as to what this new leadership would propose as a starter for its program. Two of the most eminent Democrats in the country, Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt, addressing "Victory Drive" dinners, gave a concrete hint as to what it would be. "I deplore the tendency to blame all our present troubles on the President," said Gov. Roosevelt. Gov. Smith was more specific. "Ninety per cent of our platforms in the past have been fault-finding," he said. "Let us change our attitude with respect to our platform and frankly tell the people what we intend to do." This is "new leadership" with a vengeance. It represents the abandonment of 70 years of Democratic policy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

How Does Prof. Will Get That Way? He Deprecates Modern American Speech.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: One of the latest to join the ranks of those who are dissatisfied with things as they didn't used to be, is Prof. A. S. Will, of Columbia University. He thinks "conversation is really getting to be considered a waste of time in America," and as evidence of the decadence of American speech, he calls attention to such expressions as "Oh, yeaah," "Okay," "And how," "I'll say." Such conglomerate verbiage as "didja," "Whassamatta," and so on, is in his opinion a reversion to savagery.

In chronological reply to the puristic professor, I might hark back a decade or more and retort, "Aw, come off! So my aunt was telling me."

I can imagine a ghostly candy kid, while he makes goo goo eyes at the ghost of a mid-Victorian peach, remarking, "I guess that gazabo don't know what's biting him, if he thinks that kind of highbrow stuff will get him anywhere. Where does he think he gets off, to spring a gag like that? He wants us to quit talking United States and give the dictionary a chance, huh? Sure, Mike. I guess I'll go and stake myself to an unabridged right away—nit! Say, that guy's off his trol if he thinks pink-tea patter cuts any ice with me. He's not the only pebble on the beach. He ought to go away back and sit down."

Such words and phrases as the foregoing were to be heard, in adolescent repetition from day to day, not so very long ago. And college professors deprecated them just as Prof. Will deprecates the slang of the present. "'Tis distance lends enchantment to the view," and as we grow older, some of us think things are getting worse in comparison with the good old days.

The fact is that the younger generation as well as the hoi polloi always has been, and always will be, somewhat irregular in the use of words; and there are word experts to tell us that language in its development from the beginning has been enriched by choice accretions of slang. So I don't see why we should worry a great deal over the use of slang by college boys and others, so long as the purity of speech is preserved by people of culture and in books.

Napper Tandy Objects to Restoration of Beer and Denial of Whisky—Rank Class Legislation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Four per cent beer, if legalized, no doubt would be welcome to some drinkers, but to restore beer only, no matter what its alcoholic percentage, looks to me like unfair class legislation. In ante-Volstead days the whisky-drinking class made up a big part of the millions of moderate drinkers of the country. That class would not be satisfied with the restoration of beer. And so the liquor question would remain unsettled.

Whisky drinkers were conspicuous in national leadership from the beginning, and it is nonsense to talk about restoring our alcoholic drinks one at a time. As a matter of good statesmanship I fail to see why the beer-drinker should be permitted lawful enjoyment of his favorite beverage while the citizen who likes the drink of the pioneers is denied his social glass, his healthful appetizer and his soothing night-cap.

Death of Graham B. Nichol Mourned by Friend Who Admired His Fine Qualities.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Graham Bright Nichol, who died last Thursday evening, was a conspicuous example of the power of character to compel the admiration and win the love of men. Able newspaperman that he was, he will be remembered most dearly by his multitude of friends for his integrity, his superb and inexhaustible courage, his limitless loyalty to his friends and ideals, and his clear-eyed estimate of the worth-while things of life.

He hated a liar, and all his life he fought and served the truth in his work, his thinking and his daily living.

Modest and unassuming, he never mentioned his own accomplishments, but those who knew him as public relations counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau realize how splendidly he did his work, a work which often brought credit to others and was invaluable to the public and the Government. In the death of so beautiful a character the community suffers an irreparable loss. "Nick" was a star among men.

A FRIEND.

Humane Society Doing the Best It Can With Limited Funds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a member of the Washington Humane Society, I should like to reply to a recent letter in The Post signed "H. M.," whose heart was wrung by pity for the cruelly treated horses on Highway bridge.

The latest bulletin of the Humane Society contains 32 reported cases of cruelty to horses which its agents promptly investigated and stopped. Naturally the two men cannot be everywhere at once.

The very point of the present campaign for increased membership and funds is to enable the organization to increase its number of active agents. It would be very desirable, for instance, to have an observer stationed all day at Highway bridge.

As it does not appear that "H. M." even reported to the society the cases of cruelty witnessed at the bridge. In a city of 500,000 inhabitants it is amazing and deplorable that the society has only 260 members.

W. C. T. U. BANQUETS ON FOURTH BIRTHDAY

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Alexandria City-Arlington County Woman's Christian Temperance Union held its annual banquet last night at Windsor Arms, celebrating the twelfth anniversary of the adoption of the eighteenth amendment and fourth birthday anniversary of the Arlington County Union. Mrs. Ethel Gregory, president, presided.

Fletcher Kemp, superintendent of public schools in Arlington County, declared much attention is paid to the little mistakes the youth of today make. They are far better than in the past and five years will see a still greater improvement.

"I defend the youth of today," he said. "Of the 1,500 students in the Washington-Lee High School in this county I can say I have never found any liquor on or about them or in the school. I have been told there was liquor there, but when asking those who have said so to tell me about it, all I could get was, 'We have heard so.'"

The Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church, said he believes strongly in prohibition because he believes in associating with the best people and they believe in prohibition. "I can not see how church people can believe otherwise," he said.

Among other speakers were County Manager Roy S. Braden, Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas and Mrs. Jesse Dean.

Opposition to any move tending to reduce salaries of school teachers was the sense of a resolution adopted by the Lee Heights Citizen Association last night in the offices of Ruby Lee Minar. The association also went on record as being opposed to that section of the Mapes bills that would provide triple taxation upon the income of residents of Arlington County derived within the District of Columbia.

Mrs. C. E. Kitlinger was elected president of the newly organized Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Arlington County at the meeting in the home of Miss Priscilla Merrill, 810 Thomas place, Lee Heights. The union was organized by Miss Lenadell Wiggins, of Pennsylvania, field secretary of the national organization, and named "The Merrill Union."

Other officers are Miss P. B. Merrill, of Lee Heights, vice president; Mrs. Frank L. Ball, of Waverly Hills, secretary; Mrs. Fred Dortzbach, of Cherrydale, secretary, and Mrs. Charles F. Kincheloe, of Leeway.

Mrs. Phillips Dies At Woodside Home

Was Native of France and Accomplished Linguist; Taught in Capital.

Mrs. Marie Phillips, about 65 years old, a teacher of French, fell dead yesterday while feeding chickens at the old C. A. Snow estate, in Woodside, Md. She was found by Collie Nelson, a colored tenant on the estate, who called police of the Silver Spring substation, Montgomery County police.

Mrs. Phillips was pronounced dead of natural causes by Dr. William H. Haynes, of Silver Spring, Md., who, the night previous, had treated her for an attack of acute indigestion. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Warner E. Pumphrey at Rockville, Md.

Mrs. Phillips also was the caretaker for the estate, going to Washington daily to teach French to a son of Mr. Snow. According to Mrs. Maud S. Emory, 1343 Harvard street northwest, a niece of Mr. Snow, to whom the elderly woman's property was turned over, Mrs. Phillips was a native of France, her maiden name being Tonnin. She married an American and came to this country many years ago. When her husband died in 1918, she began teaching French. She spoke Russian and other languages fluently and had traveled extensively. Her adopted son, Edwin Taylor, who lived at the Snow estate with her, is being cared for by the Snow family. Her other relatives are in France.

Hyattsville to Ask Power Rate Drop

Move Also to Include Other Nearby Towns in Drive to Reduce Crime.

Lower rates for street lighting in a number of towns in the vicinity of Hyattsville, Md., are expected to be sought by the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce, following a decision of the town council to burn the lights all night.

While the house fighting rate has declined from 10 cents per kilowatt to 4.2 cents, the yearly cost of a single street light has increased from $12 to $13.20, a member of the chamber's public utilities committee pointed out. He will bring this matter before the chamber at its meeting next Monday.

Meanwhile, Hyattsville itself is seeking lower rates, through its attorney, Caesar L. Aiello. He has been directed by the council to ask for lower rates while negotiating the contract for all-night service. Riverdale, Edmonston and University Park will also be asked to burn their lights all night, as a crime deterrent, and as a means of lowering the rate.

Blame for Motor Death Lifted From Capital Man

Walter H. Yost, of 724 Third street northwest, was freed of responsibility in the death of Philip J. Shanahan by a Prince Georges County coroner's jury which decided last night that Shanahan's death was due to an unavoidable accident.

Shanahan was struck by a car on Christmas Day while helping to pull his auto out of a ditch along the Baltimore boulevard, between Beryn and College Park. He died the next day in a Washington hospital. The coroner's jury, which sat on his case, was impanelled by Judge George S. Phillips, of Branchville.

POLICEMAN FIRED ON CAR, IS CHARGE

Capital Man Gets Warrant for Prince Georges County Officer.

At the request of Russell Barbee, who says Prince Georges County Policeman Ralph Brown fired on his car Sunday afternoon, a warrant charging the officer with assault with a dangerous weapon was issued yesterday, although it was not served on the policeman.

Brown explained yesterday that he had received a call to a house near Takoma Park which had been raided for liquor violations some time before. In front of the house he saw Barbee and another man sitting in a car, but they moved away as he arrived. He said he ordered them to stop and pursued them on foot when they kept going. See that he was being outdistanced, and not knowing whether they had been concerned in the disorder complained about, he fired at the car. The car did not stop, however, until over the District line and out of his jurisdiction.

Barbee, whose address was given as 2605 Fourth street northeast by his lawyer, admitted being in the car with Henry Jenkins, of 336 Adams street northeast. He said they saw Brown's car stop behind theirs and started to pull away "knowing Brown's reputation." Neither he nor Jenkins had been in the house, he said.

The warrant against Brown was given to a deputy sheriff to serve, but the policeman had not been taken into custody last night. Judge John A. Fainter, who issued the warrant, said he would release Brown on his personal bond for trial in Hyattsville police court Wednesday when he is arrested.

$96,000 SUITS FILED IN PRINCE GEORGES

$60,000 Sought by 5 Persons; Bank Asks $35,000; Court Opens.

Suits totaling $96,000 were filed in Circuit Court in Marlboro just before it opened its nonjury term yesterday. Of this amount $60,000 was asked by five persons for damages, while $35,000 more is sought by the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co. in a suit against the First National Bank of Mount Rainier and six former directors.

This sum, it is alleged, was promised by directors of the First National to the Prince Georges bank before the latter took over the business of the Mount Rainier institution. A note for the amount was given, with the six directors as indorsers. This note, due last November, was made in 1929.

$35,000 Was Pledged.

In 1929, when the affairs of the Mount Rainier bank were in bad shape, it was explained, officers of the institution proposed that it should be taken over by the Prince Georges bank. It was found that assets of the Mount Rainier bank would not meet its liabilities by $35,000, and this sum was pledged by directors of the insolvent bank before the Prince Georges bank took over the business. The former directors named in the suit are Clarnece F. Schatz, R. L. Spire, Frank M. Stephen, Charles W. Reichelt, Ernest H. Shinn and W. B. Spire.

Alleging that certain acts of John G. Ballard made it impossible for him to finance a farm near Marlboro, Bernard G. Torreyson filed suit for $25,000 against Ballard.

A $20,000 suit for damages suffered by Mrs. Nettie O'Brien when she fell in a gas main ditch near her home in Mount Rainier, Md., was filed against the Washington Suburban Gas Co. and the mayor and town council of Mount Rainier. The woman's husband, Francis A. O'Brien, also asks for $5,000 damages for the loss of her services.

Two Ask $5,000 Each.

Claiming they were injured when a tree fell across their automobile in Laurel last year, Richard A. Downes and his sister-in-law, Annie Farish, have filed a damage suit against the Maryland Investment & Realty Co., of Baltimore, and the mayor and council of Laurel. Each asks for $5,000.

The A. T. Contella Co., real estate brokers, with offices in Washington, filed suit for $1,000 which they claim as commission for negotiating the sale of two stores in Cottage City to Harry Greenberg last June.

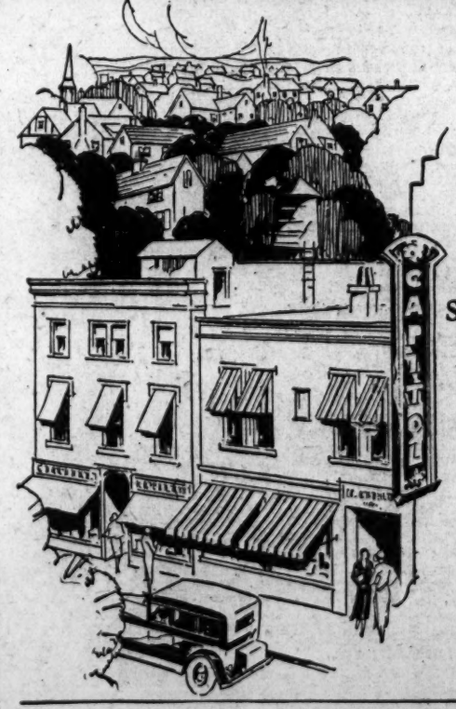
COMMUNITY PROTECTION



"The paramount duty of fire insurance"—said the report of a State Fire Insurance Commission a few years ago—"is to protect communities as well as individuals, and only that form of insurance appears adequate to the task that is fortified by cash assets and conforms to every legal requirement of the states."

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE alone maintains countrywide activities for the protection of communities and individuals, and maintains premium reserves, cash surplus, and invested capital sufficient to meet all demands.

Stock Fire Insurance provides many public services which have steadily increased and improved.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHAT OF WHOOPING COUGH'S FUTURE?

WHOOPING cough appears to be headed for the discard. The Metropolitan Life figures give great promise that it is. If the rate of improvement which prevailed between 1911 and 1931 could continue for another ten years, whooping cough might become nothing but a bitter memory.

In 1930 the whooping cough death rate in children insured by that company was a little more than one-fourth that of 1911, and not much more than one-fifth that of the very bad year, 1918. Any one can see that a continuation of the same rate of decline would cause the line to touch bottom somewhat about 1935.

However, these drops generally flatten out somewhere as the base line is reached and, in addition, the general population has more whooping cough than these figures show. After making proper allowances for everything, we can feel happy over the gain that is being made in the fight on whooping cough. And now, what is doing the work?

For one thing, people are reporting whooping cough better. Time was when whooping children went about unrestrained, infecting other children. There is still much of that, but not so much as there was.

Another cause is the acceptance of the fact that whooping cough is especially dangerous to children under 2 years of age and, regardless of inconvenience, cost and everything else, babies must be kept away from whoopers.

Another is that whooping cough must not be allowed to develop into pneumonia. The child with the cough appears to be very uncomfortable and even very sick but he will get well if he can escape pneumonia.

Another is the fact that whooping cough is often guessed at or diagnosed on suspicion and isolation is begun early, before there is any whoop. The suspicion is sometimes wrong, and some injustice is done, but it is so frequently right that the good done far more than overshadows the injustice.

Some good has come from the use of the new bacterial or laboratory test for whooping cough. The physicians who use this test report that they are able to diagnose whooping cough in time to spare the other children, the family and the school.

ACUTE CORYZA.

Mrs. J. M. M. writes: For no apparent reason, and at any period of the year, I am subject to attacks which produce a condition similar to that produced by coryza. This has continued for several years. The attack manifests itself by a tickling sensation at the root of the nose, followed by sneezing and stuffiness. The latter condition, which is very distressing and which prevents free respiration, will last from ten minutes to several hours, during which time there is an abundant flow of watery mucus. These repeated attacks eventually developed into pleurisy some years ago.

I have been sawed, hacked, burned and injected. I have sprayed many liquid compounds, applied numerous ointments, and taken cod liver oil, but the attacks continue intermittently and unexpectedly, irrespective of treatment.

Exposure to drafts, dust, pollen, and other irritants have been suggested as the probable cause, but my nose becomes blocked up under the most fatvorable conditions. The baffling part is that I will go through all the misery which accompanies a bad cold, whether it be for 10 minutes or 10 hours, when, without the slightest warning or indication the condition clears up suddenly. That is to say, the something that was blocking my nose suddenly releases the pressure, the flow of mucus dries up, and I breathe normally again.

I have printed your long letter because it is such a good description of acute coryza. I wish I could be equally proficient in giving you a preventive. You must await a specific vaccine, and that seems far away. Meanwhile, the use of one of the common vaccines for colds will help you somewhat.

UNPLEASANT BEDFELLOWS.

Miss T. S. writes:

1. Are bedbugs harmful to the skin?
2. How do they come?

REPLY.

1. Bedbugs spread no disease except rarely, and by chance. They inject no poison into their so-called bites. They do very little harm.

2. They hatch from eggs laid by bedbugs.

INFECTION IN VEIN.

M. S. writes:

1. What causes thrombophlebitis in a young man?
2. What is the best way to prevent a second attack?

REPLY.

1. Thrombophlebitis is inflammation of a vein with formation of a clot. Most cases of milk leg are due to it. It is caused by mild infections of the vein and some other diseases of the vein wall. Among the conditions which cause it are varicose veins. This, and not milk leg, is the probable cause in this case.

2. The best way to prevent it is to obviate the cause. Wearing an elastic stocking after operations and in some other emergencies is one way to prevent it.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, Jan. 18.

IT'S one thing to be a fashion cricket and to know all about what's going on in the style world, and what's even more important, why it's going on, and quite another thing to be merely the lady who buys and wears the things, isn't it?

Well, it is for the lady who merely buys and wears the things that I try to write, for after all it doesn't matter what I know about the mode if I can't pass on this imformation to you, does it?

One thing that has been rather a puzzle to the layman for a couple of seasons has been the conflicting reports on whether the style trend is backward or forward — that is, whether the mode was moving in the direction of Directoire and Second Empire styles, or in the direction of the ultra-modern and classical line.

Yet now even the layman is able to see that there are, for the first time in fashion history, two distinct and separate trends in the mode. No longer need you be confused, when you know this, because a fashion article that tells you that this and that is all the rage, if this and that is a bustle or a muff and tippet, is quite as correct as the fashion article, perhaps in the same magazine, that tells you that the new mode is one that eschews all past fancies.

But miladi elegante must be warned! You must know that you can follow the quaint and romantic trend if you wish, or the modern one of classical simplicity, but that you must choose whichever one best suits your type. And that you must be consistent in your coiffure, makeup, accessories, and even gestures, if you would borrow any of the charming styles from the romantic past; whereas if your type and personality are better suited to and by the modernly beautiful and pure line, you must show the proper and harmonizing taste in coiffures and accessories.

* * * *

A famous Paris house has recently made the evening gown that I sketched for you today, and I selected it because it was so entirely "autrefois." Naturally, with such a gown an elegant woman would have to choose a coiffure likewise inspired by other times, and only the most porcelain white and carnation pink complexion would be suitable! The gown, by the way, was of black tulle flounces, the waistband of black faille with a pink posey, and the scarf formed a sleeve at one end and then hung loosely down the opposite shoulder in the back.

Tomorrow I'll tell you something about pink and white complexions, and sketch for you another evening gown in the very lovely and modern manner.

"What's that you're throwing away?" I asked Dionne.

"Hmmmm and Whyyy?"

"Fr heaven's sake—look at it! It's positively antique!" Dionne wailed.

"Let me have it a moment before you throw it away at all. For what I did to that hat was sumpin! And Dionne is again wearing her discarded three-year-old felt because it now looks more chic and up to date than even my own Paris hats. And you can do exactly what I did to any of your old felt hats, by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of the Post for the illustrated leaflet giving you step by step directions for making out-of-date hats into smart up-to-the-minute ones. You needn't be a milliner either!

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

TO MAN'S DEFENSE!

DEAR Frances McDonald:

Have just read the comments on "old maids" and the male reaction to it.

Well, after hearing both sides—here is some one to defend both.

If a girl desires to remain an old maid and has her pet theories, &c., let her keep her theories to herself and follow her own mind. She need not go sour on all mankind! There are some girls who are engaged or going with some perfectly marvelous creature of the male sex (there are plenty) and when they read of such ideas it tends to change their own ideas about the boy friend. That is, if they are not as strong-minded as they should be. So I say, let the old maid go her way, but please, for the sake of others, let her keep her council.

Now for the man's side of the case. I can hardly blame them for being hurt and mad, especially those who are of an excellent moral character. For the last four years I have been going with students of one of our most prominent male colleges in the city and I have yet to have the occasion to use a baseball bat or golf stick on any of them This is not because I do not think highly of myself, for I do. I was brought up by a marvelous mother, whose advice was "If you always act like you should, no matter where you are, you will always be above reproach and approach." Try it, see how it works. I'm telling you, she knows.

I do think the person who signs himself "Campus" is rather hard but, on thinking it over, perhaps he has met and knows some girl who wasn't what he thought she should be and maybe, who knows, that is why there are so many bachelors.

It is just a case of six on one side and half a dozen on the other. Please don't judge one person by another, it doesn't go.

To me, men and women are the most wonderful things in the world, the more I know of both sexes, the better I like them. If there was only some way to cure the sour people in the world, our problem of society would be over.

This letter is coming from a girl, not 21 years old yet, secretary to a large company and one who associates with men every day in her life, both business and social.

I'm not writing this with the idea that you will publish it, but just to express my ideas to you, who must be so well informed on everything of this sort. Tell me, do you think my mind is working in the right channels? PATSY.

Why not publish it? If the girls who denounce men are accorded space, why not those who rush to defend them? There is so much to be said on both sides. There are everywhere some cheap men and some cheap women who will be warring upon each other. But there are besides these thousands of both sex who seem utterly unable to understand or tolerate each other.

There are men who sneer at women because they fear them. And women who slur and slander men because they fail for some reason to find favor in man's eyes. And there are hordes besides who just naturally antagonize each other. It is a noticeable fact that girls who have brothers get along with men, are courted and usually marry happily, while girls who have never known the companionship of boys usually are too self-conscious to gain the friendship of men. Such girls invariably fail to understand the cause of their unpopularity, and believe themselves to be unattractive, from which point forward their cause is a lost one. Girls without brothers should be sent to coed schools and colleges, just to safeguard the world against too many man-haters. For all that is needed to banish sex antagonism is to get boys and girls to understand each other. After that baseball bats will not be needed, and old maids will be unheard-of!

Give More!

By FRANK R. JELLEFF.

The government unit has set a fine example for the balance of Washington in exceeding its quota for the Community Chest drive. The rest of us now have something to shoot at and I feel sure that we shall do this big job in a big way.

After all, the job won't be hard to do if we all do our part in giving more than we did a year ago.

And why shouldn't we?

We all know that the need is greater and that we shall feel better if we make a real sacrifice in this emergency.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

PLAYING A SUIT MAKE WITHOUT TRUMPS.

THE partner of the Declarer usually has an "all gone" feeling when his stubborn partner insists on playing a hand at a suit declaration when the Responding Hand is void of trumps. This feeling must be doubly accentuated when the Declarer finds himself without any cards of the suit and saddled with the responsibility of playing it at that declaration.

Mr. P. S. Kauffman of Abilene, Texas, sent me the hand below, in which West had the unusual experience of making a game at spades, entirely void of the suit, due to his partner's and opponents' misunderstanding of the language of bids.

An immediate Overcall in opponents' bid suit is the equivalent to a strong Takeout Double. It shows an unusually strong hand containing 4 or more honor-tricks and very freakish distribution and usually guarantees control of the first round of the suit adversely bid. In the higher stages of bidding it is a direct slam invitation, but players in the stress of actual play sometimes shade these requirements, not always with such happy results as in the case detailed below.

East-West vulnerable and with score of 40.

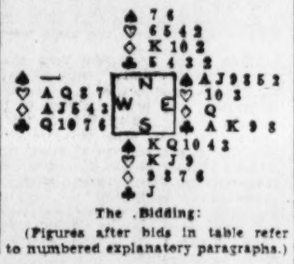
South—Dealer:



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♠(1)	Pass	Pass
Pass(2)

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

1—West's hand, as the reader will note, does not come up to the requirements for the use of this excellent bid. His hand contains a bare 3 honor-tricks. Thus his proper course was to double because of his distribution.

2—South is happy to have his vulnerable opponents play the hand in two spades, as he correctly reads West for a void in that suit. He does not double because he is unwilling to reopen the bidding.

In the play North also decided that South's Opening bid was psychic, and, hoping to strike his partner's strength, he opened his lowest diamond away from the King. The correct lead would have been either a club or a heart. The Queen in Dummy held the trick, and the situation looked much brighter to West. He led a small heart and refused the finesse, taking the trick with the Ace, and then laid down the Ace of diamonds, upon which Dummy's last heart was discarded. Of course, West should have taken the heart finesse. He thus capped North's bad Opening lead with a bad play. The Declarer then led a small diamond and trumped in the Dummy. He returned to his own hand by leading a club, and led a small heart, which Dummy trumped. The Ace of clubs was then led from the Dummy and South trumped. South led the King of spades, and the Declarer won with the Ace. The Declarer then led from Dummy another club, which South trumped, returning a diamond, which was won in the Dummy with a trump.

South, by the line of play adopted, made 4 tricks with his trumps, but these were the only tricks for the North and South players. The only merit of this hand is its unusual bidding as East and West, following conventional lines, should easily have reached a game contract in clubs. Even a Slam in clubs is makable with accurate play. However, due to the comedy of errors, Mr. Kauffman enjoyed the thrill that comes once in a lifetime.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4:50 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 9:15 p. m. to 10:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m.

Very peculiar and subtle influences will play their part in your life on this January 19, and the best of efforts and the clearest of reasoning will end in disappointing results. Those in love will find "Cupid is a casuist, a mystic and a caballist."

Children born on this January 19 will have a great deal of character, considerable backbone and positive ideas. They will be fiery and energetic, and will speak their mind, and go after things they want. They will not take kindly and submissively to the snubs of the world.

The woman born January 19 will not lead a spectacular life, but will usually accomplish in a quiet, mouse-like way, that to which she has set her hand. You will never be treated as an ornament, and will not wish to be. Your outlook and comprehension of things in general is more masculine than feminine. You are not a person who is easily led, and treat the opinions of others with rather a contempt. You are not a woman to whom to address mere drawing-room generalities, and those insults to the feminine comprehension which a bygone age generally called compliments. You know the human heart, and do not often make psychological mistakes. Your ability to foresee proper reactions to given causes and effects is strongly to your favor.

The man born January 19 will have a very just nature, and in his relationships with others will always be able to rise above small differences of opinions. You will be as discreet as you are secretive. The darkest of secrets are safe in your custody. Your conversation is usually limited to the statements of the barest facts, and is seldom garnished with colorful details. You are allied to those who worship the open air and vigorous sports. You will fall in love slowly, but "head over heels" when you do.

Pierre Croteau, pioneer.
Robert E. Lee, Confederate general.
Edgar Allan Poe, poet.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

PLEASE tell me how to sow sweet pea seed. I do not mean to plant it until spring, but I want at that time to know how to arrange the rows and also how deep to plant the seed. MARION D. T.

A sunny, open space is absolutely necessary; shade of any sort should be avoided. Sweet peas will grow in any kind of soil, provided it is fairly deep and the roots can easily penetrate it. They love moisture, and a soil which retains moisture will materially aid in successful growing. They are usually planted in rows. A trench or furrow should be made 18 inches deep (the deeper the better) and 12 inches wide. In the bottom place a layer of well-rotted manure, on top of which place a layer of well-pulverized soil. Sweet peas are best grown in double rows, with the supports between them. Seeds should be covered with more than an inch of soil.

ELIZABETH O.

Yes. In May the Daphne cneorum, or garland flower, is covered with flowers. Later in the fall it will bloom again; the flowers at that season are not affected by frost and frequently can be picked in early December. This is a wonderful little evergreen plant which has become very popular within the last few years, due to the pleasing fragrance of the blossoms, which are a beautiful shell-pink color. It grows about 1 foot high, but spreads over a space of 2 feet.

Please tell me when to transplant a rubber plant and a palm.

MARIE Q. R.

You may transplant either of these plants at any season.

Please tell me why my sultana does not bloom. CARRIE T. W.

As you have failed to tell me the care you have been giving the plant, I can not tell you where you are making a mistake. The impatience sultana should bloom continuously if given a warm, sunny and well-ventilated location and a daily drink sufficient to moisten all the soil in the pot. A temperature of 68 degrees suits the plant.

Please tell me of three low-growing varieties of shrubs for hedge planting. Surely there must be other varieties besides privet.

MRS. PERTRAM H.

Anthony Waterer spirea can be kept 18 inches high by frequent pruning and will produce a mass of flowers all summer if trimmed after each crop of flowers. The foliage of this plant is beautiful. Box-barberry is another desirable, low-growing, interesting little plant. This plant is much like the Japanese barberry except that it can be kept as low as 8 inches. It has long roots which necessitate careful planting. Of course, for general boundary planting there is nothing better than California privet. The rugosa rose makes an excellent blooming hedge. Unlike many other roses, this one is free from insect pests and diseases. The flowers, according to the variety chosen, are white, crimson or pink.

Please tell me of the hardiest plant you know of for a light, well-ventilated living room that is heated by a stove. MRS. HARVEY W.

The aspidistra is the best plant for resisting neglect. It will live with too much or too little water or too little fresh air, does not object to dusty atmosphere and will live at any temperature between 50 and 70 degrees.

The Age of FAT Need No Longer Be Feared

Soon after 30, multitudes of people gain excess fat. Many at earlier ages. A great reason lies in a weakened gland, which largely controls nutrition. Food that should create fuel and energy goes to fat.

Since this discovery, doctors the world over feed this gland factor to the over-fat. Slender figures all around you are due to this method now.

In Tablet Form

Marmola prescription tablets present this new-day method in ideal form. A famous laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen in every circle. Those slender figures, now so common, are not due to starving.

Every box contains the formula. So users know, and doctors know, just how Marmola acts. You are taking in Marmola what the best physicians use.

Fight fat in this modern way. Combat the cause. Take Marmola—four tablets daily—until weight comes down to normal. As the fat goes, watch your vim come back. Then tell your friends what did it. Don't wait longer—start this right way now.

WORLD COOPERATION ON BANKING IS URGED

Dr. Feis Addresses National Committee on Cause and Cure of War.

Greater international cooperation and moderation in the pursuit of personal gain were prescribed for the permanent diminution of banking and monetary troubles by Dr. Herbert Feis, economic adviser of the Department of State, in an address last night before the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War.

His address, heard by 500 delegates from eleven national women's organizations meeting at the Washington Hotel, dealt chiefly with the underlying reasons why the monetary and banking institutions have acted faultily.

The political climate, prior to the depression, Dr. Feis said, was such as to favor international undertakings.

Then, he said, the political climate changed and international activities became the sources of danger and worry. Banking and currency systems of different countries, he pointed out, became involved in each others' difficulties. Then the accentuation of the movement toward national self-sufficiency, he added, that has characterized the last two years has brought a great increase in the already serious barriers to international commerce.

Dr. Feis cited the following as his reasons for the present banking and monetary dilemma:

The overoptimistic progress of risk taking and of credit creation stimulated productive activity which could not be sustained when the process of new credit creation came to a halt.

The sudden pall of risk that has affected so many of the outstanding debts owed banking institutions led them to convert all their claims and assets into the safest possible form. Hence, many borrowers were compelled to dispose of their assets at very low prices, thus weakening the price structure and shaking confidence.

Banking institutions and investors with money tied up abroad have tried in every way to reduce its amount. As a result there are no new funds available in the lending countries to sustain the private and public enterprises that have been developed abroad and foreign peoples have been forced into a position of inability to meet their debts.

The conference sent a letter of confidence to Dr. Mary E. Woolley, a member of the delegation en route to the Disarmament Conference to be held in Geneva next month, and also directed a letter to President Hoover, expressing its gratitude for the appointment of a woman on the delegation.

Others who spoke yesterday were Paul Kellogg, editor of the Survey, and James G. McDonald, of the Foreign Policy Association.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE odds are 1,000 to 3 against the average newcomer in Hollywood.

Out of the next 1,000 people you meet, no matter where you are, on Broadway, Pennsylvania avenue, Michigan boulevard, Market street in 'Frisco, anywhere, not more than two or three would have a chance in the movies.

Sounds a bit exaggerated, doesn't it? However, the statement comes from Rufus Le Maire, former New York producer and now casting director for the Warner Brothers, who sees hundreds of applicants for screen roles every week, and should know.

"There are from ten to fifteen suitable actors for every role in every picture we cast," says Mr. Le Maire, "except star roles. There are never enough stars.

"In Hollywood we have to find stars for several hundred feature pictures a year, and picture stars—real ones—are harder to find than stage stars.

"There are good actors and actresses to provide for three times the number of productions under way. Every part I cast finds about a dozen capable people ready to step into the role. As a result of this condition, we are able to secure the finest actors for the smallest parts."

There is just one way to determine whether a person has any ability on the screen. That is to make a screen test. A screen test is an expensive proposition. The applicant must look extraordinarily good to merit a test.

All this is merely corroboration of the outline of present conditions in Hollywood given me recently by Conrad Nagel during his week of personal appearances at the Palace. So, unless you are sure you are one of the two or three in that thousand, it might be well to keep on plugging that typewriter for a while longer!

And leaping precipitately to the other side of the continent, it would seem from January's Broadway productions that the theatrical Pooh-Bahs have either caught, or are trying to match, the universally low state of depression just now dominating the mass mind.

Not counting "Mourning Becomes Electra," Mr. O'Neill's austere tragedy that is creating so much gloomy joy, the Broadway show-shopper will find these new enlivenments housed among his favorite theaters:

"Lost Boy," a propaganda play in juvenile penology, wherein a good boy is rendered bad by reform school methods and ends by committing murder.

"Never No More," dealing with a family of care-free cotton pickers whose happiness ends when one of them becomes enamored of a white girl and is burned at a stake, offstage, for his crime.

Unless there is more vaudeville talent scattered around the landscape than recent discouraging reports have led us to believe, RKO-Keith's Theater stands in imminent danger of exhausting the visible supply in short order. Since the inauguration of the new combination vaudeville-picture policy, the Fifteenth street house has been using up headliners at the rate of about three a week. And the end is not yet.

Next week's roster is led by Trini, the dancer; Lester Allen and a feminine partner, and Bernice Claire, the talented screen star and soprano.

The week of February 6, Kate Smith will play a week in the old home town and word has just come that at a later date, co-starred on the same bill, will come the Pat Rooneys, senior and junior, and Dorothy Stone, talented daughter of Fred Stone, the musical comedy star, who will soon be seen at the Belasco, with his younger daughter, Paula, in "Smiling Faces."

It is not impossible that all of the Stones may be here the same week.

Word comes from New York that by arrangement with Guthrie McClintic, the producer, A. L. Jones has taken over the production of S. N. Behrman's play, "Brief Moment." Mr. Jones has moved the play, following the closing of its run at the Belasco Theater, to the Cort, where it continued its New York run without interruption beginning last night. Francine Larrimore is the star, and her supporting cast, of which Alexander Woollcott is a member, will continue unchanged.

A pleasant call, tho brief, yesterday afternoon from Mr. R. Ravenscroft, the new managing director of the Rialto Theater, who succeeds Frederick A. Flader, transferred back to New York, whence he came to Washington some months — or is it years—ago. Mr. Ravenscroft contemplates his tour of duty in the National Capital with a deal of pleasure, one gathers from hurried conversation with him.

He was accompanied on his rounds of the papers, and other points of importance in his future routine, by Rodney Collier, for the past twelve years an executive at the Rialto, erroneously reported to have resigned last week, who, under the new arrangement, continues in the post he has so long occupied.

Tickets now are on sale for the special midnight performance scheduled for the Earle Theater tomorrow night—and at special prices.

Those who revel in the strange instrumentations and lilting harmonies of real Hungarian orchestras, will enjoy the brief scene in Gloria Swanson's "Tonight or Never," current at the Palace, in which she is entbralled by the strains of the restaurant orchestra while dining alone in quest of emotional adventure. Particularly expert is the gentleman who plays the cymbalon, an instrument seldom encountered in American orchestras, but a dulcet and tricky contraption when played so expertly as in this picture.

The cymbalon, you know, is that stringed instrument that is played with what look like a couple of long-handled pickle forks done up in bandages.

You were probably thinking of those brass soup plates they bang together at the bass drum end of a band!

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

By NELSON B. BELL

"LOVE IS ALL." Vincent Youmans presents a new musical play in prologue, three acts and seven scenes based on the romantic drama, "Smilin' Through," with book by Brian Hooker, lyrics by Edward Heyman and music by Vincent Youmans. Staged by Edgar MacGregor, dances by Jack Haskell. Augmented orchestra under the conductorship of Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld. At the National Theater.

THE CAST:

John Carteret ..... Reginald Owen
Dr. Owen Harding ... Charles Winninger
Willie Ainley ..... Nick Long, jr.
Ellen ..... Marion Ballou
Kenneth Wayne ..... Michael Bartlett
Kathleen ..... Norma Terris
Betty Fallow ..... Ada-May
Roger ..... Nick Long, jr.
Arabella ..... Ada-May
Moonyeen ..... Lelane Rivera
Mary Clare ..... Audrey Davis
Jeremiah Wayne ..... Michael Bartlett
Mrs. Ainley ..... Lelane Rivera
Slocombe ..... Anton Luksor
Captain Moreau ..... Gregory Gaye
Penelope ..... Caryl Bergman

Mr. Youmans has undertaken a courageous experiment in setting to music the basic story of "Smilin' Through." As an effective and widely popular vehicle for the velvet talents of Miss Jane Cowl, "Smilin' Through" was a concededly exquisite and lachrymose bit of romance not by any means to be catalogued among the livelier of its season's productions. The same agreeably somber qualities were preserved in the silent screen version of the story and presumably will be in the proposed dialogue treatment contemplated by the cinema.

They are, in fact, only thinly disguised in the musical version of the piece presented in the National Theater last evening under the new title of "Love Is All." There is little that is enlivening in the tale of love thwarted, through the greater part of three acts, by the stubborn hatred and vengefulness of a doddering old man who has nutured his resentments over a period of 50 years and insists on punishing the son for the sins of his father. So Mr. Youmans has contrived to inject some measure of vivacity into his operetta—and it is, in its musical form, of a dignity considerably above the level of musical comedy—through the medium of spirited ensembles and sprightly dances that are more or less dragged in by the heels and in a majority of instances not at all indigenous to the play's major theme.

His score is richly orchestrated and not a few of the song numbers demand voices of high caliber and something of real musicianship to be encompassed for anything approaching their real worth. This is demonstrated at the very opening of the first act by "Kathleen Mine" and later by "I'll Come Back to You," "How Mappy Is the Bride" and a concerted reprise of "Kathleen Mine."

In acts two and three the reversion to the period of 50 years ago, and back again, is shrewdly devised, and a great deal of the dramatic strength of "Smilin' Through" has been utilized to lend "Love Is All" a foundation of substantial and tearful appeal rare in any work musically less pretentious than legitimate light opera.

It is over act one that Mr. Youmans should have most of his sleepless nights. The introductory scenes, by which I mean to include the momentary prologue and the three divisions of the first act, are utterly vague, indefinite in their indication of time and locale and woefully lacking in cohesiveness. The story points are as scattered as if they had been fired out of a blunderbuss at long range. If these four scenes could be brought into harmony with acts two and three in the matters of homogeneity, compactness and coherent narrative, "Love Is All" would be a conspicuously expert accomplishment of an extremely difficult task.

Norma Terris was not heard in the role of Kathleen last night, but was supplanted by Lelane Rivera, a soprano of no mean capability who understandably sang the part much better than she acted it, although her reading of the lines, under the circumstances, was highly creditable. In the opposite role of Kenneth Wayne, Michael Bartlett displayed a robust tenor that brought vigor and warmth to the numbers most useful in furthering the movement of the plot.

Such comedy as there is springs from the skillfully drawn characters of John Carteret, the aged bachelor who can neither forget nor forgive—until almost too late—and Charles Winninger, as Dr. Owen Harding, his staunch friend and bitterest enemy! These two thorough artists span the half-century of the action with deftness and believability and Mr. Winninger even is afforded opportunity to demonstrate that he is still a trombonist of parts.

The juvenile interest centers in Betty Fallow and Willie Ainley, intrusted wisely to Ada-May, who yet remains one of the stage's most agile dancers, and Nick Long jr., whose unique Terpsichorean exhibitions form one of the brilliant highlights of the three acts.

To none of these, however, falls the one rousing number of the score, occuring almost at the end of the last act—"Drums in My Heart." Here is one of those devastating smashes that rock an audience as surely as a charge of dynamite. It is a throbbing, pounding, crashing hit, sung by Gregory Gaye, as Captain Moreau.

An especially proficient mixed ensemble lends power and verve to all of the concerted numbers, under the baton of Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, the operetta's distinguished conductor.

The production is a handsome one and the costuming tasteful and picturesque. Altogether, there is too much of worth here not to be successfully salvaged by a bit of necessary first-act tinkering — as was plainly evidenced last night by the enthusiasm of a large and representative first night audience.

"FLAPPER FOLLIES." A Gus Flaig burlesque production, with Harry ("Schnozzle") Levine, Jack ("Tiny") Fuller, Harry Van, Ruth Bradley, Snookie Woods, Connie Fanslau and Nanette Dailey. John Quigg, the accordian king, and Moran and Wiser, added features. Reviewed Monday night by William L. Wright.

This show is one of the big surprises of the season. Starting at scratch with practically no advance ballyhoo, it sends the customers away happy. It would be excellent entertainment without the special added features, John Quigg and Moran and Wiser. They top off a good show just as dessert tops off a fine dinner.

To old-timers the name John Quigg means real accordian music. Nobody but this seasoned trouper can get such tunes from one of these instruments and get his audience singing and whistling with such enthusiasm. His allotted time was all too short, as was evident by the repeated calls for more.

Moran and Wiser, who have also played in Washington before, improve and change their act with each appearance. They get plenty of fun out of several dozen old hats and Indian clubs.

"Schnozzle" and "Tiny," the latter being about the biggest thing to appear in the theater in some time, handle the comedy in an efficient manner, with the help of Harry Van, an excellent straight man.

Having four talented feminine stars, instead of the usual one or two, places this show in a class by itself. Nanette Dailey and Ruth Bradley display nifty figures and exceptional ability in their scenes, and the work of "Snookie" Woods and Connie Fanslau have a pep and snap that gets over in a big way.

"Common Clay," a dramatic skit where the action takes place in a Chinatown hop den, introduces Gus Flaig, who staged the entire show and is largely responsible for its success.

$750.00 Cash Offered for Name of Movie Actress

Reward Will Be Paid Everyone Who Submits Most Suitable Name

From Hollywood comes an extraordinary announcement. A movie actress is in need of a name, and $750.00 in cash will be paid for the best suggestion. You can give her yours, or any other name you think of—it may mean $750.00 to you.

This movie actress, whom you have probably seen on the screen of your favorite motion-picture theater, is the beautiful Helen Mann. Like most of the stars, she prefers to use a name other than her own, and in order to help her obtain it $750.00 in cash is offered to any one who is quick in sending in the name selected. Miss Mann's publicity director says, "Most any name may win." It may be your very own, a name of a friend or relative or a coined named made up by you. Readers of this announcement are urged to send their suggestions for a name at once, because $250.00 extra will be given the winner if name is mailed and postmarked before January 24, 1932. Just make it easy to pronounce and easy to remember. But send it right away, or you may be late for the promptness prize.

All entries must be sent to the Publicity Director's office, E. A. Williams, Studio, AA-475, 1023 N. Sycamore ave., Hollywood, California. Only one suggestion for a name should be submitted by each contestant. Every one is invited to submit a name, and in case of ties, duplicate awards will be given. Officials say that any name may win the $750.00, even if submitted on a post card or scrap of paper. If you can use $750.00, here is an opportunity to get it. Send your suggestion at once.—Adv.

SCHMELING ACCEPTS SHARKEY AS NEXT OPPONENT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

CHARLES HARVEY, who heretofore has been dealing strictly in foreign importations, chiefly British heavyweights who buckled in the middle, has title to Steve Hamas, now the most rapidly rising star in the fistic firmament.

Hamas is the lad who used the prostrate form of Tommy Loughran as a stepping stone to national notice last Friday night at Madison Square Garden, and as a result Mr. Harvey is endeavoring to match his protege with Jack Sharkey next month for the American heavyweight championship, which Sharkey owns, as distinguished from the world championship, which Max Schmeling claims in every State but New New York.

Mr. Harvey, one of the old campaigners in the prize fighting industry, doubtless knows what he is about when he declares Hamas to be ready for such opposition as Sharkey, but the fact remains that the former Penn State College football star has had but 27 professional fights, and in the ordinary scale of the boxing profession is not yet ripe for top-flight matches. Yet Harvey is not the man to rush a fighter along too fast, and his negotiations for a Sharkey match may not be without reason.

This corner remembers when a brash young fellow from South Philadelphia named Tommy Loughran got his start in the fistic vale back in 1926 at Jack Dempsey's training camp at the Atlantic City dog track when the old Manassa Mauler was grooming himself for his first battle with Gene Tunney at the sesquicentennial stadium.

Loughran's deportment as a sparring mate for Dempsey was such that the young Philadelphian took the play away from the world champion. His lightning jabs found an ever-present target in the chin and body of the slow-moving champion. The experts chose to believe that Loughran was the coming master of the boxing art, rather than that Dempsey's decline had set in. But whatever their opinion, the deft-hitting Loughran overcoated Dempsey with punches and forthwith established himself as a new threat in pugilism.

As a light-heavyweight, and later the light-heavyweight champion, Loughran ruled supreme in his class, but his denouement set in when he voluntarily relinquished the title and set his sails for heavyweight competition. The added weight slowed Loughran up. Against Sharkey, the trim, lithe Philadelphia dancing master was a hog-fat, putty-faced 200-pounder, his speed sacrificed for power that he couldn't generate. Sharkey stopped him in two rounds.

When a champion's invincibility is punctured by a younger, more virile lad with loaded fists, there is always the excuse that the champ was a hollow shell, the inevitable shadow of his former self. But Loughran in his sunset days, with the weight billowing loosely about his once-trim frame was merely the broadened shadow of his former self in his last three major engagements.

Sharkey softened Loughran up for King Levinsky and Levinsky passed the favor on to Hamas. At his best, Loughran couldn't punch his way out of a paper bag, but his jabs and his defense defied defeat. Even after Sharkey's victory over Tommy in two rounds, there was the excuse of a lucky punch. But after Levinsky waded into Loughran with both fists flailing like windmills and finding their target, there was no doubt of Tommy's decline.

In Tommy's palmy days Levinsky couldn't have hit Loughran with a spray. He would have impaled himself on Loughran's fists and been outpointed if not stopped by the wearing-down process. Loughran would have given such as Levinsky a boxing lesson long to be remembered. But at 29, Loughran is undeniably through, his chief stock in trade dulled by the ravages of weight.

McMillen Uses Tackle To Defeat Kirilenko

New York, Jan. 18. (A.P.).—Jim McMillen, of Chicago, used a flying tackle and crotch hold to throw Matias Kirilenko, of Russia, in 29 minutes 15 seconds, tonight in the feature event of a wrestling card at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory. McMillen weighed 215, his opponent, 214.

In the semifinal, Sambor Szabo, 205, of Hungary, threw Joe Cox, 210, of Cleveland, in 13:15, with a body and crotch hold.

Daytona Decides Today On Campbell Auto Trial

Daytona Beach, Fla., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Mayor E. R. Armstrong said today the city commission will decide tomorrow whether to invite Sir Malcolm Campbell, British racing driver, to come here for an attempt to break his own world's automobile speed record of 245 miles an hour.

The commission is opposed to the trials because of a shortage of time and curtailed ability to finance the meeting but is awaiting the consensus of citizens before making a final decision.

Walker, Kearns Held for Assault

Red Bank, N. J., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Mickey Walker, former middleweight boxing champ, and his manager, Jack Kearns, today were held in $2,000 bail each on charges of atrocious assault and battery. They will be given a hearing Wednesday.

Walker and Kearns were arrested early this morning at Walker's home in Shrewsbury by State troopers of the Eatontown Barracks after they had allegedly assaulted Earl Winters, 27, attendant at a filling station on the State highway near Red Bank Airport.

NEW YORK HOLDOUTS JOINED BY CHAPMAN, LINDSTROM, WRIGHT

BEN CHAPMAN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Today brought both joy and sorrow, in almost equal portion, to New York baseball magnates engaged in the unusually brisk business of signing up their athletes for the major league campaign. Three new holdouts were added to a mounting list and four contracts were announced as signed during the day.

There was no constructive news from the Babe Ruth-Col. Jacob Ruppert sector, but the Yankees announced the signing of Lyn Lary, their shortstop, while receiving the sad news from Ben Chapman at Birmingham, Ala., that they would have to speak a little louder before he could hear their salary offer for 1932. Chapman, leading base-stealer of the major leagues last year, was offered the same sum he received in 1931 and said he wasn't satisfied.

The Giants, suffering the most acute holdout pains, exhibited the signed contracts of Sam Leslie, reserve first baseman, and Jim Mooney, star recruit southpaw, who came up from Bridgeport late last season to burn up the National League with his fine hurling.

Jackson Satisfied With Terms.

They also received word through the Associated Press from Little Rock, Ark., that Travis Jackson, their captain and star shortstop, was satisfied with the terms offered and was sending back his signed contract.

The Giants' bad news came from Sarasota, Fla., winter home of Freddie Lindstrom, the converted third baseman who played a great game in right field last season until he broke a bone in his foot. Lindstrom said he was asked to take a 25 per cent cut and was joining Bill Terry and Fred Fitzsimmons in the hold-out group.

The Brooklyn club had nothing but bad news—received second hand—to offer. Al Lopez, sojourning at the fishing camp of the club's most famed holdout, Dazzy Vance, announced he was returning unsigned a contract calling for 10 per cent less than the $10,000 he received last year. Vance, who was asked to take a 40 per cent reduction, planned to confer with Max Carey, new Brooklyn manager, before giving his final word on what he considered a fair salary.

Wright Seeks Better Contract.

Glenn Wright, shortstop and captain, also has opened negotiations for a better salary than the club offered. Col. Ruppert, returning to his offices after a week-end out of town, apparently made no move to arrange a conference with Babe Ruth.

"No, no, h-r-ump! Nothing to report! Nothing to report!" he bellowed when asked if he had called Ruth into executive session to discuss that $80,000 for one year, $70,000 for two, contract the Babe wants. The colonel's first offer was $70,000 for one year, a cut of $10,000 under Ruth's 1930 and 1931 checks.

Chisox Sign Sam Jones; No Salary Cuts Planned

Chicago, Jan. 18 (U.P.).—The Chicago White Sox today announced that three pitchers, Tommy Thomas, Ted Lyons and "Sad Sam" Jones, had signed their 1932 contracts. It has been expected that difficulty would arise in signing Thomas and Lyons, who had arm ailments last year which handicapped them. Jones was obtained in a trade with Washington.

The White Sox are one of the few major league clubs which have no holdouts. President J. Louis Comiskey said that no player's salary has been cut because of the depression. Any reduction in salary was caused by the player's 1931 play and his prospects for 1932.

Mike Brady's 67 Tops In Miami Medal Round

Miami, Fla., Jan. 18 (U.P.).—Mike Brady, veteran golf professional from the Winged Foot Club, New York, led a field of 36 ranking pros in the qualifying round of the Miami Country Club professional match play tournament with a 67 today.

Brady's card set a new course record from the back tees, breaking the mark of 68 set by Gene Sarazen during the 1930 Miami open.

Other leaders in the qualifying play were: Jock Collins, Mansfield, Ohio, 72; John Kinder, Caldwell, N. J., 72; Willie McFarlane, Tuckahoe, 72; James Huot, Quebec, 72; Eddie Williams, Cleveland, 72; Bill Melhorn, New York, 73; Jim Dante, Madison, N. J., 73; Charles McAllister, Forest Hills, Long Island, 73; Fred Miley, Lexington, Ky., 73.

D. C. OFFERED NATIONAL SWIM

Helene Madison and Other Stars May Compete Here.

WASHINGTON has been offered the national A. A. U. women's indoor swimming championship meet, the local association of the Amateur Athletic Union was advised at its meeting last night by Daniel J. Ferris, national secretary-treasurer.

The offer, conducted in a letter, was received enthusiastically by the District board of governors who forthwith opened discussion as to the possibilities of staging the event. It was suggested that an attempt be made to secure the Shoreham Hotel pool, scene of numerous aquatic events heretofore, as the scene of the meet, one of the most attractive events of the A. A. U.'s national program.

Meet Would Draw Leading Stars.

It was indicated that the meet will bring all of the leading women swimmers of national fame, including among others Helene Madison, Pacific Coast record-breaker, and Eleanor Holm, New York star. Omalene Lawrence, Washington's contender for national swimming honors, will compete in the meet.

Plans for various championships of local character also were discussed. The District of Columbia indoor swimming meet will be held March 18 and 19 in the Shoreham pool. Entry blanks for this event are now available at Spalding's, 1338 G street northwest, and at the pools throughout the city.

The championship boxing tournament will be held early in April, the exact date being undetermined as yet. Three championship track races—50 and 60-yard dashes and 3-mile run—will be conducted in the Catholic University indoor meet at Brookland, February 27. Plans were announced for sending the District's handball champion to the national tournament if the scene of the event is within a reasonable distance of Washington.

220-Yard Dash Record Equaled by Australian

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—J. R. Carlton, Australian sprinter, equaled the world's record for the 220-yard dash today, covering the distance in 20 3-5 seconds in the Australian athletic championship meet.

Carlton, who was assisted by a slight breeze, won comfortably, 8 yards ahead of Davidson, his nearest competitor. He is 22 years old and one of the greatest sprinters Australia has produced. It is believed here he will have to be reckoned with in the Olympic sprints at Los Angeles.

Lott Choice to Retain Canadian Tennis Title

Montreal, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—George Lott, jr., of Chicago, who has won the Canadian indoor tennis title so many times it virtually is considered his personal property, will open the defense of his own crown tomorrow. Four times champion, Lott is a strong favorite to wade through the field, which includes 11 players from the United States and Canada's leading stars. His first round opponent will be Ernest Savard, of Montreal.

In other first round matches, Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., will encounter J. M. McDougall, of Montreal; Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., meets C. P. Flood, of Montreal; Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., plays Gerald Wayland, of Montreal.

Lott will pair in the doubles with Marcel Rainville, Canadian Davis Cup star. The tournament will continue through Saturday.

British Vote Walker Cup Matches

Uncertainty Was Due to Misunderstanding, Says Body.

U. S. G. A. to Delay Selection of Team; Ouimet Captain.

LONDON, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—The last shred of uncertainty regarding the 1932 Walker Cup matches disappeared today with the announcement by the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, ruling body of golf in Great Britain, that it had accepted an invitation from the United States Golf Association to send over a team this summer.

All the Royal and Ancient had awaited, it developed, was definite word that the United States wanted to play. That was received today in a formal invitation from H. M. Ramsay, president of the U. S. G. A.

Both Sides Were Willing.

A misunderstanding caused the biennial matches to hang fire for several weeks. Both sides were willing, but both were waiting for the other to say the first word. As the matches were due to be played in the United States, the British body felt it had an invitation coming.

Where the 1932 matches will be played, when, and the make-up of the opposing teams are yet to be decided. The Royal and Ancient said today it would proceed immediately to select its team and perfect plans for the trip, but it is believed the U. S. G. A. will delay its team selection for some time in order to see some of the younger candidates in action in the spring tournaments.

Francis Ouimet, veteran United States amateur champion, already has been named to captain his country's team.

Ramsey Names September Date.

Los Angeles, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—The Walker Cup golf match will be played in September, H. H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association, said late today when informed on arrival here that the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews had accepted the bid.

President Ramsay said the exact rules and members of the team, aside from Francis Ouimet, who already has been chosen captain, will be announced following the meeting of the United States Golf Association May 1.

He expressed surprise that there had been any question regarding the holding of the international match next fall.

"We expected an acceptance to our invitation, which was sent out earlier than usual this year because of rumors that the match would not take place because of the present financial conditions in the United States and abroad.

"I don't believe there was any misunderstanding between the Royal and Ancient St. Andrews Club and the U. S. G. as to who should make the first move."

Sol Metzger Dies; Famed in Football

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Sol Metzger, who died in Atlantic City today, is generally credited with introducing modern football in South Carolina.

While he never had a great team during his five years as head coach at the University of South Carolina, he put the sport on a paying basis by making it popular with the fans.

Hornsby to Play This Year, He Says

Hopes Rookies Make Good for Cubs But Will Be Ready for Action.

St. Louis, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Rogers Hornsby still believes he can do the Chicago Cubs more good as a player-manager than he would do directing activities from the bench. Unless some younger man shows that he can do the work more satisfactorily, Hornsby expects to play second or third base for his team next season.

"I still consider myself a player-manager," Hornsby, the great slugger who led the St. Louis Cardinals to a pennant and world championship in 1926, said today when he called at the office of Branch Rickey, business manager of the St. Louis club. "Of course, I can't cover the ground I used to cover. But perhaps I may be able to win more games with my bat than I would lose by my decreased ground-covering ability."

Today's visit was described as purely social and not for the purpose of discussing trading.

Hornsby predicted that Stanley Rick will be the Cubs' regular third baseman and said he had hopes that Billy Herman will be able to fill second base satisfactorily. If either of them falls down, however, Hornsby said he would be ready to take the place.

Protects Status

HELEN HICKS.

U. S. Golf Champion Cancels Radio Talk to Protect Amateur Standing.

New York, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Helen Hicks, national woman's golf champion, today canceled an appearance she was to have made before the microphone tonight in a national broadcast on the grounds that it might impair her amateur standing.

Miss Hicks was to have received no remuneration for her appearance but she learned members of the amateur status committee of the United States Golf Association did not approve of her appearance on a commercial program.

LOYOLA 35-33 VICTOR OVER C. U. FIVE

Second Half Attack of Baltimore Quintet Decides Game.

By JACK ESPEY.

LOYOLA COLLEGE, of Baltimore, scored its second basket ball victory of the season at the expense of a Capital team last night in Brookland Gymnasium when its free-shooting, determined squad of Greyhounds came from behind to defeat Catholic University's Cardinals, 35 to 33, in a contest which kept some 400 fans in an uproar from start to finish.

The Baltimoreans last week rallied late to conquer Maryland University, 28-27, but last night they began earlier the business of throwing off a handicap and emerged the winners in a more decisive manner. Within four minutes after the opening of the second half they had erased a Cardinal lead of 7 points, 19-12, and at one time during the balance of play were ahead by 7 points.

A pair of freshmen, Frank Tanneyhill and Bob Belt, led the Greyhounds' second half onslaught, which ran the gamut of scoring plays, including goals on direct passes under the basket and shots from afar. Tanneyhill, who achieved a game total of 13 points, secured five field goals in this period, while Belt garnered three.

Belt Sinks Two Shots.

Catholic looked like the winner throughout the first half, as Ed White, stellar guard, finding the range from long distance, holed five fielders and negotiated two free tosses. White had a total of 14 points for the game and was the manufacturer of the two most sensational shots of the entire affair. He whipped the netting from the exact center of the court on two occasions, once in each half.

Having led practically from start to intermission, at one stage enjoying an advantage of 16 to 8, the Cardinals were baffled by Loyola's sudden improvement in the second period. Their defense was no barrier to the long-distance shooting of Belt and Tanneyhill, nor to the short-range firing of the latter.

Catholic Gains Early Lead.

Belt sank two pot shots in rapid succession at the start of the second session and Tanneyhill caged three, which with a free toss by Carlin gave the visitors the lead, 23-21, before the Cardinals fully realized the danger in which they had been placed. Cannizzaro, pint-sized C. U. forward, then came through with a short shot to tie the score, but when Carlin passed to Tanneyhill under the hoop, the lead shifted back to the Greyhounds permanently.

Bus Sheary, Catholic's barrel-chested guard, who appeared to be "off" his normal game and therefore was benched for a few minutes, rushed into the fray in the last three minutes to cut down Loyola's margin with a pair of hard scrimmage shots.

The game otherwise was notable for the fine free tossing of both teams. Catholic making good on 11 of 15 chances and Loyola sinking 7 of 10. Neither missed on a total of 13 chances in the first half.

Weiner Seeks Revenge on Gallagher

Baltimorean to Rely on Powerful Left in Bout Tonight.

By JACK ESPEY.

MARTY GALLAGHER will have a weight advantage of from 8 to 10 pounds when he meets Herman Weiner, an old foe from Baltimore, in the feature ten-round bout tonight at Portner's Arena. Consideration of this, together with the fact that Marty has held the old Indian sign over Herman in the past, has led the experts to select the Washington heavyweight as the probable winner. Gallagher weighed 207 pounds following a strenuous workout yesterday.

Weiner, who smashed Reds Barry to the floor for a nine count, in his last appearance at Portner's, is supremely confident, however, that he can stop the Irishman this time. Since losing to Marty twice on knockouts, three years ago, the Baltimorean has acquired a powerful left hook with which he has been scoring many victories, and it is on this particular weapon that he will stake his chances tonight.

The fight is expected to produce lively action from the outset. Gallagher will secure better matches if he can dispose of Herman for the third time, while Weiner is thirsting for revenge.

Weiner's Body To be Target.

Gallagher's weight advantage will stand him in good stead if it lasts the scheduled ten rounds. Marty is essentially a body puncher whose attack is aided by a weight superiority, but he is not as fast on his feet as his opponent and he does not possess as strong a punch. If a knockout is to be the result, the fans may look for Weiner to be the victor.

Eric Lawson, one of the most promising light-heavyweights in the South, will be seen in the eight-round semi-final against Billy Schwartz, Alexandria's pride. This tiff is attracting nearly as much interest as the main event in the nearby Virginia town.

Schwartz, whose popularity never seems to waver no matter how poorly he fares in the ring, is coming back to the wars following a decisive beating two months ago at the hands of Bob Godwin. The Baker boy has been training diligently, helping himself as well as Gallagher in sparring sessions at Mann's Gymnasium, and is said to have strengthened his offense considerably.

Young Firpo Tests Patsy Lewis.

Young Firpo, Navy lightweight champion in 1928, engages Patsy Lewis, hard-hitting Baltimore southpaw, in the main preliminary of six rounds. Firpo bids fair to end Lewis' winning streak, if past performances mean anything. Preceding this bout there will be a pair of four-rounders in which Roddy Davis swaps punches with Babe Truehart, who claims New England prestige as a welterweight, and Marino Marini, local welterweight left-hander, opposes Ray Stoll, also a portsider from Baltimore.

Heinie Miller, of Washington, will referee and render all decisions alone.

Ingwerson to Aid Jones As La. State Grid Coach

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—President James M. Smith, of Louisiana State University, today formally announced that the university had contracted with Burton Ingwersen as associate football coach, and with Emerson W. Nelson as an assistant.

Ingwersen, for seven years head coach at the University of Iowa, and Nelson, former line coach and star at Iowa, will round out the Tiger coaching staff, to be headed by Capt. "Biff" Jones, formerly of the Army.

The salary agreements were not made known. The term of service for both Ingwersen and Nelson is understood to be four years.

Navy Post Grads Play Racquet Club Team

Successful Saturday in their first match of the season, against the Maryland A. C., the Racquet Club's squash team will meet the post graduates of the Naval Academy next Saturday afternoon at Annapolis.

The club's annual championship is now being staged. Results of first-round matches are M. O. Exnicios, defending champion, defeated M. E. Browder, 15-9, 15-4, 18-14; H. G. Moulton defeated B. Goodyear, jr., 15-9, 15-10, 6-15, 15-11; W. N. Goodwyn defeated R. H. Sanger, 15-13, 7-15, 15-10, 15-7; J. M. Gibson defeated A. Minnix by default; T. P. Jeter, junior champion of the club, defeated Corcoran Thom, 15-8, 16-14, 1-15, 15-10.

GERMAN WILL SEEK NEW YORK APPROVAL FOR BATTLE IN JUNE

To Ask Commission to Lift Ban for Title Bout in Summer.

JOE JACOBS.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, the German youngster, who won recognition as heavyweight champion by defeating Jack Sharkey on a foul two years ago, decided today to honor a pledge he made that night—and give the Sharkey man a chance to redeem himself.

Poor attendance at the exhibition matches he has been taking part in, insistent demands that he meet Sharkey, and the refusal of promoters and public to warm to a bout with Mickey Walker, convinced der Maxie that there was only one fistic foe in sight for him.

"I am going before the New York State Athletic Commission at its regular meeting tomorrow," his manager, Joe Jacobs, announced in a printed statement, "and I will inform the members of the commission that Max Schmeling will defend his heavyweight championship of the world against Jack Sharkey in June."

Sharkey Elated at News.

Jacobs has signed no articles for a match with Sharkey and apparently the Boston sailorman had not been informed by Jacobs of Schmeling's decision. When he learned of it from newspaper men he was elated.

In another part of his statement Jacobs said his champion was open to bids from any promoter for the match; that the bout would go to the highest bidder, but that, all things being equal, the preference would go to New York City and the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Shortly after Schmeling defeated Sharkey in four rounds, June 12, 1930, at the Yankee Stadium on a claim of foul, he was suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission and his championship claims revoked when he refused to go through with a return match with Sharkey.

Promised Sharkey "First Revenge."

In the ring, after the title bout, he promised Sharkey "first revenge," and at the commission meeting later he agreed the Bostonian would have the first chance at his strangely won laurels.

Instead Schmeling sailed for Germany without honoring the agreement, and when he returned here last summer it was for a victorious battle with William L. ("Young") Stribling, in Cleveland.

James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, was reluctant to discuss Schmeling's chances of reinstatement in advance of tomorrow's meeting. He indicated, however, the German, his manager and trainers would be reinstated here as soon as they signed articles for the Sharkey go.

When Schmeling again returned to this country a few weeks ago, he insisted that Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion, was the logical heavyweight title contender by virtue of a fifteen-round draw last summer with Sharkey. For a time the match was considered for Los Angeles, Chicago and Miami, but negotiations were finally dropped when it became apparent that there was little chance of it proving a financial success anywhere.

Tried to Take Walker Bout.

"I made every effort to go through with the Walker bout," Jacobs said, "even in the face of half-hearted support from the newspapers and promoters. As manager for Max Schmeling I will protect his interests at all times, and it was only after going to the last extremes and being convinced that there was little to be gained in meeting Walker, and not the money a champion is entitled to receive for defending his title, that I finally passed up the Walker bout in favor of a meeting with Jack Sharkey."

Along with the Walker match went Schmeling's belief that Jack Dempsey would fight again and appear as his challenger.

"Dempsey keeps saying he doesn't know whether he'll ever fight again; not one minute, cold the next," said Jacobs. "We can't get anywhere waiting for him."

"We'll fight Sharkey and lick him in June. If Dempsey comes back then he'll get his chance in September."

JADICK WINS CANZONERI FIGHT

Philly Youth Annexes Junior Welterweight Title in Upset.

Weight Saves Other Crown.

Only Canzoneri's junior welter title was at stake. He still holds his lightweight championship because Jadick weighed over the limit.

Vince Dundee, Baltimore middleweight, won a ten-round decision over Jimmy Smith, of Philadelphia, in the semifinal bout, but Smith gave such a gritty exhibition that the crowd cheered him for several minutes. A swinging right to the jaw knocked Smith through the ropes in the sixth round, but he was able to resume at the count of nine and fought back gamely until the bout ended.

In the three preliminaries of six rounds each Eddie Cool, of Philadelphia, defeated Buster Brown, of Baltimore; Wally Sears, of Minersville, Pa., outpointed Chester Matan, of Brooklyn, and Pete Gullate, of New Orleans, stablemate of Canzoneri, subdued Lew Lafferty, of Philadelphia.

Greenkeepers Body Elects Tom Fischer

Tom Fischer, of Burning Tree, in the Washington district, was chosen vice president, followed by Bill Dunt, Sherwood Forest, secretary, and Dick Scott, Rolling Road, treasurer.

The next monthly meeting of the association, which has 33 members, will be held in Washington.

Princeton Seeks Pop Warner As Football Coach, Is Report

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Glenn Scobey (Pop) Warner, of Stanford, considered by many this country's greatest living football coach, today was reported to be a leading candidate to succeed Al Wittmer as gridiron mentor of Princeton University.

The report, coming from a usually well-informed Princeton man, said that terms of Warner's salary was all that was holding up the negotiations.

Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, athletic director of Princeton, did not deny Warner was under consideration, but said no definite choice had been made.

"The field is still open," Dr. Kennedy said. "Many possibilities have been discussed, including practically every leading coach in the country, but no final choice has been made. I can't say just when the decision will be made."

Warner has said he would like to return East, where he made his reputation as football's leading strategist while coaching the Carlisle Indians and at Pittsburgh University.

Palo Alto, Calif., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Commenting on reports that he was the leading candidate to become football coach at Princeton, Glenn Warner, of Stanford, said today, "It was all news to him." Warner said he had not been in touch with Princeton authorities.

Lake Placid Snow and Cold Encouraging to Olympic Stars

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—A light fall of snow, steadily covering the bare and barren hills about this mountain resort as the day wore on today brought cheer to the hearts of athletes representing seventeen nations planning to compete in the third winter Olympics here February 4 to 13.

At the same time a sharp drop in temperature provided a new coating of ice on Mirror Lake. The local committee planned to flood the interior of the arena again, so that the speed and distance skaters might practice over the Olympic course.

Prof. C. A. Proctor, manager of the American Ski Team, who was afraid last week he would have to name his team without tryouts, said he would run off the preliminaries if enough snow fell. With 6 inches of snow by tomorrow, said Prof. Proctor, who hails from Dartmouth College, the 18-kilometer tryout will take place; if there is not enough snow by that time on Wednesday.

Most of the candidates for the American ski jumping team are at Canton, S. Dak., where the ski jump scheduled for January 17 probably will take place next Sunday instead.

Among the jumpers here awaiting the tryouts are Billings and Harsh, of Denver, Colo., and Lloyd Ellingson St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

Reds Get Nashville Fly Hawk for Gooch

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 18 (U.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds today traded Johnny Gooch, veteran catcher, who was out of baseball last year, to the Nashville Southern Association Team for the release of Joe Cicero, outfielder.

Cicero, who played with Bloomington and Nashville last year, will be farmed out to the Peoria Three-Eye League Club for further seasoning.

Sharkey, Elated, Predicts End of Max in 10 Rounds

Boston, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Jack Sharkey was elated tonight when he learned that Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, was willing to meet him in a title bout in June.

"That's great," Sharkey said. "I am the happiest man in the world. I had almost given up hope that I would ever get another crack at Schmeling. I don't care whether we fight 15 rounds or 50. I'll knock him out in 10 and this time it will be with a punch to the jaw."

Sharkey said he had been doing considerable light training since his bout with Primo Carnera.

"I only weigh 208 pounds now," he said, "and I won't need more than five weeks of strenuous training to get in shape for Schmeling."

Aged Gelding 3-Length Winner

Pennate, Choice, Second, With The Heathen Third.

Dick Morris Lands Sixth in Row at New Orleans.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Uluniu, a 6-year-old gelding, which raced with fair success at Chicago during the summer and subsequently at Jefferson Park in New Orleans, sprang a distinct surprise here today when he romped to an easy triumph in the featured Tallahassee Claiming Handicap of 6 furlongs. Mrs. R. Pollard's standard bearer was the longest priced of the four starters and paid $20.60 for two.

C. V. Whitney's Pennate, the favorite, lost the purse by three lengths. The Heathen was third, another five lengths back and a half length before Peto. Uluniu made the fast time of 1:11 2-5 over a track which remained fast despite early showers. He was ridden by the veteran Charlie Allen, who earned a double, having piloted Lady Broadcast home in the secondary feature.

The Heathen Rushes to Front.

Uluniu broke on top but was quickly supplanted by The Heathen, a speedy 8-year-old. The latter could not shake off Uluniu, however, and succumbed around the far turn when Allen let the long shot have a little loose rein. Pennate was third, while Peto had none of his usual speed. Uluniu let out a wrap in the stretch and gradually drew far clear without serious contention. Pennate overhauled The Heathen after straightening out for the stretch run and was an easy second.

The Western mare, Lady Broadcast, flying the silks of Herbert M. Woolf, was installed a 1-to-2 choice for the St. Petersburg Purse, 1-mile secondary feature, and, under good handling by the veteran, C. E. Allen, was up to beat Raccoon by a neck. The latter beat Dancing Mack by three lengths for second money. Impish and Apple Cart were off poorly and never figured seriously in the running.

Raccoon was first to show and set the pace with about a length's advantage over Lady Broadcast. Allen called on the favorite around the bend and the mare gradually wore down Raccoon, getting up in the closing strides. Dancing Mack always held the show position safe.

Dick Morris won his sixth consecutive victory, five during the winter season, and Angry led a smart field of sprinters over 6 furlongs in the Collyer's Purse. Angry's triumph was his second in as many starts at Jefferson Park.

Both were odds-on-choices, Dick Morris paying $3.80, and Angry, $3.40. In chalking up his sixth straight win, Dick Morris led his field by two lengths over 6 furlongs, stepping the distance in 1:13 3-5. Angry was clocked in 1:13 1-5.

The daily double combination of Orloff and Skidmore paid $198.40 for each $2 ticket.

DARK LOVE, a good two year old actor, broke straight and true and, quick to find her stride, went to the front and was under pressure entire journey. She was driving hard at finish to stall off LUCILLE K. Latter, a keen factor entire journey, hung on with determination under pressure.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ZEGORA, $9.60, $5.30, $4.50; ELIZABETH FOX, $3.00, $2.40; LADY ARA, $88.00.

ZEGORA ran a good, game race, was tip-toed from the break, racing the speedy WESTY'S ROSE into submission and then stood long, hard drive after disposing of latter at top of home stretch. ELIZABETH FOX, under slight restraint for three furlongs, was taken to outside when Kurtsinger made his move and lost ground at top of home stretch. She was gradually wearing the winner down. LADY ARA finished out in the middle of track. WESTY'S ROSE was eased up when she quit.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; allowances. Tampa Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:40½. Off at 3:50. Winner, Herbert M Woolf's ch. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADY BROADCAST, $3.00, $2.30, $2.30; RACCOON, $2.60, $2.70; DANCING MACK, $3.30.

Allen rode a patient race on LADY BROADCAST, waited until well around the far turn before making his effort and, when he did, went to the outside of pacemaker, wore RACCOON down last furlong and was up in the last few strides. RACCOON broke rapidly and raced in hand for six furlongs, faltered last hundred yards when Passero went to the whip. DANCING MACK was a forward contender all the way.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Tallahassee Claiming Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:16½. Off at 4:20. Winner, Mrs. R. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ULUNIU, $20.60, $5.50, out; PENNATE, $2.40, out; THE HEATHEN, out.

ULUNIU, showing a high flight of speed from the start, carried THE HEATHEN off his feet first three-furlongs and had enough in hand to stall off a determined challenge from PENNATE in stretch run. Latter broke slowly, but moved up stoutly on the outside rounding far turn, looked to have the winner beaten at top of home stretch, but bore under punishment. He may have been a bit short.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:45½. Off at 4:52. Winner, J. Parmelee's b. g. (4), by Great Jaz—Flea. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:11 3-5.

SZABO AGAIN IS FOE OF SHIKAT

One of 'Big Four' to Show Thursday at Auditorium.

LOCAL mat fans will see one of Eastern rassling's four drawing cards here Thursday night when Dick Shikat combats Sandor Szabo on the Auditorium mat. Shikat, former champion, forms, with Londos, Steele and the newest importation, Pinetzki, the quartet which heads every show working out of New York, home base of the so-called Curley wrestlers.

He is doubtless the most powerful of the four, somewhat slow, and to all appearance knows more about the grappling business than all the others put together. Although he was an officer in the German navy as far back as the early portions of the war, he still can lift 710 pounds by forming a human bridge, resting on the back of his head and the soles of his feet.

Szabo Lost Previous Match.

Szabo is a young and handsome Hungarian who finishes all but a couple of the game's big shots with a series of flying butts and a patented back drop. Against the best men of the ring he is prone to overdo himself, and land in an orchestra pit. This happened a month ago here when he met Shikat.

In a second feature Thursday night George Hagen meets Herbie Freeman, a bout which very likely will result in a fall. George Calza, the 240 pound Italian who is the handsomest of them all, meets Alex Aberg, a Finn; Matros Kirilenko embroils with Fred Grubmeyer, and Doc Wilson has to do with Bill Lewis, a member of the Turner staff who has broken an established precedent and gone to work.

LEADING EASTERN FIVE FACES TEST IN CENTRAL TODAY

Tech Tackles Western in 2d Game

Coggins' Five, at Best, May Upset Lincoln Park Quintet.

Tech Rated Favorite; 3 Other Scholastic Games Today.

CENTRAL HIGH'S basket team, which has given one brilliant, one mediocre and one very bad performance in its three high school series games, must prove its true mettle today when Eastern, the league leaders, is met at 3:30 o'clock in the first of two series games at Tech Gym. The other game matches Tech against Western.

Central beat Western comfortably, lost to Tech by a decisive 29-15 count, and then ran away from Business, 38-18, the team which beat Tech 28-27 in the opener. In these scrambles, Central hit both ends of the basket ball game, the worst and the best. A victory today over Eastern would give it a tie for first place, the same finish which marked the ending of last year's series.

Two Teams Strong on Defense.

If Central showed its average strength in beating Western then Eastern should take it for a ride today, atop the shoulders of the Northeast school's lanky defenders. The game brings together two good defensive teams, and two better than average shots in Billy Burke, of Central, and Barney Kane, who are leading the series scorers in number of goals from the floor. Eastern's shooting strength is a little better spread, for Bernie Lieb, center; Bones Courtney, forward, and the guards, Baylis and Waters, are first raters, while Central's next best shot seems to be Gene Swift, a guard who has not figured highly in the scoring end of the game this series.

Tech should have no trouble in doing away with Western.

Devitt and Emerson tackle college competition tonight. Devitt plays Georgetown Frosh at 7 o'clock at Tech and Emerson meets George Washington Freshmen at the same time. St. Alban's plays host to Leonard Hall this afternoon.

In an effort to conserve the strength of his players, Coach Chuck Guyon, of Eastern, canceled the scheduled Eastern - Washington - Lee High game which was to have been played yesterday. The team had a light workout at Eastern and were reported in good fettle.

Gonzaga Courtmen Beat G. U. Preps, 26-17

Gonzaga High, whose basket ball warfare has not been very successful this year, got back into a winning stride yesterday in scoring a 26-17 victory over an old rival, Georgetown Prep, at Gonzaga gym.

A determined spurt in the last three minutes of the game drew the winners away from the tenacious defensive play of the Garrett Park crew. The teams entered the second half with Gonzaga maintaining an advantage of one point, 10-9. The clubs were neck and neck until near the end when stellar shooting by Nolan and Fitzgerald overcame the equally fine offensive work of Stewart.

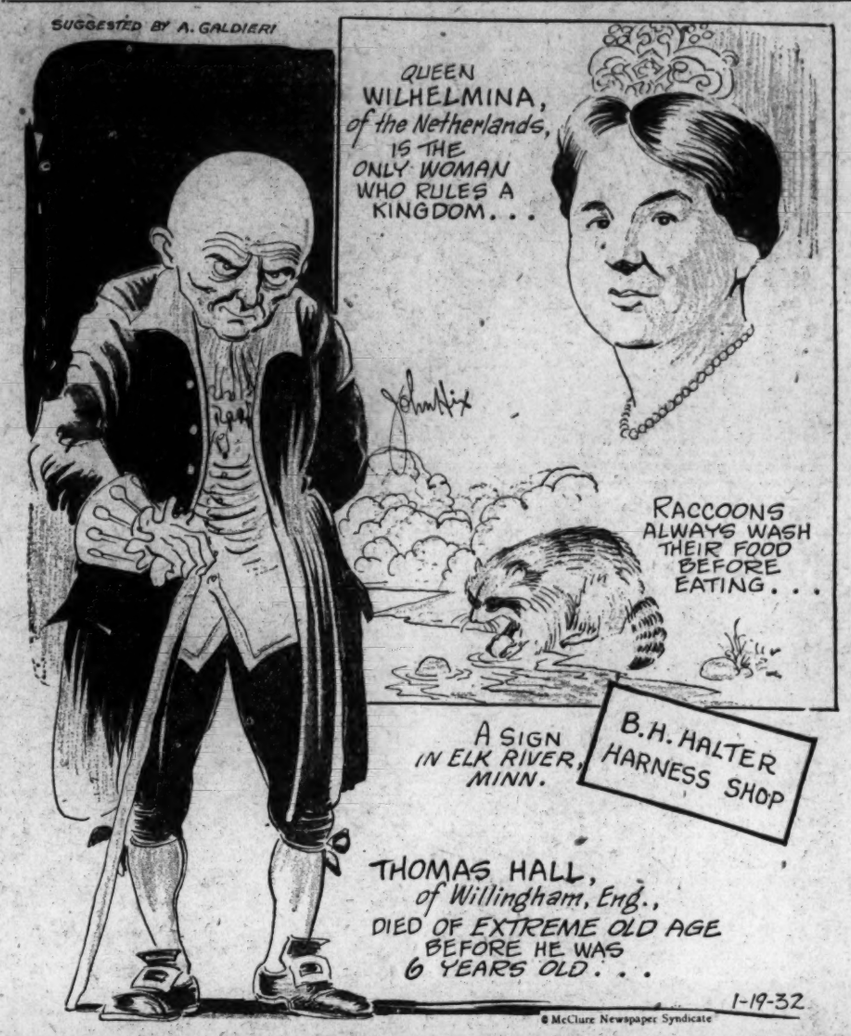
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



THOMAS HALL was the youngest old man that ever lived. He was born in Willingham, near Cambridge, England, in 1741. He died in September, 1747, before reaching the age of 6. His appearance was like that of an old man, his head being completely bald and his face full of wrinkles.

The following inscription, in Latin, was placed on his tombstone:

"Stop, traveler, and wondering know here buried lie the remains of Thomas, the son of Thomas and Margaret Hall, who not 1 year old had signs of manhood; not 3 was almost 4 feet high; endued with uncommon strength, a just proportion of parts, and a stupendous voice; before 6 died as it were of advanced age."

There have been other instances of mere babes becoming aged. The subjects show signs of advanced age when only a few months old.

One of the most interesting cases is that of Charles Charlesworth, who was born in Staffordshire, England, March 14, 1829. Like Thomas Hall, Charles showed signs of maturity at an extremely early age, and had a set of whiskers at the age of 4. At 7 he fainted suddenly and never regained consciousness.

Queen Wilhelmina has another distinction besides that of being the only woman who rules a kingdom; she is senior among the sovereigns of the world. She is now a little past 50, having become queen when she was 10 years old. At that age the young queen used to punish her dolls by threatening to make them queens so that they would have no playmates.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

AFTER burying the hatchet with Paul Harrison, with whom he had been at loggerheads for the past year, Maxie Rosenberg stepped out and rolled a set of 715 in a doubles match with Ray Barnes and Wesley Askew, of Baltimore, following the Howard Campbell Sweepstakes at the Rendezvous Alleys Saturday night. The locals drubbed their opponents in all five games.

Rosenberg's score, which eclipsed the official record of 712, held by George Lang, of Baltimore, comprised games of 164, 149, 127, 128 and 147. He was within 18 points of the three-game record of 458, held by Charley Phillips, of this city.

Had Max rolled the 715 in the sweepstakes instead of 623, he would be leading the race by 50 pins instead of being tied for seventh place, 42 points behind Ed Blakeney, of Baltimore, the present leader. Harrison and Rosenberg also defeated Blakeney and Burt Parsons in two straight before the latter withdrew in favor of Barnes and Askew.

The reconciliation of Max and Paul gives the District of Columbia two of the strongest doubles teams in the field this season. Ollie Pacini and Reds Megaw make up the other. The two teams have already entered into an agreement to meet in the near future and it should be worth while viewing, as Megaw and Pacini were recently beaten by Barnes and Askew almost as badly as the latter couple were taken into camp Saturday night.

Swain and Kibbey took the individual prizes in the first half matches of a double-header rolled in the Federal League at Arcadia. The former had a game of 148 and the latter a set of 412, both of which helped Treasury win all three from Internal Revenue. Treasury took the team honors with a game of 615 and set of 1,795. Shipping Board dropped a pair to Post Office. Veterans Administration took the entire set from G. P. O., Commerce nosed out Public Buildings and Parks, Navy Yard was one better than Navy and Merchant's Fleet swept its match with City Post Office in the other engagements.

Harry Dickson, mainstay of the Grain Team in the Men's Agriculture Economics League, amost turned the Columbia alleys upside down with his spectacular bowling last night. Harry rolled a game of 166 and a set of 437 to lead his team to a clean-sweep victory over the Nomics. His efforts shattered the existing all-time records for the loop. The set mark was within 21 pins of the national record. His mates cooperated with the new record-holder to the extent of hanging up a game of 578 and set of 1,706, the latter a new all-time team record for the circuit.

In the other matches Horticulture and Farm Management won all three from Fruits and Vegetables, and Cooperation took the odd one from Crop Estimate.

In the Ladies' Agriculture Economics League, which also held forth at Columbia, Miss Lefferts won the individual game prize with a score of 112, and Miss McQuinn cashed in on her set of 287. Live Stock garnered the team honors with a game of 453 and set of 1,284 while winning two from Extension Foreign Cooperation and Inter-Division won the odd ones from Cotton, Information and Accounts.

Two records went by the board in the District League at Lucky Strike. Kenneth Thorpe paddled the pins for a set of 433, a new high individual set mark for the year, and the team disposed of the former team set record with a new score of 1,883. Rendezvous did not even come close to winning the match, trailing by 117 at the conclusion of hostilities. The Hams' scores were 663, 608 and 612. Rendezvous' games were 577, 585 and 564. Bradley Mandley helped the winning cause along with a game of 173. Al Fischer salvaged a bit of the Rendezvous honor by rolling a game of 140 and set of 367.

The Fagans dominated the proceedings in the Sanico loop at Convention Hall, winning all three from the Tienckens and mauling the maples for a game of 579 and set of 1,678 while doing so. Downs, one of the Fagan boys, had a game of 143, and Dallas Pratt, of the La Billes, finished with a total of 539. The Upperman's, La Belles and Fosters won the deciding games from the Willis, McFall and Hendrick teams.

King Pin walloped Rendezvous for a 2-to-1 victory in the Ladies' District League at Lucky Strike. The winning scores were 533, 523 and 509. Rendezvous toppled them at the rate of 483, 509 and 538.

Johnson, of Haywood Printing, stole the show in the Typothetae loop at Lucky Strike, rolling a game of 144 and set of 378. The Big Print Shop rolled a game of 631 and had a three-game total of 1,782, but that did not prevent Judd & Detweiler from hanging onto the deciding tilt in their match.

Chas. H. Potter and Craftsmen and Potomac Electrotype won the odd games from Mellichampe and Haywood, and Central Printing and National Publishing won all three from Maxwell Jones in the other matches.

It was a tough night for the official scorer in the Ahepa League at Convention Hall. Louis Chipouras put the existing individual records in the discard with his game of 160 and set of 390, and the Socrates Team hung up a new game mark of 606 and set record of 1,682. Socrates left the Sons of Pericles with nothing but pleasant memories and won all three.

"Heck" Heffner and "Hokie" Smith whacked up the individual honors in the King Pin Business Men's loop last night, "Heck" taking the set honors with his 363, and "Hokie" the game with his 151. The Nationals and Lansburgh No. 1 took the odd ones from Lansburgh No. 2 and National Lithographing, and King Pin No. 2 again made the First Americans last by winning all three. A meeting of the league will be held at the alleys Thursday night at 8 o'clock. All team captains are requested to attend.

Eddie Keith did not roll a 197 game for the National Glass team in the Merchant's League at Convention Hall last night, but it was not his fault that the Glassmen lost two to Penn Electric for he rolled a game of 142. Mike Kapneck marshalled his forces for a concerted drive on Uneeda Bakers and toppled the maples for a set of 362 to win the deciding tilt. Looks as though uneeda some bowlers, Mr. Bakers. Southern Dairies took all the marbles from Thompson's Dairy with a game of 562 and set of 1,650. Thompson's Furniture won all three from W. B. Mossa in the final match.

Pierson, of the Giants, was the big gun in the General Counsel Men's loop at Lucky Strike, cashing in on his game of 157 and set of 381. The Nationals bagged the team laurels with a game of 576 and set of 1,562.

Miss Brown's 117 game and 301 set, which failed to save Civil from a 2-to-1 defeat at the hands of Appeals, topped the scoring in the General Counsel Ladies League at the Strike. Civil also had a game of 444 and set of 1,271. Petitions won a 2-to-1 decision over Penal, and Answers downed Administration by the echo.

Mel Rock, and his Crew-Levick companions, cleaned up in the Petroleum League at Columbia. The pins looked badly battered after Mel had knocked them for a game of 137 and a set of 367. The team came through with a game score of 597 and set of 1,723, to win the big game from Gulf. Chapman and Standard talked Lord Baltimore and Tidewater into the short end of a 2-to-1 score, and American flattened Texas for the 3-count.

Dave Mears' set of 363 and Dick Peacock's 147 game stirred things up a bit in Section 1 of the North of Washington circuit at Silver Spring. Dave helped Silver Spring Electric take the winning game from L. E. Breuninger, but Dick was with the Service Co., which dropped the odd one to Faulkner and Proctor, despite a 612 effort. S. G. P. was one up on Acme Sheet Metal, and the Shade Factory made the Howitzer Giants look like a crowd of Singer's midgets, winning all three with a grand total of 1,709. Kensington forfeited to the Old Timers.

Cunningham's prize-winning game of 121 and set of 344, and Photos' 507 game and 1,485 set were the high spots in the Engineering Reproduction League at Arcadia.

Dick Hargett was best man in the second half of the Federal League's double-header, rolling a 160 game and 410 set. Internal Revenue was awarded the team laurels by virtue of a 652 game and 1,774 set.

Thurnblad, Champ, Wins 3-Cushion Tilt

Chicago, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, opened the defense of his world three-cushion billiards title tonight by defeating Bud Westhus, of St. Louis, Southern sectional champion, 50 to 32, in 65 innings. The champion had a high run of 7, to 4 for Westhus.

Entry Blanks Ready For C. U. Indoor Meet

Entry blanks for the third annual Catholic University indoor track carnival, scheduled February 27 at Brookland, will be distributed today to universities, schools and independent athletic organizations of the Capital area and the entire Atlantic seaboard.

Twenty-six events make up the program which again will be featured by the Ryan Thousand, won last year by Ray Conger, international star. Intercollegiate relays also will occupy a prominent place on the program and indications are that teams for these races will be entered by Navy, Virginia, Maryland, William and Mary, Lehigh, Lafayette and possibly North Carolina and Washington and Lee. Lafayette and Lehigh already have signified intentions of sending teams of from eight to ten men to compete in the various intercollegiate events.

TWO GAMES IN FEDERAL LOOP.

Two games are scheduled in the Federal Basket Ball League tonight. The War Department quintet will meet the Marines in the first game at 8 o'clock and the Department of Labor five will clash with the Pan-American tossers at 9 o'clock. Both games will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gym. The loop was formerly known as the Government League, but from now on will be known as the Federal League.

Handball Marvel Here Today

GEORGE QUAM.

One-Armed Player to Give Exhibitions at Y. M. C. A.

GEORGE QUAM, veteran 42-year-old one-armed handball marvel and singles champion of Minnesota, will play three exhibition singles matches beginning at 5 o'clock today at the Y. M. C. A. The sensational right-armed player will meet Channing Walker and J. B. Payne, District of Columbia A. A. U. doubles champions.

Twice since 1924 he had advanced to the quarter-finals of the national championship. He is known as the father of the game in Minnesota, and last Saturday defeated George Nelson, former United States A. A. U. and national Y. M. C. A. titleholder, 21 to 10 and 21 to 17.

His third opponent today is expected to be a member of Congress.

Quam is a one-armed expert in a two-armed game. He has overcome the astounding handicap of having no "left" by twisting his beautifully formed arm across his body and returning the ball with his open hand, much in the manner of a cramped back-hand drive in tennis. Occasionally he will flip his arm around his back and return the ball in this manner. He is known as one of the hardest hitters in the game.

D. C. Mermaids Do Well In Meet in New York

Washington's representation in the special swimming meet of the New York Women's Swimming Association returned yesterday. Annabelle Whaler, 12-year-old prodigy of the Washington Swimming Club, gained the final round in the 50-yard event for girls under 14. She won two heats. Rita Augusterfer got to the semifinal heat of the big 100-yard free style.

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Sam Parker, Kalamazoo, Mich., and W. H. Fawcett, Breezy Point, Minn., two Class B gunners, led the scoring in the 200-target introductory shoot today, inaugurating the annual mid-winter target tournament here. They broke 196 targets each, shooting at 16 yards. In a shoot-off of 25 targets, Parker cracked 24 against 23 for Fawcett.

Carl Lamprecht, Cardington, Ohio, won the Class D event, scoring 178. Second place went to Dr. R. I. Bellamy, Durham, N. C., with 172.

ANOTHER "PING" PURDY.

E. Griffith (Ping) Purdy, formerly sandlot baseball star and now one of the Capital's leading umpires, is the proud father of a newly arrived infielder.

MILLS APPOINTED MANAGER.

"Rip" Mills, manager of the Oriole Insects, champions of The Pots's Capital City League last season, has been appointed manager of an American Legion team for the 1932 season, and would like to hear from all members of last year's team in addition to any new candidates. Mills' home address is 140 Eleventh street northeast.

Alexandria Fire Five Lists Marines Jan. 27

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Jan. 18.—Manager Robert McDonald, of the Columbia Firefighters court team, has scheduled the Quantico Marines tossers for a benefit game here on January 27, at Armory Hall. Proceeds from the battle will go to the local Fraternal Order of Eagles.

It is proposed to have the Alexandria High five play in the preliminary. McDonald is seeking a game with Eastern High.

The Alexandria High School team will meet the Charlottesville Fives Friday night at Armory Hall. This is one of the feature contests for the locals. The Charlottesville boys defeated the locals in football this past season. This game marks the opening of basket ball relations between the two schools.

The Alexandria Fraters and Virginians clash in the second city loop court game at the Armory on Wednesday night, at 8:15 o'clock.

Navy Ace Is Marked Man in Game Tomorrow.

ELLIOTT LOUGHLIN, comparatively small forward of the Navy Basket Ball Team, is the player most feared by the University of Maryland in the game here Wednesday night that will be the athletic feature of the dedication of Ritchie Coliseum.

Loughlin, who stands 5 feet 11 inches in his sock feet, and who weighs only 150 pounds, is easily the ace of the Middies' aggregation. Loughlin has scored 67 points in Navy's six games, an average of 11 a contest. Last Saturday, against Duke, a good team that Navy had a hard time conquering, he compiled 16 points.

Scored More Than Third of Team's Points.

His total for the season is slightly more than one-third of the entire 196 points registered by his team. Bedell, a guard, is the only Navy player to be even close to Loughlin. He has scored 44 points, in addition to playing a fine defensive game. Both Loughlin and Bedell are juniors.

Loughlin can shoot accurately from any place within feasible range, and is as quick as lightning in avoiding the man guarding him. Maryland must hold him in check if it is to beat the Middies.

Maryland's team showed marked improvement the past week-end in taking the measure of Washington and Lee and V. M. I. in games at Lexington. A particularly pleasing feature was the return to form of Bozie Berger, who had not shown anything approaching the caliber of play that gained him national fame last season.

Maryland had a hard session yesterday in preparing for the Middies, and will merely take a good tuning-up practice this afternoon.

Court Teams Eagerly Await District A. A. U. Tourney

Independent, League and High School Fives Falling in Line for Bicentennial Year Championships.

THE first big sports feature of the George Washington Bicentennial year will be the giant D. C. A. A. U. Basket Ball Championship, to be held at Tech High Gymnasium starting March 1 under the sponsorship of The Post.

That more than 100 teams and 1,000 players will join in the great court competition for District championships in seven different divisions is held certain. Already signed up with Walter Haight at the sports department of The Post is a host of teams ranging from confident little peewee aggregations on the threshholds of great careers in the court game to seasoned old-timers in the unlimited sections. The Quantico Marines, who made a valiant stab for the unlimited championship last year, signified their intention of entering again in March.

High School Teams to Enter.

John Paul Collins, director of athletics in the public high schools, stated last night that participation of high school teams, intact, in the tournament might be expected. Particularly is this expected to be so in the case of high school reserve players. The five high school coaches—Coggins, Central; Boyd, Tech; Woodworth, Business; Guyon, Eastern, and Moore, of Western—annually welcome this tournament as a splendid proving ground for next year's material.

The entire Community Center League, composed of twenty teams, will enter, as will the teams of the District Amateur League, many of the Sunday school and Government league teams, and full volume of independent fives.

Every class of competition, from the veriest beginner to some of the brightest stars in the basket ball firmament are represented. A system of distributing the strength of the tournament, so that the weaker teams will not run up against the stronger ones at first, has been devised by the basket ball committee.

RULE FOR INSERT B

Competition in Seven Classes.

100-pound, 115, 130, 145 and unlimited classes, and girls junior and senior. Entries in the 100, 115 and both women's classes must be in at The Post by February 23. Entries in the 130, 145 and unlimited men's classes must be in February 1, just 13 days. A $2.50 fee will be charged teams in the 100, 115 and 130 pound classes, and $3.50 for the other teams.

Besides the usual A. A. U. awards of trophies and individual medals, the committee will seek to have a special bicentennial award given to the players on every winning team.

All team members must be registered amateurs. Registration blanks for membership in the A. A. U. may be obtained from Charles M. Fyfe, A. A. U. official, at the Boys' Club, Third and C. A charge of 25 cents covers expenses. Boys or girls under 16 do not have to pay.

Maryland Frosh Five Beats Baltimore Poly

Baltimore Poly's Basket Ball Team offered only passing opposition to the rapidly improving Maryland University Freshmen yesterday, and succumbed, 34-21, at College Park.

The switching of Roy Yowell, crack center for Western High last year, to forward visibly aided the Terrapin Yearlings, as did the replacing of Yowell at center by Warren Evans bring quick results. Yowell scored 12 points and held his men scoreless and Evans sank 13 points.

Allen shone for Baltimore Poly. The score was 17-8 at the half.

STOCK PRICES YIELD IN SLUGGISH TRADING

Average Drop on Leaders Is Two Points; Steel Gains in Covering.

New York, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Unwilling to follow the rise in wheat, stocks groped about uncertainly through the greater part of today's dull market, finally selling off in sympathy with the heavy railroad group.

Speculative inerest appeared to have been attracted to wheat, which advanced 1⅛ to 2⅜ cents net; corn, however, was slow. Cotton advanced moderately.

Shares tried to pick up a rally in the early trading, but dealers sponsoring the long side got little response for their pains. U. S. Steel snapped up early 2 points as shorts took to cover, probably because of the premium at which the stock was loaning. There was also a flurry in farm implement issues, the gold mining shares and the New York City tractions. Carrier equities, however, were sluggish and their stubborn refusal to rise finally led to increased offerings in other sections of the list.

Stimulus Is Needed.

The market plainly wanted a stimulus. Some brokers believed that final enactment of the reconstruction finance bill, or an actual agreement on railroad wages might provide the necessary dash of encouragement, pending which stocks would be left to their own devices. Wall street has had its heart set so strongly on the probability of a cut in carrier employes' pay that the delays at Chicago have caused impatience in speculative quarters, however smooth the progress of the negotiations.

Principal stocks averaged nearly 2 points lower in a turnover of only 1,383,940 shares. Steel common lost all of its rise. American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, New York Central, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio were down 2 to 2¾, while Du Pont, Woolworth, Case, American Tobacco "B," Pennsylvania and Loew's closed with losses of about a point.

Alaska Juneau and Homestake were up 2¼ and 5¼, respectively. American Sugar made another new low on a drop of several points.

No Gold Shipped.

Contrary to expectations, based on recent strength of foreign exchanges, no withdrawals of gold for immediate shipment were reported, and earmarked stocks decreased $600,000. Several foreign exchanges firmed for a time, but later eased. Wall street, nevertheless, is rather looking for a resumption of gold exports to France, although it has been understood that the movement might be gradual, causing little or no disturbance.

Removal of gold already under earmark does not affect America's supplies, since those stocks, now believed to total around $400,000,000, have already been eliminated from the monetary total.

The boom in wheat was fostered by strong foreign markets. European buying of futures and a lighter visible supply. Factors in corn's narrow gains were small receipts at Chicago and firm cables. Cotton's advance ranged from 25 to 50 cents a bale.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Speculation for a successful outcome of reconstruction finance measures at Washington appeared to be chiefly responsible. Houses with Eastern affiliations were conscientious in their purchasing movement, despite relative weakness of the stock market.

Wheat reacted somewhat from the day's top as a result of profit taking on a big scale and closed nervous, 1½@2½ up from Saturday's finish, corn ⅞@1⅛ advanced, oats unchanged, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Soaring of wheat prices began as soon as trading opened, and there was but little let-up in buying power at any time thereafter, even when the market receded in the face of heavy selling to collect profits. Some observers were inclined to believe persistent rumors of an Eastern bull pool alleged to have been formed to acquire wheat and other commodities likely to be stimulated by adoption of finance reconstruction act at Washington. However, to the surprise of many traders, indication developed that European demand for wheat was following the price bulges here.

Evidence at hand showed that some United States hard winter wheat was bought today for shipment overseas from Atlantic ports, and there were purchases, too, of Canadian durums to go to Germany. Meanwhile, word of 8,704,000 bushels increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage to importing countries was virtually ignored and was partly offset by 2,612,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply. Apprehension continued as to possible serious damage to domestic winter wheat in the event of a sudden drop in temperatures.

Corn and oats averaged higher, responsive to wheat strength, but otherwise were disposed to drag.

Closing indemnities: Wheat — March, 60¾; May, 59¼@59⅝; July, 62¼@62⅝; July, 58⅝, 61⅝; September, 60¼. Corn—May, 41¼@41⅜, 42½@42⅝; July 42⅝, 44¼.

Cash grain:

WHEAT—No. 1 hard, 60; No. 1 Northern spring, 70; No. 2 mixed, 59½.

BOND MARKET SAGS IN DULLER TRADING

Federal Issues Fight Decline, as Liberty Loans Gain; Sales $13,843,000.

New York, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—The bond market had a moderate sinking spell today, and virtually all classes of securities recorded losses in varying degrees.

Only United States Government obligations put up a relatively strong resistance and most of them closed fractionally higher. Two of the Liberty loans sold slightly lower, however.

The decline was orderly throughout except that the low-priced railway mortgages were in abundant supply in the final hour of trading. The average drop in 20 selected carriers was 1 1-10 points. The dullness of the market was shown by the fact that sales of all listed bonds totaled but $13,843,000.

The somewhat protracted wage reduction conference in Chicago between executives and union leaders had a depressing effect on the transportation mortgages.

Foreign loans sagged, rumors of probable moratoriums in some middle European countries unsettling the list. Argentine issues lost some of their recent substantial advances and Uruguay 6s gave up 4 points. German government 5½s slumped 2¾ points, and the 7s lost 1½. German corporate bonds were from 1 to 4 points lower. British 5½s eased 1⅛ points and Canadians were easy. On the other hand, Japanese loans were strong. Oriental developments gaining from 2½ to 5¾ points.

Industrial and utilities held up fairly well, the majority closing with only minor losses. Communications liens were soft, for the most part, although Western Unions were somewhat higher. New York Traction bonds registered gains. Gas and electric listings were quiet.

BANKS REPORTED CLOSED.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—The First National Bank of Champaign, which listed deposits in the recent bank call at $5,116,951, was voluntarily closed today by its directors. A smaller State bank, the Commercial, took similar action. Officers of the First National Bank said they hoped to effect a reorganization soon. N. M. Harris is president and H. S. Capron, treasurer of the University of Illinois, is one of the vice presidents.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Officials of the First National Bank of Durham announced early today that the institution would not open its doors for business today.

The bank had a capital and surplus of $1,000,000. The officers said that at the close of business Saturday the total deposits were approximately $3,500,000. W. J. Holloway is president of the bank.

Pineville, Ky., Jan. 18 (A.P.).—The Bell National Bank here, with deposits of approximately a half million dollars, failed to open today, a notice pasted on the door of the institution said the bank has been closed for the protection of depositors, who probably would be paid in full.

Heavy withdrawals during the past few days caused the directors to close the bank. The closed institution has a capital stock of $100,000.

DAILY GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Today's gold transactions resulted in a gain of $2,500,000 in the country's monetary stock, according to the New York Federal Reserve Bank statement. There was a decrease of $600,000 in gold under earmark for foreign account and $1,900,000 was received at Chicago from Canada.

Berlin, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—The Reichsbank's gold coverage went up seven-tenths of 1 per cent as of January 15 in spite of a loss of about 20,000,000 marks in gold and foreign exchange. Note circulation was reduced 193,000,000 marks. The coverage was 25.6 compared with 24.9 the previous week.

JANUARY 19, 1907.

The Confederate and Southern Societies meeting at the Willard have paid tribute to the life and work of Robert E. Lee on the centennial of his birth.

It is reported that more than 25 persons are dying daily in Kingston from injuries received in the recent earthquake.

Negotiations between the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough concerning their separation have practically been completed and the case has been kept out of the London papers in order that unfavorable comment regarding the royal family will not be made.

Nineteen were killed last night at Terra Haute, Ind., in a train wreck on the Big Four. The accident is believed to have occurred when a car containing powder exploded, derailing the flyer.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

NURSERY RHYMES FOR THE TAX DELUGE.

Mary, Mary, bankrupt very,
How does your garden grow?
With levies steep and imposts deep
And surtaxes all in a row.

* * * *

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise;
He figured up his income tax
And told a lot of lies.
But when he made the payment he
Was most surprised, forsooth,
To find it cost him all he had—
As if he'd told the truth!

* * * *

By Baby Bunting,
Daddy's gone a-hunting
To see if he can ever make
A cent the government won't take.

* * * *

Old King Cole was a merry old soul,
And a merry old soul was he;
He called for his books and accounts as a whole—
And he went into bankruptcy.

* * * *

Jack Spratt stopped often at
The gas pumps near and far,
But when he learned the gas tax he
Just let them keep the car!

* * * *

To market, to market to fill up the tank;
Home again quickly to rob baby's bank;
To market, to market to buy me some gas;
Home again, home again, letting it pass.

Jack and Jill
Went up a hill
To pay their income taxes;
Both fell down when done so brown
And broke their little backses.

* * * *

Mary had a little coin—
It wasn't very much;
But everywhere that Mary went
Somebody made a touch.
Then Mills and Mellon came along
And made her troubles end;
For since she met those boys she has
No money she can lend.

THE NERVE OF SOME PEOPLE.

It is reported that what particularly angered Babe Ruth when he got that contract for $70,000 for one year was that Col. Ruppert did not inclose a stamp for its return.

A. J. H. reports that Joe Cook, in view of the present scandal on the island, has ceased imitating four Hawaiians.

A SAD CASE.

Gov. Roosevelt is out to double gasoline, income and stock transfer taxes. The State, it seems, should have been included among the 100 neediest cases.

After reading the judge's charge to the jury in that Hawaiian case, Elmer Twitchell marvels that the jurors didn't sentence the victim to prison and award the gangsters damages.

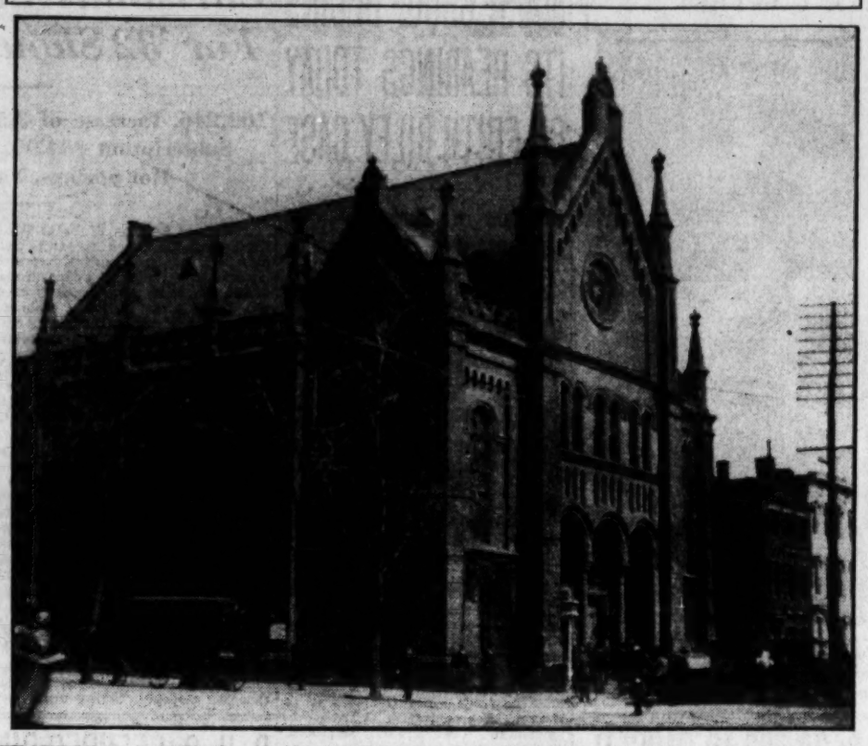
When Washington Was Younger—No. 168



FOUNDRY M. E. CHURCH, a familiar sight to those who have traveled Sixteenth street northwest during the last 25 years, was not always located on the same site.

This photo shows one of three Foundry M. E. Churches which stood at the corner of Fourteenth and G streets northwest, where the Colorado Building now rises in the business district.

There is an interesting history behind this largest of Methodist churches of the District. It was organized in 1814 and the first structure was erected and presented debt free to the congregation by Henry Foxhall. Mr. Foxhall organized the church and called it Foundry M. E. because he believed that a Kind Providence had preserved his gun foundry in Georgetown when the Capitol and White House were burned by the invading British troops.

Mr. Foxhall had previously been very generous to the causes of the church while residing in Georgetown, presenting a parsonage to the society to which he belonged. Notables of the time, including John Quincy Adams, Gouverneur Morris and Francis Scott Key were frequent visitors at his home. Guns from his foundry were used by Commodore Perry in the Battle of Lake Erie. Mr. Foxhall died in 1823.

3 CITIZENS' GROUPS JOIN PROTEST OVER MAPES' TAX PLANS

CURB UPON AUTO HORNS AFTER MIDNIGHT ASKED

Proposed Increased Levies on District Declared Unfair to Capital.

Three more citizens' associations yesterday got behind the weight of opposition that is being rolled toward the Mapes taxation bills. They are the Dupont Circle Citizens Association, the West End Association and the Progressive Citizens Association.

The Dupont Circle Association adopted a resolution, opposing the proposed legislation "in its present form." One member dissented, expressing the opinion that the Mapes bills "constitute as sound taxation as the District can hope to get." Another member quoted a representative as stating that if the people of Washington "don't like being taxed they can get out of the Capital."

The association also directed a protest against the sounding of automobile horns between midnight and 7 o'clock in the morning. A resolution was adopted asking the District Commissioners to establish an ordinance forbidding the sounding of automobile horns during the early morning hours.

The members contended that there is no reason for using horns during this period, as there are few pedestrians. Paris, France, it was pointed out, has been made one of the quietest cities in the world through the elimination of the use of automobile horns during the early morning.

Demarest Lloyd Reelected.

Demarest Lloyd was reelected president of the association. Rear Admiral William Ledyard Rodgers was elected vice president; Mrs. Henry W. Watson, second vice president; Maj. Clayton E. Emig, third vice president; Frank C. Baldwin, secretary, and T. H. B. McKnight, treasurer. Maj. Emig and Col. E. G. Bliss were elected delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Mrs. L. B. Swormstedt addressed the association on the Community Chest, and refuted a number of stories criticizing the Chest.

Following a talk from J. A. Arnold, of the Taxpayers League, the association adopted a motion asking Congress to make a scientific study of the sales tax idea in evolving a tax for the District. The meeting was held in the Pan-American room of the Mayflower Hotel.

West End Association.

The West End Citizens Association attacked the Mapes bills in three separate resolutions, one opposing the spirit in which the legislation "was rushed through the House"; a second opposing interference with the 60-40 organic law and a third asking for a citizens' hearing before committees of Congress before a tax law is made.

The association also voted to carry on with its fight for larger school facilities, to replace or enlarge the present Grant School. Appeals will be made to the District Commissioners, and to Congress, it was announced. A resolution was adopted opposing the bill which would give the District tax assessor power to appear in court as a witness in condemnation proceedings. The Federation of Citizens Association has acted against this measure.

Progressive Citizens Act.

Opposition to the Mapes bills was also voiced in resolutions adopted by the Progressive Citizens Association. Taxes should not be raised in the District, it was contended, while the National Government is constantly acquiring more land in the District and giving Washington a lower appropriation. The association also opposed the bill which would give power to the District tax assessor to appear as an expert witness in condemnation proceedings. Mrs. Leon Arnold, president, presided.

Opposition to passage of the Mapes bill was voiced last night at a meeting of the Public Interest Association of Northeast Washington, held in Calvary Parish Hall, through a series of resolutions which will be forwarded to Congress. The association also went on record as opposed to any proposition calculated to cut salaries of Federal employes.

Interfederation Moves To Join Mapes Bills Fight

After hearing a committee's analyses of the five Mapes tax bills, the Interfederation Conference last night, meeting at the United States Chamber of Commerce, voted to cooperate fully with its three member bodies in preparing valid objections which will be presented to the District committee of the Senate.

The conference, which represents federations of District, Montgomery County and Arlington County civic groups, also voted to make a study of the bills in their phases which affect the Greater Washington area in its entirety.

Stephen James, of Silver Spring, Md., was named chairman in the annual election. Edwin S. Hege, of Washington, and William C. Hull, of Cherrydale, Va., were elected vice chairmen. E. L. Bennett, of Clarendon, Va., was made secretary-treasurer.

On motion of Frederick P. Lee, of Edgemoor, Md., committees were named to consider the Senate bill which provides for the establishing of a commercial airport in the District, and to determine the federation's viewpoint on backing a move for the complete grading of Eastern and Western avenues.

Dry Reform Plan Told To Lincoln Park Citizens

A talk by Mrs. Wayne Wirgman, of the National Women's Prohibition Reform, and an entertainment of songs, dances featured a meeting last night of the Lincoln Park Citizens Association.

Those appearing on the program were Audrey F. Brown, piano solos, and Miss Vivian June Kern, dances. L. R. Tindall was appointed chairman of a membership drive committee.

THREE JOBLESS MEN ARE VICTIMS OF GAS

Two Are Dead and Third Is in Walter Reed Hospital; Two War Veterans.

Three men, all jobless for varying lengths of time ranging up to fourteen months, were found overcome by gas fumes in their respective homes yesterday and last night. Two of the men were past aid. The third is in an undetermined condition at Walter Reed Hospital, for he, like one of the dead men, was a veteran of the World War.

Those dead were Frank Raymond Haidinger, about 35 years old, living for the last three weeks at a rooming house at 211½ Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and Michael McGlinn, about 42 years old, living for the same length of time at 226 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Dead Some Hours.

The surviving gas victim is William J. Dixon, 32 years old, of 1465 Columbia road northwest.

Haidinger's body was discovered, swathed in blankets, with a tube from a gas jet running underneath the shroud, according to police. Another roomer, Joseph F. Pruitt, smelled the gas about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and called police. Haidinger had been dead some hours. He left a note saying he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Haidinger, but did not give their address. Another note said his nearest relatives were Judge Albert Haidinger, of Bogota, N. J., and William M. Haidinger, of 253 De Mott avenue, Clifton, N. J. The relationship was not mentioned in the note.

McGlinn's body was found by Mrs. Emma Galloway, rooming house operator, when she entered his room with a pass key to find out why he had not been seen all day.

Father in Ireland.

The windows were down and gas was flowing from a burner in the corner. McGlinn's father is believed to live in Ireland, and other relatives are Peter McGlinn, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Pearl McGlinn, of Chicago.

Mrs. Galloway told police McGlinn said he had been out of work for about a year. He also said he had $8 weekly compensation from the Government for his service in the war.

Weary of "putting up a front," after he had been out of work for fourteen months, Dixon turned on the gas, he told police, when he had been revived at Casualty Hospital. His wife, employed at the Treasury Department, found Dixon unconscious in a room at their apartment with a tube from the gas jet leading under blankets wrapped around his head, according to police.

Woman's Death by Auto Is Declared Accidental

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Mary Henson, 72 years old, of 114 Quincy place northeast, who died from injuries suffered when she was struck by an automobile on January 9.

The accident occurred at Eckington place and R street northeast and the car was driven by William M. Collins, 18, of 422 Twelfth street northeast. Mrs. Henson died at Gallinger Hospital Sunday.

Man Injured in Fall 7 Floors Down Shaft

Alto Lee Willis, colored, 42 years old, of 1021 First street northwest, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he fell seven floors down an elevator shaft at the new House Office Building.

Willis was working on the shaft when he slipped and fell. He was removed to Providence Hospital and treated for a possible fractured spine, possible internal injuries, and lacerations of face and hands.

Youth on Way To Range Fires Shot in Foot

Frank Shah, 15 years old, 1419 Van Buren street northwest, decided that his old trigger finger needed some practice yesterday so he borrowed father's .25 automatic and started for the neighborhood shooting range.

He absent-mindedly forgot to take his finger off the trigger as he slipped the pistol into his pants pocket. Result—one badly burned pair of pants and a bullet in his foot.

He was treated at Walter Reed Hospital and removed to the office of his family physician, Dr. Paul Putski, 2015 Q street northwest. Later he returned home.

BANK AND TRUSTEES WIN APPEAL IN SUIT

Court of Appeals Reverses Lower Branch in White Claim of Fraud.

The District National Bank and Norman L. Sansbury and John F. Maury, as trustees, yesterday gained in the District Court of Appeals a reversal of a District Supreme Court verdict in favor of L. Gibbon White.

White, real estate operator and builder, transferred his equities in several properties to the two trustees who were to administer it in the inteerst of creditors. The income from the properties conveyed to the trustees was insufficient to meet amortizations and interest payments and the properties were sold.

The suit was brought by White, who claimed that he had been defrauded, and that his indebtedness to the bank had been satisfied by the conveyance of the property to two trustees. The Court of Appeals found that there had been no fraud, and that the whole matter should be referred back to the court auditor with the direction to enter a decree for the bank for the amount found by the auditor to be due it under losses sustained when the foreclosures failed to meet the trusts on the various properties.

The court said "there is a complete lack of evidence impugning the good faith of the trustees or the officials of the bank."

Boy 3, Sounds Alarm In Mother's Poisoning

The 3-year-old son of Mrs. Frances Herrendon, 28 years old, of 1121 Twenty-fourth street northwest, gave the alarm last night when he discovered his mother in a serious condition after she allegedly had swallowed a quantity of poison.

The boy, Allison, went into the bedroom and found his mother in a semiconscious condition. He ran screaming into the hall. His cries were heard by Mrs. Edith May, another resident of the apartment house. She called the fire rescue squad and the Emergency Hospital ambulance. Mrs. Herrendon was taken to the hospital, where her condition is grave. She had been in ill health for some time, police were told.

Joseph De Palma, a former policeman attached to the prohibition squad at Police Headquarters, was given a 60-day jail sentence and a $200 fine yesterday in Police Court when he appeared before Judge Gus A. Schuldt following his conviction in December of liquor law violations.

Contributions received by the special gifts unit of the Community Chest campaign committee are well past the half million mark, according to figures made public at the report meeting of that unit at the Willard yesterday. The chairman congratulated the special gifts unit on the excellent work they are doing, and praised Chairman Clarence A. Aspinwall for the manner in which he had organized the unit.

Injured Man Arrested; Hit 5 Cars, Police Say

Robert Trotter, 21, 4407 Seventeenth street northwest, was arrested last night and charged with failing to stop after an accident. He was treated for lacerations at Garfield Hospital before being escorted to the Tenth Precinct Police Station House.

Police say Trotter was the driver of an automobile which played havoc with parked cars in the vicinity of Mt. Pleasant and Lamont streets northwest. The automobile sideswiped five parked cars in the course of a two-block drive, police say.

HOUSE GROUP BEGINS ITS HEARINGS TODAY ON EDITH RILEY CASE

Officials of Three Welfare Units Are Called for This Afternoon.

BOWMAN WILL APPEAR BUT ASK NO QUESTIONS

Any Having Complaints to Make Against Agencies Will Be Heard.

Officials of three local welfare units will have some explaining to do this afternoon, when a special congressional subcommittee confronts witnesses from the Juvenile Court, Women's Bureau and Public Welfare Board with charges of neglect in the Edith Riley case.

Chairman Mary T. Norton of the House District committee was given permission of the House yesterday to hold hearings while Congress is in session. Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, chairman of the subcommittee, immediately ordered hearings at 2 p. m. today. Ordinarily, a rule of the House bars committee sessions after Congress convenes at noon.

Riley Case to Be First.

Chairman Palmisano announced he would open with the Riley case. Afterward anyone having complaint against local welfare agencies will be given a chance to be heard. Several complainants are known to have applied at his office yesterday for this privilege.

Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, whose resolution demanding a welfare inquiry is before the subcommittee, will attend the meeting. He has more than a score of complaints; two or three of the more serious he may place before the subcommittee today.

Bowman, who was opposed to calling witnesses from the welfare agencies, has indicated he will have no questions to ask those notified to appear today. Palmisano said last night he will examine them if Bowman fails to do so. Bowman is expected to demand that his resolution be reported back to the full District committee, which he desires to undertake a more sweeping inquiry.

Objection to Inquiry.

Objection to investigation of this character, while welfare agencies are raising funds to finance their year's work, has been raised by some members of the District committee. One proposal would ask the House for permission to conduct a secret inquiry, with hearings closed to the public, such as that undertaken by the Mapes committee.

Witnesses asked to testify today include Mrs. Mary Bayles, chief probation officer of the Juvenile Court; Miss Jeannette Ezekials, head of the Juvenile Court inquiry department; George S. Wilson, director of the Board of Public Welfare, and Sergt. Rhoda Milliken, of the Women's Bureau.

2 Persons Hurt in Falls In Downtown Buildings

Two persons were injured yesterday in falls as they followed their daily pursuits. Louis Hartman, 73 years old, a salesman, is in an undetermined condition at Emergency Hospital after falling down a flight of stairs in the Colorado Building, 1341 G street northwest. His head struck a concrete floor.

Paul G. Raucher, 24 years old, of 1113 Park place northeast, an employe of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., fell from a ladder while fixing wires at a G street department store. He was taken to Emergency Hospital. He suffered possible fractures of the hip and elbow.

Attacker of Marathon Dancers Is Fined $60

An attack on two former members of the marathon dance group at Washington Auditorium yesterday cost Clarence Swartz, 23 years old, $60 when he was tried before Judge Ralph Given in police court.

Swartz was charged with attacking Lester Phipps, 1126 Tenth street northwest, and Miss Gladys Trice, 2726 Thirtieth street northwest, while the couple, who had withdrawn from the contest last week, were dancing outside the area occupied by the marathon dancers. There were two charges of assault and one of disorderly conduct against Swartz.

Christmas Savings Clubs of Washington, which closed for this year's memberships on Saturday, represent a total in deposits of approximately $8,800,000, or a gain of nearly $206,000 above those of 1931. This was shown in a report on this year's clubs submitted to the District of Columbia Bankers Association at its midwinter meeting last night at the Willard Hotel by Eliot H. Thomson, chairman of the association's advertising committee which promotes the Christmas clubs idea.

The report revealed that 102,246 Washingtonians have joined the clubs of 32 reporting banks, an increase of 3,547 above the number enrolled for 1931. The total amount subscribed also compares favorably with the previous year and exceeds $8,500,000, last year's record high, the gain for this year being $205,165. The average subscription per member is $84.90, which exceeds the country-wide average of $52.50 reported by Christmas Club, Inc., national sponsor of the movement, by $32.50.

Resolutions were passed expressing disapproval of the proposed Mapes taxation measure, urging unity with other bodies seeking retention of the 40-60 fiscal relations arrangement between Federal Government and the District and providing for appointment of a special committee to act with groups having this objective.

P. U. C. REFUSES BUS ROUTE PLEA OF MAY

Declines Shuttle Coach Plan; Thomas R. Tate Named Valuation Engineer.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday denied the application of R. L. May, owner of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway, to operate his shuttle buses north of Pennsylvania avenue along the E street route now used by his local buses. The shuttle cars, which connect with the electric cars at Highway Bridge, will have to follow the Pennsylvania avenue route used by the same line's express buses, Mr. May indicated he may contest the ruling in court.

Again adding to its valuation staff, the commission appointed Thomas R. Tate, formerly of the Trojan Engineer Co., of New York, as valuation engineer. The staff has been considerably enlarged within the past few weeks because of the large increase in valuation work under way and proposed.

Approval was given to the requests of the Capital Traction Co. to buy six new parlor coaches for replacement on the Chevy Chase Line and of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to remodel four of its two-men cars.

The petition of the school for pages on Capitol Hill to be included in the privilege of using the 3-cent school fare was denied. Upon the request of the Capital Traction Co., the commission approved the discontinuance of the extension of the F and G street bus line to Fifteenth street, so as to serve the Department of Commerce. The extension, which was authorized only last month, was said to be not profitable.

Petitions were received from the Central Business Men's Association and the Center Market Dealers Association asking that free transfers between the two street car lines be authorized at Fifteenth and G streets and Seventh and G streets.

Man Saved From Train Sent to Jail as Drunk

The railroad tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad looked too inviting for Arthur Kelly, 35 years old, who proved unable to resist their lure as he felt a nap coming on.

Pulled off the tracks just as a through passenger train was about to mangle him, Kelly was brought into court and sent to jail for 25 days on a charge of intoxication. Policeman J. C. Baum told the judge that Kelly seemed to be enjoying his nap with a train less than 200 yards away, which to the mind of the policeman seemed to be carrying the sleep idea too far.

Court Rules Will Of Berman Upset

The action of a jury in the District Supreme Court in upsetting the will of Benjamin Berman, who died June 21, 1929, was sustained by the Court of Appeals in a decision rendered by Justice D. Lawrence Groner yesterday.

The jury found that Berman was of unsound mind when he made a will disposing of some $50,000 and which cut off his four children with $1 each. The money had been left in the will to the widow, who, according to the decision of Justice Groner, was hopelessly insane, and at her death it was to go to five Jewish charities.

James B. Flynn and S. J. L'Hommedieu, appearing on behalf of the children, argued that the will should not be sustained because of the charges of unsound mind on the part of Mr. Berman when the document was made.

WITNESS SUPPORTS STORY OF BRUTALITY

Barber Says Williams, Who Accuses Police, Had Bumps on Head.

Testimony tending to corroborate the story told by Thomas McKeever Williams, 17-year-old colored boy, that he and four of his companions were beaten by Policemen Charles R. Bremerman and Hollis H. Clark, last summer, was heard by a jury of twelve men in the court of Justice F. D. Letts yesterday.

Louis Peewee, colored barber, who was identified by Williams as the man who cut his hair following his release on bond, told the jurors that there were a number of bruises and bumps on Williams' head when he saw him.

Questioned by John R. Fitzpatrick, Assistant United States Attorney, Peewee said that he did not know how Williams got the injuries. It was shown that Williams' visit to the barber was shortly after his release.

Much greater progress was made in the case yesterday than in previous days of the trial. Five witnesses were put on the stand and had told their stories when court recessed. The previous rate was one witness a day.

Government counsel said yesterday that they expected to conclude their side of the case by tonight. Attorneys James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett, appearing for the accused policemen, are prepared to start the defense testimony as soon as the government rests.

Clark and Bremerman are being tried on an indictment that charges them with assaulting Williams on three different days. The alleged beatings were administered in an attempt to gain confessions about some petty crimes in the neighborhood of Second and K streets northwest.

Decision Reversed After Rail Appeal

A decision of District Supreme Court in dismissing a writ of mandamus, filed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, the Boston & Providence Railroad, the Old Colony Railroad Co. and others to force the Interstate Commerce Commission to include in its valuation figures for those roads the proportionate share of the roads in terminals in the Grand Central Terminal and its approaches, in New York City, and the South Station in Boston, was reversed by the District Court of Appeals yesterday.

In a decision by Chief Justice Martin, the opinion was expressed that it was error to dismiss the mandamus writ that would compel further testimony concerning interests of the railroads in the two stations. The companies asked for inclusion of these properties because their rates would be affected if the two properties were not included in the valuations.

The decision did not go into the actual valuation. It simply reversed the order dismissing the mandamus so that the case can be reopened in the commission which is to make a finding.
